BIG 3 TO STUDY IDEA OF MAKING GERMANY WEAK

International Rule of Rhineland Seen.

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP).—An American official tonight placed at the top of the agenda of the forthcoming "Big Three" parley the question of an agreement on a political and economic pattern to guarantee the military impotence of Germany.

What specific proposals President Roosevelt may have to present to Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin when they meet were not mentioned.

The implication was left that some form of international administration of the Rhineland industrial areas has the support of some American official circles.

French May Be Consulted.

Major preparations for the conference were stepped up here. There was no indication whether Gen. De Gaulle had been invited to attend—the French news agency broadcast that it was possible no decision had been reached. There was strong evidence, however, that the French government will be consulted in advance of the meeting.

Without discussing French participation in the parley, the official made it plain that the United States regards French participations in post-war settlements as essential to enduring peace.

In a guarded discussion of the projected meeting the official emphasized the thorny post-war political and social problems of all Europe. The statement was made that many decisions necessarily may be disillusioning to the American public because of the impossibility of achieving a joint program among the three great allies—four if France is included—which will fit the pattern of an American ideal.

U. S. Has an Interest.

The United States was said to have a definite interest in the all-European settlement and its own policy on vital matters, but the allied decisions necessarily will be reached on the basis of a realistic agreement to compromise differing views.

Moscow also speculated over the parley with an English language broadcast on the Russian plan for Germany. The broadcast said of Hitler that "every one is strongly determined to put this homicidal maniac inside a strait jacket so that Germany should never again become a nest of pillagers and cannibals."

The forecast of important decisions and post-war settlements in Europe was reminiscent of Churchill's statement in the house of commons last week that the conference "comes at a moment when a good many moulds can be set out to receive a great deal of molten metal."

Interest in the parley and speculation on the time and place have mounted. The shah of Iran has invited the "big three" to return to Tehran.

Big Staff of Britons.

It was disclosed that Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden are to take with them the largest staff of military, political, and economic experts ever to accompany them. There were suggestions in London that some of the staff already may have started.

At any rate the American and Russian delegations are expected to be at least as large as the British. The conference accordingly is expected to be one of the biggest and perhaps the longest ever held among the great powers.

The meeting place of the "Big Three" always is a strict secret until the chieftains have started home. No announcement is likely if the governments have accepted Iran's invitation, which puts the royal pal-

U. S. 'Test': 99 to Take War Jobs, or Else!

Allentown, Pa., Jan. 23 [Special].—Four eastern Pennsylvania counties in the Allentown area tomorrow will become a "guinea pig" for an anticipated nation-wide job shift by the war man power commission in a move to channel men now in nonessential jobs into work of high war priority.

Dr. Frank Maguire, WMC area director, who engineered the plan to cut July 1 job ceilings in nonessential plants to provide more men for critical and essential work, said 99 brewery workers informally released by their employers for more important work will be offered critical war jobs thru the United States employment service tomorrow.

May be Denied Old Job.

These men, among 478 employed in seven breweries in Lehigh, Northampton, Monroe, and Bucks counties, will be given their choice of as many "suitable" and critical jobs as are available. If they refuse a transfer without a valid reason, they will not be given a referral to any job, thereby barring them from employment.

Workers may refuse jobs if they are in poor health, if the jobs do not utilize highest skills, if jobs would mean an unreasonable amount of travel, or if they would mean a change of union affiliation against the workers' wishes.

In some cases, the workers will be required to accept jobs paying lower wages. Managements and labor unions involved are reported to have agreed to protect seniority and other rights of transferred workers, however.

1,056 "Critical" Jobs.

The men will be given jobs in aircraft, ordnance, ammunition, and many apparel shops, especially in nine "critical" plants asking for 1,056 more workers. These plants include Bethlehem Steel and Consolidated-Vultee aircraft.

Dr. Maguire engineered the transfer plan under sweeping controls instituted last July 1 by WMC Chairman McNutt to check labor turnover and channel nonessential workers into war industry.

The workers called are chosen on a basis of seniority, those with the least seniority being called first.

Maguire said managements and unions agreed to coöperate but the plan has not been accepted without criticism.

"The plan amounts to a labor draft," said Alois Pammer, local agent of the AFL Brewery and Soft Drink Workers' union. "The order has left us up in the air and the union status of some men is not yet settled.

"The men are plenty sore," said Philip Neufeiler, executive and part owner of the Neuweiler brewery, which loses 22 men under the arrangement.

May Cover All of Country.

Local man power officials say, however, that if the plan is successful, it may be extended to other labor shortage areas thruout the country.

The transfer of the brewery workers tomorrow will be followed Thursday and Friday by similar job shifts for 254 out of 2,115 workers in 18 cement plants in the area.

THE MAN OF TOMORROW

G. I.s Scramble for Goebbels' Cuties

BY HENRY WALES.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

AACHEN, Germany, Jan. 23.—Dr. Goebbels, Nazi propaganda minister, would be proud if he could see American G. I.'s scrambling for propaganda leaflets that German batteries occasionally lob into the American lines along with high explosives.

He would be even prouder if he knew how the G. I.'s hide the leaflets in their shoes and helmet linings instead of handing them over to their officers according to regulations.

Threaten to Search G. I.'s.

Goebbels' head probably would swell if he saw enraged American officers threatening to search the G. I.'s unless they handed over the leaflets.

He no doubt would report to Hitler that his propaganda was winning the war.

But Goebbels would be wrong. The G. I.'s grab the leaflets and the officers get angry when they won't surrender them because the Nazi propaganda theme has been concentrating on the familiar guff about the soldiers' wives or girl friends being seduced by slackers back home.

Show Beautiful Girls.

The leaflets are illustrated with pictures in three colors showing beautiful girls, clad in high heeled slippers and pearl necklaces, necking with civilians in love nests with bottles of champagne as background.

Goebbels' leaflets are making a hit with the G. I.'s as a substitute for pinup girls. The officers resent the cornering of the Nazi art by enlisted men and want copies to pin up in their quarters.

RECALL TROOPS ON PRODUCTION LINE IN INDIANA

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 23 (AP).—The army today withdrew its authorization for the use of 150 furloughed soldiers to work on the ammunition line at Hoosier Ordnance plant, Charlestown, Ind., as labor and some industry officials here joined in criticizing "army bossed" war plant labor.

The president of the Kentucky State Federation of Labor, Harry F. Petty, declared "organized labor is opposed to army bossed workers in our war plants."

8 Dogs Killed in Action Win Army Certificates

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23 (AP).—Eight war dogs killed in the Southwest Pacific have been posthumously awarded certificates for "outstanding performance of duty," the army announced today. The certificates have been sent to the dogs' former owners. Awards of medals or decorations to animals are prohibited.

Nursing Waste Laid to Army's Own Hospital

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23 [Special].—Rep. Frances Bolton (R., O.) asserted at a press conference today that army wives who are patients at Walter Reed Army hospital are being pampered with private nursing care despite the nurse shortage for the military services.

Rep. Bolton.

The congresswoman said she visited the hospital Sunday and was "horrified" to discover a number of nurses who appeared to have nothing to do. One group that filled a room informed her they were assigned full time to the care of army wives for whatever attention was required.

Described as "Specials."

"I couldn't believe my eyes," she said. "All along the way were nurses sitting. When I asked them directions they explained they were 'specials' and didn't know. It is time the army cleaned its own house."

Mrs. Bolton said she was citing the episode as an example of the luxury nursing service demanded by civilians which is contributing to the dearth of nurses in the army and navy.

Commenting on pending proposals to draft nurses, Mrs. Bolton predicted that some such bill will be acted upon favorably if and when it comes to a vote. She said the draft, if it comes, should be "truly selective." She added that in her opinion the system for inducting men is not.

Raps Army Indecision.

Mrs. Bolton criticized the war department for what she called its "off again, on again" policy with regard to nursing needs. Last spring, she said, the department, thru Brig. Gen. Miller G. White, then chief of personnel, cut back the nurse corps ceiling from 50,000 to 40,000, thus slowing voluntary registration of nurses.

"Yesterday the army said it would accept no more paid nurses' aids," she said. "Today it issues a call for 'all it can get.'"

Walter Reed officials said their private duty nurses are available only when the hospital ascertains a real need exists.

"There is no pampering," a spokesman said. "Enlisted men's wives are given the same treatment as officers' wives, and none receives convalescent care."

BRITISH HOUSING JOB TO SET U. S. BACK 50 MILLION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23 (AP).—Temporary homes for bombed out British war workers will be produced in this country as lumber and other scarce materials become available, the foreign economic administration and the national housing agency disclosed today.

An FEA spokesman said preliminary estimates indicated that the project, which would provide 30,000 pre-fabricated homes to the British under lend-lease, would cost American taxpayers about 50 million dollars.

Each unit will contain two bedrooms, living room, kitchen, and bath, all new and containing "a maximum" of substitute materials.

Georgia Still Gold State; 4 Ounces Mined in '44

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23 (AP).—The interior department said today that Georgia, which for years "has proudly listed itself as a gold producing state," again made the grade last year. The bureau of mines reported that Georgia gold production for 1944 amounted to approximately four ounces. The metal was mined by individuals near Dahlonega.

REDS REACH ODER RIVER IN SILESIA; 2 U. S. ARMIES ADVANCE IN BELGIUM

Russians 137 Miles from Berlin, but Pace Is Slowed.

LONDON, Jan. 24 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The Russian 1st Ukraine army reached the Oder river in German Silesia in overwhelming strength on a 37 mile front yesterday as another Red army moving north toward the Baltic came within 22 miles of closing the war's greatest trap on all of East Prussia.

Between those two theaters of action another Red army slogged westward over the Polish plains at a somewhat slower pace on the most direct road toward Berlin, now reported only 137 miles away, in the vicinity of Poznan.

The tremendous sweep of the soviet winter offensive, now in its 13th day on a front of more than 600 miles, was heralded by Premier Stalin in four orders of the day and by the midnight Moscow bulletin. The Russians captured more than 3,350 communities, 1,500 of them inside Germany.

Nazis Retake Hungarian Town.

While Moscow's saluting guns boomed out their familiar salvos of celebration, there was one small flaw in the otherwise unbroken record of triumph: the Moscow bulletin disclosed that counter-attacking Germans in western Hungary had recaptured Szekesfehervar, 30 miles southwest of Budapest. Despite the gigantic rout of their forces in Poland, Silesia, and East Prussia, the Nazis mustered "large forces" of tanks and infantry for the Hungarian drive, Moscow disclosed.

Thirty German tanks were knocked out at the town on Monday, compared with 26 on all other fronts, the bulletin said.

13 Miles from Breslau.

Premier Stalin, announcing the thrust by Marshal Konev's army to the Oder, placed the location in the area of Breslau, capital and key city of lower Silesia. Moscow named towns captured on the eastern bluffs of the river along a 19 mile front southeast of Breslau, between Ohlau and Oppeln, but gave no clew as to where the remainder of the 37 mile river frontage lay. The nearest announced approach to Breslau was at Ellguth, 13 miles east.

The Oder, long publicized as Germany's greatest natural eastern defense line and probably fortified in depth, already was being put to the test, and the Moscow radio last night stated:

"Russian armies stand along the Oder in strength—poised to cross the first water barrier in the reich. On the Vistula and the Warta the cream of the German army was unable to stem the Russian springtide. On the Oder the volkssturm

YANKS CAPTURE BATAAN HEROES' PRISONER CAMP

MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Luzon, Jan. 24 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold's 14th corps, driving toward Clark field on the road to Manila, swung nine miles west of captured Capas yesterday to overrun Camp O'Donnell, where American and Filipino prisoners were separated during the death march from Bataan.

The 14th, which is a little over 50 air line miles from Manila and 10 miles from Clark field, scored its advance in a five mile swing southwest from Santa Monica and captured Concepcion.

Patrols entering Camp O'Donnell, in the foothills west of the main highway, found neither Japanese nor American prisoners. A headquarters spokesman said the Japanese presumably had moved them to another area.

Close in on Clark Field.

Spearheads of the 14th army corps are approaching Bamban, last town barring the way to Clark Field and its 13 airstrips, altho today's bulletin located the main body as about 10 miles north of the big military prize. Bamban is six miles from Clark Field.

Correspondent Richard Bergholz reported patrols were near Clark field, and said the Japanese were expected to make a strong stand along the Bamban river. Enemy resistance continued light near Capas. A small force of Japanese ineffectively attacked a company perimeter Monday.

On the left flank 1st corps units stabbed east of Binalonan, where the Japanese last week attempted an ambush with tanks, and reached the outskirts of San Manuel, a five mile advance.

George Folster, NBC correspondent, said the troops are advancing so fast on the way to Manila that he almost missed his broadcast in keeping check of reports.

Capture Highway Town.

Units moving east from captured La Paz, to the north of Tarlac, were in Zargoza, moving toward Santa Rosa.

On MacArthur's hard pressed left flank the Americans were continuing to neutralize enemy defenses near Rosario, south of the summer capital of the Philippines at Baguio.

An enemy stronghold on Mount Alava, southwest of captured Sison, was wiped out, MacArthur's bulletin said. Great quantities of supplies were captured, including 2,000 tons of ammunition and six artillery pieces.

American war planes ranged the great central Luzon plain destroying enemy communication lines and hitting hard at airdromes.

French Open New Offensive on Plain of South Alsace.

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP).—The American 1st and 3d armies and the 9th air force delivered a knockout blow to the last German defenders of the Ardennes bulge today. The doughboys closed to within four miles of the German frontier with gains up to five miles on a 30 mile front and the airmen destroyed or damaged nearly 2,000 fleeing enemy vehicles.

St. Vith, eastern Belgian highway center and the Germans' last major bastion in the bulge, was captured by units of the 1st army.

At the southern end of the western front the French 1st army, after being held to limited gains since opening an attack on Saturday, launched what was described as a "new and powerful" offensive on the Alsace plain. The assault, mounted against the northern side of the Colmar pocket, was said to have achieved "total surprise."

Enter St. Vith at Dawn.

Delivering the knockout blow to the Germans in the Ardennes salient, troops of the 1st army's 7th armored division and parachute troops attached to it, entered St. Vith at dawn. The capture was completed at 5:45 p. m. after a brisk day-long battle, fought street by street with rearguards and artillery covering a German withdrawal. The Americans took only seven prisoners.

The assault was made from the north by three task forces converging from the left, center, and right. One was commanded by Lt. Col. Robert L. Rhea of 2009 Howe st., Chicago.

This was a day of revenge for the men of the 7th armored who were forced to retire from this same town a month ago under the flood of the German Christmas offensive.

Altho the locale was familiar to the Yanks, the town had been beaten into an almost unrecognizable pulp by American bombing and shelling.

Thirtieth Also Moves In.

The 30th infantry division also moved into St. Vith from the west and northwest after sweeping thru the towns of Maldange and Braunlauf.

The 84th infantry division on the west plunged ahead 6,500 yards in 24 hours and cleared Beho, seven miles southwest of St. Vith, then moved a mile and a half east, fighting into Audrange.

Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army made gains up to two miles along a 20 mile front in the lower portion of the Belgian bulge.

The 5th division sent a column a mile northward to Merscheid, six miles north of Diekirch, and the 4th division struck a mile and a half north and half a mile east in an operation which seized a three mile stretch of high ground facing Germany across the Sure [Sauer] river.

This cut off Vianden so that the Germans no longer could use that town on the Our river five miles northeast of Diekirch as an exit for their bulge forces attempting to withdraw into the Siegfried defenses.

Run Into Resistance.

Northward in the area of Trois Vierges, eight and a half miles east of Houffalize, the 90th division ran into substantial resistance from Germans entrenched along the Clerf river. Trois Vierges was entered, however, by the 6th armored division.

The 1st army captured 526 prisoners in the past 24 hours, bringing its total since the opening of the German offensive on Dec. 16 to 22,088. The 3d army captured 480 in the last 24 hours for a total since Dec. 16 of 19,019.

The ground forces were supported magnificently by American planes which took advantage of the second clear day and plastered the enemy in the St. Vith vicinity and along the route of his disordered retreat with bombing and strafing.

Expect Reds to Reach Berlin First

BY ROGER D. GREENE.

21ST ARMY GROUP HDQ. IN EUROPE, Jan. 23 (AP).—It is becoming probable that the Russians will be the first of the allied armies to reach Berlin. Whether Germany will fight on after her capital has fallen was a big question mark in the allied camps tonight.

There was speculation that the Germans in fear of the Russians might deliberately open the gates for the western allies to reach Berlin first in an attempt to escape a soviet blood bath. But if Hitler has sent out cards inviting the western allies to march down Unter den Linden before the Russians break thru to the capital, there is no indication that they have been received so far.

Two Nazi Divisions Shifted.

On the basis of past experience it is unlikely that Field Marshal Von Rundstedt would yield any major part of his western armies to bolster the eastern front. Two German divisions shifted from the west have been identified on the soviet front in recent days—one in Hungary and one in Russia—but it is doubtful whether Von Rundstedt would part with a whole panzer [armored] army without resigning his command.

Top German army commanders are notoriously jealous in safeguarding their own prestige, and as a consequence the allies may look forward to a violent row in the Nazi command over the question of replacements on the eastern and western fronts.

160 on Russian Fronts.

At present Germany has roughly 160 divisions on the Russian front, compared with 80 in the west. In addition, there are between 25 and 30 divisions in Italy, between 10 and 20 being refitted in Germany and fewer than 20 now left in Scandinavia.

The German command is trying to bring troops down from Norway, but they are not moving as briskly as expected due to traffic blocks caused by the incessant blasting of rails and roads by allied war planes.

and destroyed 896 motor vehicles and damaged 933, destroyed 39 tanks and armored vehicles and damaged 41, destroyed 207 railroad cars and damaged 313.

In two days the 9th air force has destroyed or damaged 4,706 motor vehicles and 207 tanks and armored vehicles—nearly enough material to equip an entire panzer army—as well as 1,573 railroad cars and such targets as gun positions and fortified buildings.

Returning pilots said that, altho enemy traffic was much scarcer than on Monday, they still found long convoys on the move northward and eastward in the bulge, or attempting unsuccessfully to hide in the leafless woods along the roadside.

"Some roads were still jammed with German equipment," said Maj. Vernon A. Boehle of Indianapolis, Ind., who led a fighter bomber squadron in an early morning mission near the northern portion of the German-Luxemburg border.

British Gain 2 Miles.

At the northern end of the front the British 2d army gained two miles on a six mile arc to points more than seven miles inside the German frontier. The British smashed nearer to Heinsberg, the most important road center in the dwindling German-held portion of the Roer-Maas [Meuse] triangle. The prisoner count since the British attack started on Jan. 16 reached 1,400.

The Tommies captured Laffeld, two miles southwest of Heinsberg, Obspringen, three miles northwest of Heinsberg, Waldenrath, midway between Heinsberg and Geilenkirchen, and the smaller towns of Schondorf, Locken, and Aandenberg.

The French army's new offensive in Alsace was opened after a slowing down of the onslaught it had thrown against the southern edge of the Colmar pocket around Mulhouse. This first drive gained 3½ miles on a narrow front.

The northern side of the pocket, scene of the new attack, runs from Gerstheim on the Rhine 14 miles south of Strasbourg, westward to Rossfeld, on to Selestat, then to Kintsheim, three miles farther west at the edge of the Vosges, then to Sigolsheim, four miles northwest of Colmar, where it runs back into the Vosges.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Tuesday's German war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin said:

"In the Belgian-Luxemburg frontier area our troops were engaged in violent defensive fighting on the St. Vith sector and north of the Sure [river] against American forces, attacking with strong air support.

"In order to shorten our front, the salient jutting out to Houffalize was taken back towards prepared positions without enemy pressure.

"Under the weight of our concentric attacks on the Rhine bridgeheads north of Strasbourg and from the lower Vosges, the American front north and east of the Haguenau forest collapsed. The enemy retreated in the direction of the Moder sector. In hot pursuit, our troops captured the forts of the Maginot line in this sector and liberated a vast area of old German territory.

"In the Mulhouse area, German and enemy attacks alternated, but there was no substantial change of the front line. In the Thann area, the attacking enemy was checked."

AIR GUERRILLAS BLAST NORWAY BRIDGE; 180 DIE

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP).—Norwegian guerrilla parachute troops have dynamited the railway bridge north of Trondheim in another blow to prevent the Germans from evacuating northern Norway, a message to the Norwegian government in London said today.

The white clad fighters, who returned to their own country a month ago, attacked the Roros railway north of Trondheim 24 hours after the Germans had repaired the bridge, which had been blown up 15 days earlier.

The bridge was blown out the second time just as a German troop train was crossing and the engine and 17 coaches crashed into the ravine. Upward of 180 Germans were reported killed and about 300 injured.

GERMANY MUST WIN WAR, CRIES A NAZI OFFICER

Another Captured Soldier Says 'No.'

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN ALSACE, France, Jan. 23.—Prisoner No. 20,000 has entered the 36th division's captive cage since that famous American infantry unit landed on the Riviera last August. He was a tall, blond German SS [elite guard] lieutenant with all the arrogance and conviction of his caste.

While leading his men in an attack the lieutenant was seized by the division's 143d regiment. Two of his men taken prisoner at the same time and designated by the 36th as Nos. 19,999 and 20,001 were sad specimens, bedraggled and soured on Nazism.

Captives Disagree.

"The Germans must win the war," was the lieutenant's first remark to his American interrogators.

"No, no, we will not win," said No. 20,001.

"I have no religion," the lieutenant said. "I am a believer in the new German order. I am convinced of eventual German victory."

The lieutenant comes from Heldenau near Dresden, Germany, and is 25 years old. He has served in Russia as well as France.

"We will stop the Russians just as we have stopped the Americans and British on the western front," he said brusquely.

A 'Dogmatic Robot.'

"This guy's indoctrination has been so complete," an American sergeant remarked, "that his thinking follows automatic channels. He is a dogmatic robot."

"I suppose this will make excellent propaganda for you," the German officer sneered when he was informed he was to be photographed because he was prisoner No. 20,000. He posed for the first picture with a Nazi strut. For the second one, in which he was flanked by rueful countenanced Nos. 19,999 and 20,001, he acted aloof as if he were in the presence of "untouchables."

ALLIES PROBE NAZIS' RE-ENFORCED LINES ON ITALIAN FRONT

ROME, Jan. 23 (AP).—Allied 5th and 8th army patrols, operating today along the entire Italian front, probed the positions of Field Marshal Kesselring's reënforced German army, reported now to total 28 divisions, its greatest strength since last spring.

Bitter weather gripped the snowbound front as the patrols engaged the Germans in several places, particularly in the mountains south and southeast of Bologna.

Near highway 64 American troops occupied a ridge a half mile north of Colle Termine, 15 miles from Bologna. A strong German raiding party pushed 1,000 yards southwest of Gallicano in the Serchio valley before being beaten back. Other German parties slipping to the east bank of the Senio river were driven back.

Air activity was stepped up by both sides yesterday. Allied bombers cut rail lines in the Po valley in 59 places and attacked fuel and ammunition dumps. One enemy aircraft was destroyed on the ground at the Ghedi air field.

Flying deeper into the enemy's northern Italian territory than ever before, B-25s in nearly 1,000 sorties destroyed 106 motor vehicles, five locomotives, 52 railway cars, and 25 enemy held buildings. One formation hit both ends of a bridge at Dogna over the Tagliamento river, near the Austrian border. Mitchells dropped bombs on the center and south end of the Brenner line bridge at Roverets.

TRAPPED YANKS FIGHT FOUR DAYS; FORCED TO YIELD

Two Escape Pocket Near Maginot Line.

WITH U. S. TROOPS IN THE LOWER VOSGES, Alsace, Jan. 23 (AP). — The little battle below the Maginot line northeast of Reipertsweiler is over and four hellish days and nights have ended for a heroic band of American troops, who were forced to surrender.

Their cause was lost, but they made the Germans pay a heavy price in elite troops killed and wounded. The Germans have been talking of the pocket battle in their war bulletins for several days.

The Americans were cut off and surrounded a mile and a half northeast of Reipertsweiler, while hammering back the enemy's Bitche salient. They surrendered finally after only two men managed to escape back to the 7th army lines.

About 145 men were cut off, but how many of these lived to surrender was not known here.

Filter Behind U. S. Lines.

The Germans infiltrated behind American lines on Jan. 16 and the Americans found themselves isolated from battalion headquarters. They fought off wave after wave of German assaults from Jan. 17 until midafternoon Jan. 20.

Survivors then tried to break out, but failed. Lt. Col. Felix Sparks, Miami, Ariz., the battalion commander, received the last radio message a little later that evening: "Lift artillery. We can't make it. We are surrendering."

But in the breakthru attempt, two men did get thru. They were Pvt. Walter Bruce, Gainesville, Ga., and Pvt. Benjamin Melton, Goldsboro, N. C.

They described the enemy's artillery, rocket, and mortar fire as the heaviest they had encountered. They said the Americans divided wounded men so that one wounded man could be in a fox hole under care of two unwounded.

One Trip with Supplies.

The night before the surrender, Lt. Willis Talkington, Craig, Colo., managed to get up to the party by a wooded trail in a light tank loaded with ammunition, food and water.

The men were isolated on a 1,000 yard front on a ridge 1,500 feet high, commanding two valleys. Heavy snowfall made supplying by air impossible.

The Yanks were battling some of the enemy's best troops, said another battalion commander, Lt. Col. Laurence Brown, Syracuse, N. Y. He disclosed that the Germans trained 134 field guns on the small American pocket.

Sparks estimated at least 200 Germans were killed.

"As fast as we would knock off one company, they'd throw in another," he said.

He added that only 90 unwounded men were left in his battalion and Brown's, which had totaled more than 500 men at the start of the operation. More than 100 men were evacuated before the 145 were cut off. Other casualties resulted in relief attacks in which truck drivers, clerks, M. P.s, and cooks rushed into the line.

1,000 RAIL CARS SMASHED IN RAID ON RUHR YARDS

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP).—The Ruhr rail hub of Neuss was littered with the wreckage of more than 1,000 freight cars tonight after 200 Fortresses and 100 escorting Mustangs bombed the mass of German rolling stock with 600 tons of high explosives and incendiaries.

Fighter bombers of the United States 9th air force began the destruction of the Neuss rail yards yesterday after spotting hundreds of cars being loaded for the Julich-Duren battle front. They swooped in and destroyed 600 and damaged 400. Unhampered by German airmen and encountering only moderate flak the 8th air force cleanup team swept the tangled yards today, aiming their bombs thru breaks in the scattered clouds.

In the last 36 hours nearly 5,000 German freight cars, motor trucks, and tanks have been disabled on the western front.

13 MORE DAILY NEWSPAPERS IN ROME APPROVED

ROME, Italy, Jan. 23 (AP).—The national press commission has authorized the publication of 13 new Rome daily newspapers. Twelve already are being published here. The action was received with hostility by some of the existing publications. The communist organ L'Unita declared "a superabundance of newspapers causes public confusion and thus serves the fascist cause." One of the new papers will be the organ of the General Italian Confederation of Labor. Three others are financial organs.

YANK 7TH ARMY PULLS BACK TO STRAIGHTEN LINE

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN ALSACE, France, Jan. 23.—The second American withdrawal in northern Alsace, which was disclosed officially tonight, was accomplished the night of Jan. 20 without a hitch. The first, which took place several weeks ago, was south from the Siegfried line in the German Palatinate down past the Lauter river and Wissembourg to Maginot line positions above the Haguenau forest.

The present withdrawal, which is described as "limited," cannot be described more specifically now than as in the general area north and east of the Haguenau road center. The phrase "We retreated to previously prepared positions" is sometimes used as concealing a major reverse, but that is definitely not the case this time, for we have shortened our lines and strengthened our front.

There has been no German breakthru and the 7th army remains powerfully on guard for the probable big offensive by the enemy.

Withdrawal Effected Smoothly.

We disengaged ourselves from the enemy according to plan and without any interruption from him. The disengagement was effected in darkness, but traffic moved smoothly.

So unaware were the Germans of our maneuver that Sunday and Monday they continued to shell and bomb villages where they thought we were but which we had vacated. No large towns were yielded, but among the places we did give up were Hatten and Rittershoffen, north of the Haguenau forest. There Americans and Germans had fought street to street and house to house for nearly two weeks.

Many Germans and many Americans, too, lie dead in the ruins of Hatten and Rittershoffen and there are knocked out tanks of both sides in the area. For the American lads who fought and came out alive and who sorrow for their dead comrades of the Hatten-Rittershoffen battle—as bloody a battle as this war has produced—there was the added reluctance in giving up their holdings there without further struggle, but high strategy required it.

Line Was in Form of "U."

The 7th army's line in northern Alsace before this withdrawal had been in the form of a deep inverted U, with the inverted dip above the Haguenau forest and with the western extremity in the Vosges mountains and the eastern above Strasbourg. Such a line has the disadvantage of not having depth and a penetration by the enemy at one point might have ruined the whole thing.

[An Associated Press dispatch from London said the German radio broadcast a dispatch from Guenther Weber, Transocean news agency correspondent, saying the Nazi counterattack in Alsace was nearing its climax and reporting bitter fighting in Haguenau forest, where Weber asserted the American Rainbow division "suffered one of its heaviest blows." The broadcast said the Germans had recaptured Gumbrechtshoven, Eschbach, Wallburg, Schaerweiler, Surburg, and Oertschdorf—all towns in northern Alsace.]

SENATORS SHUNT WALLACE ASIDE; SPEED RFC BILL

'earings Today on Move to Weaken Job.

Protest from West

Santa Fe, N. M., Jan. 23 (AP).—The New Mexico state senate approved today, 16 to 7, a memorial asking the United States senate to refuse confirmation of former Vice President Wallace as secretary of commerce. "I think the time has come when the American people have to say something about what's going on in Washington," said Sen. Burton Roach, who introduced the memorial.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—Administration efforts to rush thru President Roosevelt's nomination of former Vice President Wallace as secretary of commerce were blocked today when the senate commerce committee refused to act on the nomination.

Instead, the committee voted, 10 to 2, to hold public hearings, beginning tomorrow, on a bill introduced yesterday by Sen. George [D., Ga.] which would strip the secretary of commerce of all powers over the Reconstruction Finance corporation and other federal lending agencies now in the department of commerce.

They Won't Meet.

For a few hours the capital anticipated a joint appearance of Wallace and Jesse H. Jones, the administration's No. 1 feudists, before the committee. But Chairman Bailey [D., N. C.] blasted such hopes when he announced that Jones would testify tomorrow and Wallace Thursday.

Jones was asked by the President over the week-end to resign as secretary of commerce to make room for Wallace, who, the President said, deserved the job for his efforts in behalf of the fourth term ticket last fall. Wallace and Jones have been at swords' points since 1943, when they clashed over Wallace's handling of the board of economic warfare. The President settled the affair by trimming Jones of some of his power and sending Wallace back to his job as Vice President.

Meanwhile, doubt was expressed in senatorial circles whether Wallace legally could take over the position of federal loan administrator along with the title of secretary of commerce. Jones has held both jobs under a special act of congress, Sen. George said in a press conference.

Purposes of Measure.

Today's meeting of the committee was called to consider George's bill as well as Wallace's nomination. George appeared before the committee to explain the purposes of his measure, after which Sen. Brewster [R., Me.] moved that the committee consider the George bill first.

Thereupon, Sen. Overton [D., La.] offered a motion to take up the Wallace nomination as a substitute for Brewster's motion. The committee defeated Overton's motion, 10 to 2, Sen. Pepper [D., Fla.] joining Overton in voting for it. Brewster's motion then was passed, 10 to 2, Overton and Pepper opposing.

George told the committee that the federal loan agency, which includes the RFC, Defense Plant corporation, Defense Supplies corporation, and other federal lending agencies, still exists as a skeleton organization.

Presidential Order.

Regardless of who is secretary of commerce, George said, these lending functions should be separated from the department of commerce and the federal loan agency re-established as an independent agency, as it was prior to a Presidential order in 1942.

At his press conference, George said the powers granted the federal loan administrator by congress were so sweeping—the general accounting office has no control over the RFC and little over other lending agencies—that it was time congress removed lending powers from an official accountable only to the President.

"Our personal confidence in Jones after all was not a very satisfactory reason for our giving such great powers to the RFC group," George said. "Now that they are under the secretary of commerce, and Mr. Jones apparently is about to leave, it is imperative that congress take back some of those powers. Mr. Wallace has no demonstrated capacity to handle the lending job."

Only an Incident.

George insisted that the Wallace appointment was "only an incident" in his decision to offer the separation legislation, but admitted it prompted him to offer the legislation yesterday.

"After all, my bill only hastens the reëstablishment of the federal loan agency as an independent branch of government," George said. "Provisions of the Presidential order attaching it to the department of commerce would expire six months after the war anyhow."

George told the committee he wanted to "unscramble this unwarranted assemblage of power" before any one is approved as secretary of commerce.

Reporters were barred from the committee meeting, but Pepper was reported to have spoken fervently in Wallace's behalf insisting that passage of the George bill would be an insult to the former Vice President. "It would be like inviting a man to dinner and then telling him to eat in the kitchen," Pepper was reported to have said.

TWO ILLINOIS PILOTS HELP SMASH V-BOMB RAMP IN GERMANY

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Jan. 23.—Three United States 9th air force fighter-bomber pilots, two of whom are from Illinois, dive bombed and destroyed a 350 foot V-bomb launching site 20 miles south of Euskirchen, Germany.

Second Lieutenants John J. Kennedy of Tampico and David S. McClure of Bloomington scored four direct hits with 500 pound bombs on the ramp and five truckloads of dismantled V-bombs.

"Tho we were about 6,000 feet up at the time of the explosion," Kennedy said, "we felt the kick of the blast and smoke billowed sky high. The blackened condition of the snow indicated the launching ramp had been used recently." McClure said the launching platform was an inclined wooden structure and "seemed to be pointing toward Liege."

SIX MORE YANKS SENTENCED FOR CIGARET THEFTS

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP).—A court martial trying members of a railway operating battalion on charges of theft and sale of cigarets and other supplies en route to the front sentenced six more enlisted men today to terms of from 15 to 25 years at hard labor. Among them was T/5 Harold Ainsworth of Milwaukee, Wis., 20 years.

Two soldiers were sentenced to life imprisonment for being absent without leave. Their names were not disclosed, but the announcement said 13 others tried for the same offense received sentences ranging from five to 25 years. The announcement explained that the 61st article of war had been revised by authority of President Roosevelt, suspending the limitation of punishment for being A. W. O. L.

The prosecution announced that six and possibly seven officers would be brought to trial, the first Saturday. One charge facing the officers is neglect of duty. The officer scheduled for trial Saturday also is accused of receiving looted cigarets from enlisted men.

G. I. PARADISE—IT'S REST CAMP CLOSE TO FRONT

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT A DIVISION REST CAMP, Belgium, Jan. 23.—Every day groups of G. I.s come to this rest camp for 24 hours' leave. Sometimes, when the roads are icy, the snow deep, and the Germans are tossing fire along the highways, or there is a scarcity of motor trucks, the trip back and forth cuts deeply into those 24 hours.

But every whiskered doughboy freezing in foxholes and slit trenches looks forward to that one day of leave more fervently than to pay day.

In this piercing bitter winter weather every soldier yearns for one thing—warmth; a chance to bake away the cold that has chilled right thru woolen underwear, three pairs of sox, flannel shirt, battle jacket, windbreaker, and great coat to the very marrow. In summer they look forward to girls and liquor, but in winter they dream only of heat and the luxury of shaving with warm water and bathing in hot showers.

Hot Food Welcomes Them.

The first thing on arriving here they get a mug of steaming coffee and doughnuts, but not from the Red Cross; it's too far forward for that. Then they stumble into a big barn where a couple of stoves glow red hot and get a meal of beans, stewed corn, hamburger, canned peaches, and more coffee. There are double tiered bunks where they sling their bedrolls and take a snooze or read comics or scrawl an appreciation on pinup girls' photographs plastering the walls.

Motor trucks take them two miles to a coal mine where 75 showers are available in a miners' bathhouse.

Hoisted on wires near the ceiling are hundreds of grotesque scarecrow figures that seem in the dim light to be a line of men swinging from gallows and remind one of the lurid photographs of Nazi atrocities.

Examination reveals them as the clothing and boots of Belgian miners working deep underground. The miners leave their garments suspended to dry out when they change to working garb.

"Don't throw razor blades in showers or on floors as many miners have been injured," says a sign. The G. I.s tuck the blades behind pipes and in floor gratings after hacking off their beards.

Ah-h! This is the Life.

Shaved and bathed, the men relax and soak up the hot, moist blast from a furnace. They lie on benches or spread towels on the floor and trim their toenails with jack knives or pare their corns or smoke or read the comics or snooze again.

Pretty soon it's time to return to the barn for chow and an evening movie, with selections, perhaps, by a headquarters band, or amateur theatricals by rest camp personnel.

Then new equipment is issued, replacing worn, torn garments. Cleaned and warmed soldiers climb into bunks and listen to flying bombs screaming harmlessly overhead en route to targets in Belgium.

At 9 o'clock the tired men are fast asleep; not even a crap game could keep them awake after the luxurious hours parboiling in the miners' bathhouse.

In the morning they pack in a breakfast of oatmeal, flapjacks, powdered egg omelette, bacon, and coffee.

KING HINTS CANADA'S PRESENT PARLIAMENT WILL NOT MEET AGAIN

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 23 [Special].—If present tactics of opposition parties are continued, the government will have to decide if "any useful purpose could be served by attempting to hold another session of the present parliament," Prime Minister King said today.

King's statement had particular reference to the by-election campaign in Grey North, Ont., where Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, minister of defense, is seeking election to the house of commons. McNaughton is being vigorously opposed by both Progressive Conservative and Coöperative Commonwealth parties.

"Bitter feelings and animosities engendered by this political strife would certainly be reflected in discussions in the commons, thereby making coöperation in the work of the session increasingly difficult," King said.

If no session of parliament were held, it was believed a general election would be called before the parliamentary term ends April 17.

YANKS AT FRONT TO GET WEEK'S LEAVE IN BRITAIN

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP).—American troops battling on the western front will be given one-week furloughs in Britain beginning in March, perhaps sooner, European theater headquarters announced today.

The week's leave will be exclusive of travel time. The maximum number away from the continent at one time would approximate 5,000, according to the announcement. Group quotas have not yet been determined, but the soldiers will be selected for leave by local commanders.

The furloughed men will be given boat transportation to England and free rail transport to any point in the United Kingdom they select.

YANKS TO TURN GERMANS' GUNS AGAINST THEM

WITH THE 90TH DIVISION EAST OF BASTOGNE, Jan. 23 (AP).—Germans in front of the 99th division's 357th regiment are due for a dose of their own medicine any time now when the Americans open up with the enemy's 120 mm. mortars.

In helping to clean out the Harlange box southeast of Bastogne, the 357th took 43 of these big mortars, which have proved one of the best medium range German weapons, and 1,200 rounds of ammunition.

"We have trained men in the use of these big fellows and we will open up whenever we have a good target," explained Lt. Col. Gilbert Strickler, executive officer from New Glarus, Wis.

U. S. ASKS UNITY OF CHINESE REDS AND CHUNGKING

Grew Also Takes Hand in Yugoslav Dispute.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23 (AP).—The United States today virtually called for an agreement between the Chungking government of China and the North China Communists.

At a news conference Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew reminded both sides that the United States stands ready to use its "friendly good offices" in bringing them together.

Grew also sought indirectly to prevent Yugoslav political dissensions from developing sharp differences among the allies by emphasizing the need for a settlement including both the exiled Yugoslav government at London and the powerful forces which have grown up within the country.

King Peter Would Go.

The settlement which was has been sought in London would provide for creation of a regency replacing King Peter, with unification to be achieved thru Prime Minister Subasic as London leader and Marshal Tito as chief of the administration inside the country.

Grew was asked whether the "various elements within the country," the phrase he used in his statement, also covered Gen. Draja Mihailovich, leader of Serbian forces opposed to Tito's rule. He declined to comment.

Yugoslavia is regarded here as illustrating sharply the clash of opposing forces in and out of various European countries, which creates a difficult political problem for allied leadership. Essentially it is the problem of providing provisional control for the liberated countries in such a manner as to assure to the people opportunity to choose their own rulers once order is restored.

Involves War Strategy.

The case of China involves the strategy to be employed by the allies in the final moves against Japan. The United States is anxious for a Chungking-Communist agreement, primarily for two reasons:

1. Any American invasion of the enemy-held China coast would almost certainly be made in the north, where the good ports are. American military men will coöperate with whatever Chinese forces they find there, and at the moment the forces in that area are communist guerrillas.

2. If Russia comes into the war against Japan it will be essential to have some sort of liaison between Russia and China and the communist groups in the north could supply that relationship, chiefly because they are closer to the Red armies.

Red Army Is Large.

Beyond these is the fact that the Communists include several hundred thousand soldiers and the failure of collaboration between them and Chungking weakens China's total effort against the Japanese and threatens China's post-war unity.

On Yugoslavia Grew was asked whether the United States knew and approved of arrangements supported by Prime Minister Churchill for settlement of the Yugoslav situation, and replied:

"This government has not participated in the discussions concerning the agreement between Prime Minister Subasic and Marshal Tito for the establishment of a unified government in Yugoslavia.

"We have been kept informed of recent developments, however, and we approve of the main objective, namely, to enable the Yugoslav government in exile and the various elements within the country to work together in Yugoslavia in the tasks arising from the liberation."

PAT FINDS WAR TOUGHER THAN BACK OF YARDS

BY THOMAS MORROW.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT A U. S. PACIFIC BASE, Jan. 23.—Pvt. Pat Lay, 4509 Emerald av., Chicago, gives his opinion that this war is tougher than running a tavern back of the yards. He used to enjoy fighting, reports Lay, 33, but finds he's too old for this one since catching a piece of a hand grenade in his knee at Guadalcanal. Lay is driving automobiles until the war releases him to return to his wife, Marguerita.

Naval Lt. Harold Hanson, a pilot, from Tuscola, Ill., now resting here, will have a chance to compare the war in the Atlantic and Pacific. He recalled once he was covered with ice after being dunked in the Atlantic while flying off a cruiser. "I prefer the Pacific to the Atlantic, but I'll trade both bodies of water for Lake Michigan," he said.

Naval Lt. H. R. Cooley, Evansville, Ind., attached to a land based communications outfit, likes the present phase of the war better than when he was on the old Yorktown, which went down. "In those days we only had nine fighting planes aboard at times compared to the full complement on present carriers," he said.

Ensign Felix Sykes Jr., 4139 S. Highland av., Berwyn, Ill., attached to land based communications, came to the Pacific after Atlantic experience which included the Normandy landings.

GRAVES OF 4,000 BATAAN HEROES FOUND IN LUZON

Japs Burn Barracks at O'Donnell.

BY RUSSELL BRINES.

CAMP O'DONNELL PRISON CAMP, Luzon, Jan. 23 (AP).—Several thousand American and Filipino war prisoners who died of disease, starvation or maltreatment after surviving the "death march" on Bataan now lie beneath wild grass covering the pitiful cemeteries near this deserted, rotting camp.

I counted graves which probably contained 4,000 Filipinos and several scores of Americans while visiting this lonely camp of horrors a few hours after the Yanks occupied it.

All evidences were that the Japanese had removed whatever prisoners survived their 30-months' ordeal, then had attempted to obliterate all evidence of their infamous rule by destroying prisoners' barracks in fires which whipped across several acres and blackened the mounds where Filipinos were buried.

Japs Fled Sunday.

Filipino civilians said the Japanese garrison had departed Sunday hiking toward the foothills where they evidently joined other bands of Japanese. They left behind only death and desolation.

Camp O'Donnell was one of the most notorious pestholes maintained by the Japanese for war prisoners. Others are at Cabanatuan and around Manila.

A Filipino colonel who survived O'Donnell and was released by the Japanese said 40,000 Filipinos and Americans of the 80,000 originally confined at O'Donnell had died of disease and malnutrition.

Finds Dog Tags on Crosses.

The touch of doomed, despairing men lies heavy over the camp, which is atop a small knoll, several miles from the nearest house.

The American cemetery is about a quarter of a mile northeast of the main buildings on another desolate knoll. I found small crosses made of unpainted laths, on the backs of which the dog tags of the deceased men had been affixed. That was all.

[A Bern, Switzerland, radio broadcast last night said several thousand American prisoners had been transferred from the Philippines to Japan. The report was based on information received by the central agency for prisoners of war in Geneva. The broadcast added that the information gave a detailed account of some prisoners.]

Post Armed Men to Halt British Army Mail Thefts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Thefts of British soldiers' parcels have become so prevalent that armed officers have been detailed to guard mail bag convoys in France and Belgium. They supervise the unloading, stacking, and delivery of mail bags. Scotland Yard detectives were sent to the continent in an effort to smash the racket.

JAPS LAND ANOTHER FORCE IN CHINA IN FEAR OF U. S. ATTACK

CHUNGKING, China, Jan. 23 (AP).—Extension of Japanese holdings in Chekiang province, obviously intended to counter any American landing on the east coast of China south of Shanghai, was reported tonight by the Chinese high command.

A Chinese bulletin said Japanese troops based on Wenchow, Chekiang port 225 miles south of Shanghai, had driven southward and on Jan. 21 sea borne Japanese landed on the coast southeast of Juian, 15 miles south of Wenchow.

The Chinese command implied that the Japanese had made further progress in a campaign to wipe out the Chinese held segment of the Canton-Hankow railway. Japanese troops, stabbing northward from Kwangtung, reached a point 28 miles northwest of Tsingyun, 40 miles north of Canton, and severe fighting is raging in the area.

PLEASE RESPECT CHURCH, FILIPINO SIGN TELLS JAPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

O'DONNELL, Luzon, Jan. 23.—Capt. Charles Herbst of Menominee, Mich., Catholic chaplain, accompanied an American armored patrol which reached here yesterday. He talked with a native priest who showed him a sign in Japanese on the door of a church.

"I painted that myself," the priest said simply. "It means, 'This is a Catholic church. Please respect it.'"

Capt. Herbst picked up an eye cup, something he had long been seeking unsuccessfully of American medical officers.

SEABEES REPAIR CARRIER WHILE BATTLE GOES ON

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor [Delayed].—(AP).—The Seabees once went to sea. Only now can the story be told of how they helped keep the U. S. S. Enterprise in the battle.

Twenty-one men of a navy construction battalion went to sea Nov. 11, 1942, at a crucial period in the Pacific war. United States marines were fighting on Guadalcanal, and the Japanese were trying to land reënforcements.

The "Big E" was badly hurt at Santa Cruz Oct. 26 by Japanese aerial attacks which sunk the U. S. S. Hornet. She was the only carrier left in the area, and her damage had to be repaired without delay.

More Repair Men Needed.

But Japanese bombs had killed or maimed many of her shipfitters, carpenters' mates and other skilled specialists. When the Enterprise put into a South Pacific port, where the repair ship Vestal was waiting, it was apparent more men would be needed.

"I don't know who suggested the Seabees, but all of a sudden they showed up—30 or 40 of them," said Lt. Comdr. John Monro, Andover, Mass., aboard the Big E at the time.

It was something new for the Seabees. But they welded gaping holes and made them watertight, helped pump flooded compartments, clear wreckage, put up supports. Then they received a shock: They'd have to keep working while the ship headed for battle.

"We had to go out and we weren't finished with repairs, Monro said. "Away we went, Nov. 11, for the battle of Guadalcanal, in which our surface force turned back Jap battleships. The Seabees went with us.

Work at Waterline.

"We rigged temporary patches below the waterline, and strengthening these patches was hazardous work. We were in submarine waters and the Seabees were working at or below the waterline. It was difficult for them to get in or out, too.

"About 20 of the Seabees came out to sea. We were damn glad to have them. It meant the difference between having the ship ready for action or not. As it happened we were not attacked."

The Seabees were assigned battle stations on the hangar deck, where some of them also bunked. A few became seasick, but they worked whether sick or not until after the three day battle of Guadalcanal.

HOUSE MEMBERS TO STUDY NEED OF PACIFIC BASES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—A congressional study of America's post-war defense needs in the Pacific was voted today by the house naval affairs committee.

The investigation will be conducted with the coöperation and approval of the navy department, Chairman Vinson [D., Ga.] announced. A seven man subcommittee was appointed to survey all island bases with particular attention to those which have been operated under Japanese mandate since the last World war.

Altho the committee's conclusions will not be binding on any treaty negotiations, it was stated that its findings will provide a basis for determining what islands in the vast expanse of the Pacific should be in the permanent possession of the United States as safeguards against future attack.

Rep. Drewry [D., Va.] was named chairman of the subcommittee. The other members are Representatives Johnson [D., Tex.], Bradley [D., Pa.], Izac [D., Cal.], Mott [R., Ore.], Cole [R., N. Y.], and Bates [R., Mass.].

You'll have to hold the phone. He's busy on another wire.

IT WASN'T MUCH OF A BRIDGE, BUT PRICE WAS HIGH

Armor Roars Across Span in Requiem.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ON THE MANILA HIGHWAY, Luzon, P. I., Jan. 23.—Army vehicles bound for Manila today lumbered over a little bridge across a stream near Capas. It isn't much of a bridge. But army combat engineers paid dearly for it.

The Japs demolished the wooden span they had built to replace the concrete bridge blasted by the Americans in their retreat three years ago. Troops crossed the stream yesterday. The stream was only a few feet wide and inches deep but it ran at the bottom of a 20 foot gorge so the advance of armor and vehicles depended upon the engineers.

Eight Engineers Killed.

Capt. James Hoffman, 4101 N. Kilbourn av., Chicago, assigned the crew. Bulldozers began cutting a path thru the banks. The men built a timber span. Night came and troops dug in. But the engineers just turned on the light. They were easy marks. Eight fell dead. Another dozen were injured.

The engineers blacked out the lights, grabbed their guns and took up the fight. In Capas other Japs had sneaked into the village and set fire to its only modern building, the school.

Back to Work.

Infantry men dug out the Japs. As many as they could find. In the darkness they were uncertain they got them all. But the engineers, knowing the advance depended upon the bridge, turned on the lights and went back to work.

Today vehicles rumble across the bridge toward Manila, the roar of their engines the only requiem for the eight engineers who will build no more.

Drive on Over Ceiling Grocery Prices Continues

The office of price administration drive against over ceiling grocery prices is being continued here, Marion W. Isbell, metropolitan director for the OPA, said yesterday. Judge William J. Campbell in federal District court entered a consent judgment for $3,475 against the Economy Wholesale Grocers, 923 W. Randolph st., covering alleged above ceiling prices to retailers. Isbell also filed suit in federal court against Carl F. Busch, 9348 N. Drake st., Skokie, for $9,591 and an injunction to forbid him to sell meat at prices above the ceiling.

KOISO ADMITS TO DIET JAP LACK IN AMMUNITION

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The storm of criticism rising in Japan against Premier Koiso reached the point where one member of the house of representatives bluntly stated "it is regrettable that resolute action is lacking," Domei agency said yesterday.

The accusation yielded an acknowledgement from Koiso, facing possible ouster due to reverses in the Philippines, that "there is a shortage in some fields of munitions production which must be made up to tide over the present crisis."

Another house member suggested the government "establish a sort of commander in chief over different industries and vest him with full powers." He asked "why is it that there aren't enough planes at the front when cries for more planes have been repeated over and over?"

JAPAN WILL BE FIGHTING IN 1946, HARMON WARNS

ARMY AIR FORCE HDQ. IN THE PACIFIC, Jan. 23 (AP).—America's commander of strategic air forces in the Pacific sounded a note of caution today, saying the Japanese are building 1,500 planes a month and "have been holding back their strength." Lt. Gen. Harmon, predicting Japan "will be on her feet and fighting in 1946," warned in a radio address:

"Despite the success of our land, sea, and air forces, Japan—except for her fleet and shipping losses—hasn't been really hurt yet. So far as Japan is concerned, we are still on the edges."

REDS CIRCLING EAST PRUSSIA; PUSH ON BALTIC

Within 22 Miles of Cutting Off Province.

More than 200 German towns in Silesia fell to Konev's men. They included the big ones of Namslau, 28 miles east of Breslau; Bernstadt, 19 miles east; and Karlsmarkt, 30 miles east.

The soviet victories in East Prussia, of great immediate portent, were hailed by Stalin in two orders of the day. One announced that Marshal Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian army, which is driving up from the south, had captured Saalfeld, 22 miles south of the Baltic port of Elbing, along with more than 600 other German communities.

Once Elbing is reached, the large German forces inside East Prussia will be cut off from Germany proper.

Drive Nears Koenigsberg.

The other order announced that Marshal Cherniakhovsky's 3d White Russian army, which is invading East Prussia from the east and northeast, had seized the towns of Labiau and Wehlau, 27 and 32 miles from Konigsberg, capital of the province. Altogether Cherniakhovsky's forces yesterday took more than 700 German towns and villages, including the big defensive strong points of Darkehmen, Benkheim and Treuberg.

It also announced an extension of Cherniakhovsky's drive on the left wing, smashing out westward and northwestward from the vicinity of Augustow, taking more than 350 towns in Poland and reaching the East Prussian border at numerous points at the southeast corner of the province, following the forcing of the Augustow canal, a line that held the Russians last summer.

Gain Along Polish Corridor.

The 2d White Russian army also continued its drive in Poland as well as in East Prussia, taking more than 450 communities along the eastern neck of the Polish corridor, southwest of East Prussia.

Also in the entry to the Polish corridor the 1st White Russian army of Marshal Zhukov took Bydgoszcz [Bromberg], powerful German defensive center 65 miles northeast of Poznan.

Zhukov's men also took more than 600 other places in Poland, but apparently were meeting heavier resistance, for the gains in miles were less spectacular.

The Russian bulletin still placed Zhukov no closer than 165 miles from Berlin, as he had been the day before, but German accounts told of fighting just east of Poznan, while unconfirmed Swedish and French broadcasts said there already was fighting inside the city. It lies only 137 miles east of Berlin.

While the invaders of East Prussia and Silesia and the troops driving for Berlin took the spotlight, the 5th soviet army in the field, the 4th Ukraine army of Gen. Petrov, fought steadily ahead in the far south of Poland, taking Stary Sacz and more than 80 other communities in the rugged Beskid mountains south and southeast of Krakow.

Inside Budapest the annihilation of the enemy suicide garrison continued, too, with 25 more blocks taken by the Russians.

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN.

The German Tuesday war bulletin, as broadcast from Berlin, said:

"South of Budapest units of our army and the waffen SS continued their attacks to the north against increased enemy resistance and wiped out dispersed enemy forces. Szekesfehervar was occupied in a surprise night attack and 800 prisoners and rich booty were taken.

"In upper Silesia, we held our positions on the eastern and northeastern fringe of the upper Silesian industrial basin, except for some single breaches, against many attacks.

"In the area east of Oppeln and between Namslau and Oels, the Russian attacks were checked by powerful German counter-attacks, backed by tanks. At Kalisch [Kalisz] and southwest of Lodz our forces are still engaged in bitter offensive fighting.

"North of the Warthe [Warta] river enemy tank spearheads advanced as far as the area east of Poznan. Russian attacks in a northerly direction were smashed.

"East of the Masurian lakes our troops yesterday foiled the breakthru of the assailing Russian forces.

NAZI REFUGEES IN EAST STREAM BACK TO REICH

LONDON, Jan. 20 (AP).—Hordes of German refugees streamed out of Poland and eastern Germany today. Berlin admitted the Russian tide still was largely unchecked and Hitler sped Heinrich Himmler and other "iron willed" leaders to the eastern front with orders to "make and execute drastic decisions."

The refugees were backtracking the paths over which the German army swept in opening its war of conquest more than five years ago, but not all got away. At least 200,000 German civilians were reported by a Paris radio dispatch from Moscow to have been found by the Russians in Lodz alone.

"Realistic" About Situation.

Reporting the mass movement toward the reich, Helmut Sundermann, deputy reich press chief, said in a report "on the barricades of the reich":

"We view the present situation with the realistic seriousness that is called for in these decisive hours and we know that these hours will tell whether we are to go down in a Red inferno or emerge from the ordeal to a greater future."

Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittman, Berlin military commentator, said the soviet penetration in the east was "too serious to be dealt with in any improvised manner," and warned the home front that the problem of "when and where to stem the Red flood will give us many a day's headache."

Dittmar spoke of the eastern front as being "loose, full of deep wedges," and emphasized the necessity for small German groups to fight to the last to secure their flanks and rear, and "inflict enemy losses."

Asserts Morale Is High.

The situation in the east, he continued, "balances on a knife's blade." But he asserted that "never at any point under the utmost strain has any sign of panic shown itself. German morale is as high as ever, and its basis has not been shaken."

The announcement that Himmler and "Hitler's best army commanders" were dispatched to the front came as Berlin military spokesmen admitted the counter-measures still must be "regarded as emergency measures—a kind of first aid."

There was a feeling in London that the Nazis were overly frank—either because they were trying to build up overconfidence among the allies or because they did not dare to withhold news of such magnitude from the home front.

[A dispatch in the Stockholf Tidningen said that it had been learned that the German government had "decided to evacuate important documents from all ministries to Berchtesgaden, where large fortification works are now practically finished." The dispatch added that "experts say the so-called Berchtesgaden fortress is absolutely impregnable" and that "ammunition, food, and medicine for several years have been stored in the fortress."]

PREVIEW OF U. S. TRENDS

BY RAYMOND DANIELL.

[By Cable to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—An authoritative altho not definitive preview was given today to the British government of current trends of the American foreign policy. Its details no doubt will be filled in by President Roosevelt when he meets Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

In substance this preview was that the American people are in a mood where the actions of their allies can precipitate them into wholehearted coöperation for the maintenance of peace of Europe or bring about a wave of disillusionment which will make the isolation of the 1920s pale by comparison with what may follow this war.

U. S. Mood Can Change.

The British have been told with force and authority that the American mood can change as mercurially as the English weather if the American people once get the idea that this war, which started out as a crusade for freedom, winds up as just another struggle between rival imperialisms.

Something of what is stewing in the American mind was conveyed to the British authorities. It was that America did not send thousands of her young men to die in Europe merely to see a discredited old order rise from the ashes of the old, nor to see the tyranny of Nazi occupation replaced by some cat's-paw totalitarianism masquerading behind a native name.

A transcript of the conversation or the text of the communication delivered to Churchill today would be of great historic value, but unfortunately there is none available at the moment. However, it is possible to speculate with reasonable exactitude on what was conveyed to the British government regarding American attitudes toward developments in some parts of liberated Europe.

Fear Mass Revulsion.

The British have been informed that the American people view them with disquiet, and they were told that if they continue they may bring about a revulsion in the American mass mind that neither Mr. Roosevelt nor anyone else could control.

Events in Greece and Yugoslavia were in the foreground of the discussion.

The fundamental conflict between British and American policy seems to be between the idea that liberators should impose a kind of government of which they approve upon liberated nations and the view that a liberated people should choose for themselves. Just how that is to be accomplished awaits Mr. Roosevelt's exposition.

Swedes Hear Nazis Move 50,000 War Prisoners

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP).—Stockholm, Sweden, ditpatches reported today that the Germans had transferred 50,000 allied war prisoners from camps in Poland and Silesia to central Germany because of the threat of the advancing Russian armies.

CARRIER PLANES BOMB OKINAWA, RYUKYUS BASE

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Jan. 23 (AP).—Adm. Halsey's 3d fleet carrier force, prowling in Japanese territory all this month, sent planes to blast Okinawa Island in the Ryukyus Sunday, Adm. Nimitz reported today.

Nimitz said details were yet to come concerning this fourth strike in January against Okinawa, only 350 miles south of the Japanese mainland.

Tokyo radio said 550 carrier aircraft attacked harbors and air fields on the island for nine hours. The enemy claimed 40 of the raiders were shot down and 34 damaged.

Follows Formosa Raid.

The day before the Okinawa attack Halsey's airmen had pounded Formosa, 365 miles to the south, destroying 140 Japanese planes and damaging about 100 others, as well as hammering enemy shipping. It was during this attack that one major United States warship was damaged, Nimitz said.

American army airmen operating from fields on Luzon are lending a hand in the blows at Formosa, staging almost nightly raids on Takao naval base on the southwest coast of the island. This base also has been worked over by 3d fleet flyers, notably Saturday, when they left two large ships, docks, and shops there burning.

B-29s Bomb Nagoya.

21ST BOMBER COMMAND HDQ., GUAM, Jan. 23 (AP).—B-29s bombed industrial targets at Nagoya, on Japan's island of Honshu, this afternoon at an altitude lower than previous attacks, and met the strongest enemy air resistance so far encountered there. Sixty-two enemy planes were shot down or damaged.

One Super Fort was hit by gunfire and was seen to crash in flames into the water. The crew is believed to have died.

Sgt. Harry McGrath of 4207 W. Hirsch st., Chicago, a ring gunner, shot down a Jap plane.

CHINESE ENTER JUNCTION CITY ON BURMA ROAD

SOUTHEAST ASIA HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, Ceylon, Jan. 23 (AP).—Chinese troops have pushed into Monghyu, the junction of the Ledo-Burma road, and convoys of trucks headed for Kunming with war supplies have approached the Burma-China border on the new Ledo road.

Adm. Mountbatten, commander in chief of the southeast Asia theater, sent a telegram to the combined chiefs of staff saying: "The first part of the orders I received at Quebec has been carried out. The land route to China is open."

SERBS IN U.S. ASK STALIN BE KEPT FROM HOMELAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—A delegation which said it represents 90 per cent of the American citizens of Serbian descent today petitioned President Roosevelt and congress to prevent Dictator Stalin from turning Yugoslavia over to Communist control.

Bishop Dionisije.

The petition was presented at the White House and to Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, by Bishop Dionisije, Libertyville, Ill., head of the Serbian Eastern Orthodox church of the United States and Canada; Louis C. Christopher, Gary, Ind., supreme president of the Serbian National federation, and Mitchell M. Duchich, Chicago, president of the Serbian national defense council.

Tomorrow they will present the same petition to the embassies of Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia. Sen. Connally told the committee he would present the petition to the foreign relations committee.

Harsh Words for Russia.

"Our petition has harsh words for Russia and the situation in Yugoslavia, but we will present it anyway," Christopher said. "We are not demanding a regency, nor are we interested in one. We merely want to see the people of our forefathers' country given a chance to select their own government and we are opposed to seeing it turned over to Marshal Tito and the Communists thru the orders of Stalin."

The Serbs' principal request is that an Anglo-American commission be named immediately and sent into Yugoslavia "to protect the Serbian people and all the liberty loving citizens of Yugoslavia against the tyrannical enforcement of totalitarian laws made by Tito's partisans."

They also asked that "the Yugoslav regular army under the command of Gen. Mihailovich" be placed under the command of Gen. Eisenhower and supplied with arms and ammunition, and that members of Mihailovich's army who fled to Italy and Egypt rather than "submit to the orders of Dictator Tito" be given aid.

Plead to Uphold Charter.

Finally, they asked that "the terms of the Atlantic charter be applied to the Serbian people as a nation which has all the historical, ethical, and moral rights to remain as a member of the family of nations, and to be master of its own destiny."

The petition also asserted that:

1. The quick military defeat of the Yugoslav army was largely caused by what it termed the "treacherous" actions of non-Serbian elements, principally the Croat Ustachis and other national minorities. [Tito is a Croat.]

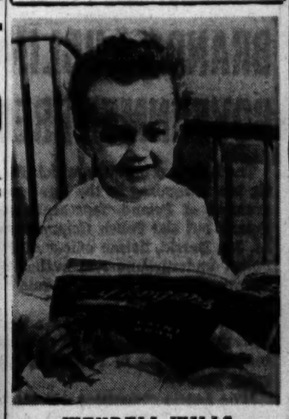
2. When Germany attacked Russia a new political movement lead "by a Croat Communist, Joseph Broz, or 'Marshal Tito,'" took form, and that altho his movement had little support from the people of Yugoslavia it was later supported by the allies to the great detriment of Serbian people and the Yugoslav army under Gen. Mihailovich.

3. When the Red army entered eastern Serbia scores of officers and men who had fought the Germans for four years were executed.

4. The regime of Tito has established a one party system under which tens of thousands of Serbian intellectuals, former officers, and persons connected with the central national committee have been imprisoned or executed.

The petition also asserted that Gen. Mihailovich, to avoid clashes with the Red army, withdrew to the Bosnian mountains, "where he now awaits his fate with 70,000 regular soldiers and some 30,000 intellectuals forsaken by their democratic allies, who promised to furnish help for their gallant fight against the fascist hordes."

Awaits Operation



WENDELL WILLS.

Wendell Wills, 3, sat smiling in his crib at the Research and Educational hospitals of the University of Illinois yesterday unaware that his illness had spurred a trans-Atlantic search for his soldier father.

The attractive, brown eyed boy is suffering from bronchiectasis, multiple small abscesses in one lobe of the lung. A common cause of the trouble, hospital attendants said, is the aspiration of peanuts.

While his mother, Zita, of 313 Jessie st., Joliet, sought his father, Pvt. Everett Wills, 26, a veteran of campaigns in France and Luxemburg, the soldier was being returned to this country for hospitalization at Camp Atterbury, Ind. Pvt. Wills, who is receiving treatment for shell shock and concussion, was granted an emergency furlough, to be near his son who is expected to undergo surgery next Tuesday for the removal of all or part of his right lung.

PLANT FOREMAN DIES AT WORK.

Walter Mallik, 58, of 1748 N. Wolcott av., a foreman at the Illinois Razor Strop company, 845 N. Sangamon st., died of a heart attack while at work yesterday.

CABINET DEFIES YUGOSLAV KING; REFUSES TO QUIT

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP).—Defying King Peter and refusing to resign, Premier Ivan Subasic and his "dismissed" cabinet ministers prepared tonight to take "protective steps" within the next 48 hours to establish with Marshal Tito a federal democratic government in Yugoslavia.

An authoritative source said Subasic, with British approval, had decided to ignore King Peter's request that he resign and would proceed to put into effect the agreement he signed with Tito.

At the same time all Yugoslav associations in London unanimously demanded that the Subasic government continue in office and return to Belgrade to put into effect the agreement with Tito.

The associations called on the Subasic government to "refuse any collaboration with any fascist government which the king may try to form."

King Is Castigated.

The agreement, which was signed by eight Yugoslav associations in London led by the United Committee of South Slavs, charged that Peter's dismissal of Subasic was unconstitutional and that the young monarch was "attempting to provoke civil war in Yugoslavia and disagreement among the allies so as to create favorable conditions for his selfish political aims and his undemocratic political game."

The statement by the associations charged that Peter had "done nothing for his people in the whole course of the war" and declared that by delaying the conclusion of the Subasic-Tito agreement he was "hindering commencement of work" to bring assistance to Yugoslavia.

Cabinet Holds Meeting.

Meanwhile the youthful monarch was battling virtually alone to save his crown. He gave the task of forming a new government to Milan Grol, a former foreign minister and opponent of Tito.

Subasic and his ministers decided to defy Peter after a lengthy cabinet meeting this morning less than 24 hours after the king summoned the premier to his Claridge hotel suite and requested his resignation.

Most Yugoslav quarters believed a fusion government in Belgrade with Tito as prime minister and Subasic as foreign minister might be announced within the next 10 days.

G. O. P. BUBBLING WITH OPTIMISM, HOPE AND MONEY

Conferees Certain Party Will Come Back.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 23.—Nearly a hundred members of the Republican national committee were trekking homeward today full of hope, and many with supreme confidence, that they had laid a firm foundation for a comeback of the G. O. P.

The party's national organization has ample funds on hand to finance the Republican bid for return to power—$320,000 of the three million dollars James S. Kemper of Chicago phenomenally raised between July and November, 1944. It has a plan of organization activities calculated to mobilize the party, propagandize Republican policies, and expose New Deal fallacies, blunders, and scandals.

It now remains for Herbert Brownell, the chairman of the national committee retained in office despite western opposition, to carry the organization program into effect and for the Republican members of congress to develop the policies on which the party will take its stand.

Await Yanks' Views.

A pretty general opinion among the committeemen is that the party policies will be shaped to a large extent by events in the next two or three years, and by the views with which American soldiers and sailors return from the wars. Nationalist members are confident and many internationalist members apprehensive that the pendulum is swinging back to nationalism.

The internationalist committeemen dislike to concede the trend claimed by the nationalists but admit that they have been jolted by American popular reaction to the unilateral actions of Prime Minister Churchill and Dictator Stalin in carving Europe into spheres of British and Russian influence at the expense of the territorial integrity and independence of Poland, Greece, and other small nations.

The widespread feeling in this country that the United States should not join in a peace league underwriting such injustices and likely to breed another world war has aroused fears among the internationalists that the Dumbarton Oaks plan is doomed.

Emphasis on Organization.

Altho the emphasis at the committee meetings was an organization to carry the congressional elections next year, lobby discussion evolved around 1948 Presidential candidates. Whether Gov. Dewey would be a candidate again and, if so, what chance of nomination he has, were the subject of endless debate.

Sentiment favorable to a second try for Dewey appeared almost exclusively among eastern Republicans, chiefly of the internationalist persuasion. They concede, however, that Dewey's chances depend largely on the outcome of the New York state election next year.

Second choice favorites of the eastern internationalists are Sen. Saltonstall [R., Mass.], Gov. Warren of California, and former Gov. Stassen of Minnesota, now a lieutenant commander in the navy. Also there is to be noted a newly born internationalist interest in Sen. Vandenberg, whose Presidential prospects were supposed to have been permanently dimmed since 1940. As to Saltonstall, there is some speculation that he might be eclipsed by young Henry Cabot Lodge, former senator from Massachusetts, coming home from the wars with the nationalist faith he inherited from his grandfather and made his own.

West Opposes Dewey.

The western nationalists are so overwhelmingly and strongly opposed to Dewey that it is difficult to conceive how he could expect to come within shouting distance of the nomination in 1948.

As the campaign wore on they were discouraged by failure to obtain the candidate's coöperation and angered by the elaborate precautions he took not to be seen in company with nationalist leaders. A common view among these leaders is that Dewey was handicapped by mental immaturity and a cocksureness that he is a statesman and a first class politician.

In the discussion of potential candidates favored by the nationalists John Bricker of Ohio looms large. He, of course, was preferred by the nationalists for the 1944 nomination. Many hope to see him a candidate again, confident that he would go far, particularly if he should seek the Ohio governorship again next year and win it.

Others figuring in the thoughts of the nationalists are Sen. Taft of Ohio and Gov. Green of Illinois, and one committeeman was heard to suggest that if the reaction against internationalism continues to grow with the return of the troops you need not be surprised if so forthright a nationalist as Sen. Brooks of Illinois, himself a wounded veteran of the first World war, becomes a formidable candidate for the Republican nomination.

Tallies Wealth

[Acme Telephoto.]

Puk Paaris in New York Supreme court yesterday as she enumerated lavish gifts from her husband, Dr. Joseph Gevaert.

New York, Jan. 23 [Special].—The fall of Paaris was described in Supreme court today — by Puk Paaris. It was quite a tumble that the blonde ex-model, a former "Miss Denmark"—now suing for a separation—pictured. From life at a $5,000 to $6,000 a month clip with moneyed but moody Dr. Joseph Gevaert, to getting by without an allowance after the Belgian industrialist wearied of her as a wife and moved last Sept. 15 from their Fifth av. apartment.

Before Dr. Gevaert shut off his gifts and her $1,000 a month pin money, there had been some previous discord, she testified before Justice Louis A. Valente. It added up to one divorce, one remarriage, five separation agreements and 23 lesser crackups.

When she went to Reno in 1941 for a divorce, she testified, he sent her away with a $13,000 diamond ring. When they wrote off the 20 day old divorce with a new marriage she got a pair of sapphire and diamond earrings. She also got $60,000 at the time of the divorce—and kept it.

"He didn't ask for it back," she said simply.

She still has her jewelry, and she enumerated pieces totaling around $50,000 in value. She also has the Fifth av. apartment and 10 fur coats, ranging from mink to a $5,000 chinchilla. She is asking $50,000 alimony plus $25,000 for counsel fees. Puk will continue her story from the stand tomorrow.

NAVY ADMITTED LABOR WASTE, MEAD DECLARES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23 (AP).—Chairman Mead [D., N. Y.] of the senate war investigating committee asserted today that navy officials in effect had admitted waste of man power at the Norfolk navy yard.

For that reason, Mead said, it was difficult for him to understand "a statement of the navy department which purports to answer the findings of our subcommittee that man power has been wasted and improperly utilized."

Mead and Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] related to the senate yesterday that they had found "loafing on a big scale" in an investigation at Norfolk. Subsequently the navy issued a statement saying the answer to the Mead and Ferguson assertions was the yard's production record, of which "the navy is proud."

"It is very difficult," Mead said in a statement, "to understand how the navy can take this position in view of the fact that a report made last month, in December of 1944, by the industrial survey board, which operates from the office of the secretary of the navy, concluded that there was loafing and poor man power utilization at the Norfolk navy yard and 'that the same amount of work could be accomplished with substantially fewer employes.'

"This report was made available to the committee at its request, at a hearing which the committee offered navy officials yesterday morning, before my speech in the senate. At this hearing the navy officials were fully informed of the charges. The navy officials at that time were given an opportunity to answer the committee's charges. Their statements at that time in effect amounted to an admission that the situation existed."

Comdr. M. W. Williamson New Head of Carrier Unit

Comdr. Marcus W. Williamson, 34, of Pemberton, Minn., yesterday assumed command of the aircraft carrier qualification training unit at the Glenview Naval Air station. He succeeded Comdr. John P. Preston. The new commanding officer, who came to Glenview from Santa Barbara, Cal., participated in five major campaigns in the Pacific and formerly served as executive officer of the escort carrier U. S. S. Corregidor.

POLISH AUTHOR BRANDS LUBLIN GOVERNMENT RED

The Lublin committee, which Russia has recognized as the legal government of Poland, represents not Poland but the Polish Communists, Lt. Jan Karski, liaison officer of the Polish underground and author of "Story of a Secret State," said in Chicago yesterday.

"Polish Communists," he added, "constituted about one-half of 1 per cent of the vote in Poland in the years 1922-'39."

[The Lublin committee was established with Russian support after the soviets had broken with the Polish government in exile in London. Earlier this month the committee received official Russian recognition.]

Underground Real Government.

Lt. Karski pictured the real government of Poland as an underground organization which maintains a parliament, courts, and educational and police facilities, and which differs from other states principally in that foreign occupation of its territory compels it to have its top council abroad—in this case, in London.

Lt. Karski asserted that all the underground's members in eastern Poland had been arrested by the Russians, despite coöperation with the Red armies, in compliance with orders from the Polish government in London, in helping to drive the Germans out.

No Quislings Among Poles.

One reason why the Polish underground has been able to function as a complete state is that the Nazis were unable to find any quislings among the Poles, and thus did not set up a collaborationist government in Poland, Lt. Karski explained.

He asserted that a Polish-Russian understanding is still possible, if Russia will allow Poland to form its own government. "We realize that friendly relations with Russia are necessary," he said.

Lt. Karski, 31, was an artillery officer in the Polish-German war of September, 1939. After confinement in both Russian and German prisons, he became an underground worker and served as courier between Poland and London. Later he went to Washington as a Polish emissary. On the present—his second—trip to America he is lecturing on Polish affairs.

YANK AUTHOR HIDES OUT AFTER BOOK APPEARS

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MAASTRICHT, Holland, Jan. 23.—When Corp. Samuel Fuller, Company L, 16th infantry, sold the manuscript of his book, "Dark Page," to a publisher, everybody in the company was proud that the former Hollywood scenarist had become an author.

The company mail clerk, Sgt. Griffith Edwards of Chicago, suggested Fuller have the publisher send a copy of the book to everybody in the company as a Christmas present. Fuller instructed his publishers but all mail, particularly packages, has been delayed.

Yesterday Edwards was informed two sacks of mail for the company were at regimental headquarters. Everybody was waiting for presents from home so Edwards lugged the big sacks to the snow covered company headquarters. He was unable to use a jeep because the highway was under enemy observation.

When the sacks were opened they did not contain cakes, bottles, and gifts. They contained only copies of "Dark Page." Now Fuller, who is historian for the 1st division, is working in a hideout. He is offering autographed books, but gets jeers and threats from disappointed G.I.s. They are still awaiting Santa Claus.

ORANGE PRICE CUT; TANGARINE, LETTUCE ALSO

Decreases effective tomorrow in the weekly price ceiling of oranges, tangerines, and lettuce were announced yesterday by Marion W. Isbell, area office of price administration director. California-Arizona oranges will be down 2 cents a pound to 10 cents; tangerines off 1 cent to 10 cents a pound; and iceberg lettuce down 3 cents a head to 13 cents for larger sizes and off 2 cents a head to 10 cents for small kinds.

Altho severe weather may lie ahead, the heating season in Chicago is more than one-half over, the OPA said. Isbell announced the weekly fuel oil index as 51 per cent, indicating the OPA belief that if household oil users have 49 per cent of their winter's rations unused they should be able to get thru the heating season without difficulty.

CHILDREN START $500 FIRE.

Fire, believed to have been started by children playing with matches, did damage yesterday estimated at $500 in the living room of the home of Patrick McGowan, 859 E. 63d pl., said Chief Simon O'Donohue of the 19th fire battalion.

"Same thing at my house! The kids are so wrapped up in cops and robbers programs, they never know when I come in!"

SENATE PROBERS TO FIND OUT HOW DOG GOT AIR RIDE

Bridges Rips F. D. R. Secrecy on Incident.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—The senate military affairs committee voted today to investigate the air travel precedence given Col. Elliott Roosevelt's dog over an American sailor called home by the death of a parent.

The inquiry will embrace the entire transportation priority system, with especial emphasis on reports that cases of whisky have priority over soldiers on the routes to the battle fronts.

Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.], who proposed the investigation, said:

"The people of this country want their sons and daughters to be serving under the leadership of earnest, able, competent officers, and not as a part of a fighting force in which fighting men on leave see their loved ones amount to less in the estimation of officers than prize dogs or whisky aged in bond."

Secrecy Is Criticized.

Taking the Roosevelt family to task for its secrecy, Bridges complained:

"No member of the Roosevelt clan, including Col. Elliott Roosevelt, his actress wife, the commander in chief, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, or any one in the war department will admit knowing how the dog got a top 'A' priority when battle weary soldiers on limited and emergency leave could not. Apparently the dog arranged for his own priority."

Bridges won membership on the subcommittee that will make the investigation. He let it be known that one subject of inquiry will be the army's utilization of personnel.

Called Disgrace.

"The dog, Blaze," Bridges said, "was delivered in Hollywood to the actress, Faye Emerson Roosevelt [Elliott's wife] by army truck, chaperoned by an army major in uniform. If army officers are so plentiful as that, perhaps some additional men might be sent to the fighting lines to lead the battles."

Bridges called the incident "disgraceful." He said the relatives of America's fighting men are "deeply shocked and incensed." He said the welfare of the army and navy, as well as the morale of the fathers and mothers of fighting men, demands that the investigation be made and the truth be given the American people.

F. D. R. SCOLDED FOR INAUGURAL FLAG AFFRONT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—President Roosevelt was reproached today in a letter from the national flag code committee of New York City for standing above the American flag at the fourth term inaugural ceremonies Saturday.

Gridley Adams, chairman of the committee, which says it represents more than 100 patriotic and fraternal organizations, wrote to Mr. Roosevelt that he was "amazed to think that there is no one in your entire executive entourage who knows how not to humiliate the flag of the United States of America by displaying it beneath the platform upon which you delivered your fourth inaugural."

"Explicit" Codes Cited.

Adams observed that Mr. Roosevelt is commander in chief of the army and the navy, "whose respective flag codes are explicit," and honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America," whose manual likewise forbids displaying the flag below the heads of persons sitting."

He closed his letter with this paragraph: "Shame on whoever so disgraced old glory, to keep which unsullied and defiantly flying thousands of patriotic sons are giving their lives."

No Comment, Says White House.

The White House said it had no comment, for the present. The war department would not discuss the matter, referring a questioner to public law 829, section 3, subsection K, which says that the flag, "if displayed flat on a speaker's platform, should be displayed above and behind the speaker."

The navy said it didn't care to comment. A picture of the inaugural showed the flag in front of and below the President.

JUDGMENT DAY NEAR FOR HOST OF UNFORGIVEN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23 (AP).—The day of judgment is approaching for those who are unforgiven.

The bureau of internal revenue reported today that separate bills amounting to 900 million dollars are being mailed to about 4 million citizens who postponed paying part of their "unforgiven" income taxes. The collection will be taken up no later than March 15.

When the pay-as-you-go system started, congress canceled in most cases at least 75 per cent of the 1942 or 1943 tax, whichever was smaller. At least half of the unforgiven portion was due by March 15, 1944. The rest is due by next March 15.

The reason for sending separate bills is this: Fifty million people have to file 1944 income tax returns by March 15, but only 4 million of them have to pay unforgiven taxes. The two transactions will be separate because there's no use confusing the other 46 million.

SHOES—

The Outstanding Values in Consumers' Goods

The shoe retailers of Greater Chicago believe that it is in the interest of the public to know certain facts about shoes and about the inherent value which retailers have continued to make available to consumers through the war years. It is noteworthy that in all the discussions of price ceilings and quality of consumers' goods, neither government agencies nor the public have found it necessary to cite footwear. The reason is simple and conclusive: Shoe prices and shoe quality give the consumer more pre-war value for his dollar than in almost any other important and essential item in cost of living budgets. The very fact that shoes are taken for granted and do not figure in any of the calculations of higher living costs is proof positive that the shoe industry has accomplished an outstanding and noteworthy job.

Shortages of materials and manpower have unquestionably been a tremendous handicap in supplying civilians. First call for leather has been exercised by the armed forces; wood that might have gone into shoe lasts has been used for gun stocks; factory space and manpower have been diverted to production for the U. S. forces and for lend-lease. Yet with all of these obstacles the civilian population has been able to satisfy its essential wants with very little change in the over-all quality of its shoe purchases.

Regulations of the WPB and OPA have set objectives for the shoe industry which have been accepted without question and regardless of the heavy sacrifices entailed. It has been necessary for retailers to reduce their inventories to unprecedentedly low levels. Since the shoe merchant could not buy as many shoes as were sold to consumers even under rationing, supplies in different size ranges and models have been drastically depleted. John Doe, Mrs. Doe and their children cannot, therefore, always get what they want immediately, but by and large Greater Chicago's shoe retailers have been able to meet the public's needs, and civilians have experienced little, if any, hardship.

It is a remarkable fact that after three years of war and with more acute raw material shortages than the country has ever known, the consumer can still get practically unchanged value for his shoe dollar and ration coupon. Prices have not advanced in an inflationary scramble, quality as measured by construction and wearing standards has been changed only when government regulations and material shortages left no alternative. Government indexes of shoe prices show that a given style of shoe worth 100 cents on the dollar in 1941 is today sold for only 4 per cent more.

With all of the drain upon the nation's resources to fill the tremendous military schedules, footwear values to the consumer have been preserved. These are the facts in which Greater Chicago shoe retailers take pride and which we can tell our customers without qualification.

Marital Artillery Brought to Court

Couple Sent Home

She was cutting dough for noodles, Mrs. Julia Tkach, 54, told Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday, and it was not her fault that her husband, Andrew, 57, of 5239 S. California av. got his arm under the knife.

Tkach, who filed suit for divorce charging cruelty and an attempt on his life, introduced the long bladed knife in court and exhibited his wounded arm. Mrs. Tkach, appearing on her cross-bill charging him with cruelty and drunkenness, exhibited two clubs [one of them the butt of the Tkach Christmas tree] and a razor strop as weapons he had used on her.

"I think this case is an unhappy misunderstanding," said Judge Sabbath. "The hearing is continued generally to give you two time to become reconciled. Now go home and eat the noodles."

SAVE NAVY PILOT IN CRASH FATAL TO A CHICAGOAN

Key West, Fla., Jan. 23 (AP).—Boca Chica navy air base officers today reported the rescue of a navy flyer who had drifted in a rubber life raft for 45 hours after a plane crash which took the lives of two enlisted crewmen.

Ensign Gail Farley Brauw, 22, of York Haven, Pa., pilot of the single engined craft which plunged into the ocean Jan. 16, was rescued after two days and nights adrift.

Air base officers said that enlisted men, Michael Louis Trad of Bunnell, Fla., and Eugene Patrick Nolan, son of Mrs. Marguerite Hoglund of Chicago, lost their lives in the crash.

Chicago Airman Rescued.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 22 (AP).—The 13th naval district headquarters announced today that the last two of the six men who bailed out of a medium bomber over the Cascade mountains a week before were found—one of them dead—yesterday.

The body of Ensign Bruce Mayper, Douglaston, N. Y., was found in the Kindy Creek area, northeast of here. In the same area rescuers found Daniel Smotherman, an aviation ordnanceman 2d class, suffering from exposure and slight injuries. Smotherman is the son of Mrs. G. L. Smotherman, 7411 St. Lawrence av., Chicago.

So inaccessible was the terrain where Smotherman and Mayper's body were found that the search party had to receive its supplies by parachute. A stove was dropped and Smotherman saw it float earthward, headed toward it. So did the rescuers. They met.

CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL AWARDED SOUTH SIDE YANK

Neighborhood friends of Staff Sgt. Stanley Bender, 35, whose home is at 3935 S. California av., were not surprised yesterday to learn that the congressional medal of honor had been awarded to him in France by Lt. Gen. Alexander Patch of the 7th army. Relatives said that as a boy he was always ready to take a chance to rescue a cat from a tall tree or a deep well.

The nation's highest award of heroism was awarded to Sgt. Bender, a former taxicab driver, for his bravery in killing more than 12 German soldiers last Aug. 17 near La Londe, France. He is a veteran of seven campaigns and has the Purple Heart.

He lived with his mother, now 80, and his sister, Mrs. Margaret Budziszewski. The family came to Chicago from Carlisle, W. Va. He enlisted in the army Dec. 2, 1939, after he returned to Carlisle for a few weeks to work as a miner.

PIERRE LAVAL'S DAUGHTER FREE WITH HUSBAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Pierre Laval's daughter, Jose, and her husband, Count Rene de Chambrun, an American citizen by reason of his descent from Lafayette, are going about their affairs in Paris unmolested.

Jose said neither her father, Pierre Laval, nor Marshal Petain left France of their free will. They were taken prisoner last August by the Nazi Gestapo soon after the Vichy government was constitutionally dissolved. Jose added:

"Mother also had been arrested. I was told the Germans suddenly arrived at 4 o'clock in the morning and ordered my parents out of bed. They were hurried to a car, which sped away. That was all I could learn until a special commission sent to Germany to investigate the situation reported my parents occupy two small rooms which they never leave."

Harrison Parker Jailed for Contempt of Court

Harrison Parker, one time head of the Coöperative Society of America and former business manager of two Chicago newspapers, was sent to the county jail last night by Judge Daniel P. Trude of the Circuit court, who found Parker guilty of two instances of contempt of court. He was sentenced to 90 days on each charge, to be served consecutively, or 180 days in all.

Slaying Victim

(Story in adjoining column.)

Arthur Kasherman, shot to death in gangland style in Minneapolis, Minn.

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

Miss Pearl Von Wald, companion of Kasherman as he was shot down. She explained she suffered the black eye two days earlier when a man struck her in her apartment.

SCHEME OF SLAIN 'EDITOR' FOR NEW 'EXPOSE' STUDIED

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 23 [Special].—In the belief that Arthur Kasherman, 43, vice crusader and scandal sheet publisher, was slain to prevent his next planned "expose," police tonight searched for news copy and type he may have prepared for an early edition of his intermittently printed "Public Press."

Kasherman, who had fought with authorities for 15 years over his expose tabloid, was killed shortly before midnight last night by bullets fired from a passing automobile as he and a woman companion emerged from a cafe and entered his car.

Varying Opinions of Him.

Considered by some as an honest crusader but a crank, and by others as a blackmailer, Kasherman was the third editor of an expose sheet similarly killed here in 11 years. The other victims were Howard Guilford, publisher of the "Saturday Press" and "Pink Sheet," who was slain Sept. 7, 1934, and Walter Liggett, editor of the "Midwest American," killed Dec. 8, 1935. Neither of those slayings was solved.

Kasherman was reported to have remarked around the city hall as recently as yesterday that he was getting ready to put out another edition that would be an unusually "hot one." His paper, published about every three or four months, usually assailed the city administration.

It was believed by some that Kasherman planned to devote his next issue to the recent grand jury indictments returned two weeks ago. Altho 15 indictments were voted, charging night spots with gambling and vice conditions, only one defendant has been named and served in connection with the accusations.

Stewart Reamer, deputy clerk of the Hennepin county District court, also disclosed that Kasherman had met him on the street yesterday and had asked him for a list of the 23 members of the present county grand jury.

Uncover Correspondence.

Police, however, indicated they had little success in their hunt for Kasherman's next paper. They searched his two room apartment, where the unmarried editor lived alone, and found two blocks of type and miscellaneous correspondence.

The slaying was in the usual gangland fashion. As Kasherman entered his car with Miss Pearl von Wald, 34, who said she had been seeing the editor about once a month for some time, a bullet was fired thru his car windshield from a slowly passing unlighted sedan.

Miss Von Wald said Kasherman pushed her from the car and got out himself, pleading: "Don't shoot, for God's sake don't shoot. . . ." She said he also mentioned a name that she didn't hear distinctly. Six .38 caliber slugs fired at Kasherman were recovered. Two hit him. None struck his companion.

Question Six Others.

Police late today arrested a man Miss Von Wald said blacked her eye at her home Saturday night. Accompanied by Kasherman, she had appeared at police headquarters yesterday and signed an assault and battery charge against the man. Six witnesses of the shooting, in addition to Miss Von Wald, also were questioned.

Kasherman had studied law at the Universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota, had been a newsboy, and once worked as a writer and circulator for Guilford's publications. In 1931 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the mayoralty nomination.

Altho frequently arrested for selling his paper against authorities' orders, Kasherman had been jailed in only two cases. About 15 years ago he served 30 and 90 day jail sentences for contempt of a grand jury and in the late 30s he served two and a half years at St. Cloud reformatory upon his conviction of having extorted $25 from a woman who reputedly operated a vice resort.

POLICE ARREST DETROIT MAN IN HOOPER SLAYING

Ex-Roadhouse Operator Faces Lie Test.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 23 [Special].—Abe Rosenberg, 44, Detroit underworld character and former road house operator, was taken into custody without charge tonight by state police in connection with their investigation of the slaying Jan. 11 of State Sen. Warren G. Hooper.

State Police Capt. Harold Mulbar made this announcement when he returned here with Rosenberg from Detroit. He said Rosenberg, who is known in Detroit as "Buffalo Harry," will be held incommunicado and may be given a lie detector test tomorrow.

Officers questioned Rosenberg in regard to his relations with Hooper when they were informed three days after the slaying that Rosenberg and Hooper had quarreled recently and that Rosenberg had made threats against the senator. Mulbar said he is not satisfied with some of the answers given by Rosenberg during the questioning.

Appealed to Victim.

Mulbar said that Rosenberg formerly operated a tavern known as "Joe's place" near Albion, Mich., Hooper's home town. On one occasion, he said, Rosenberg had trouble with the state liquor commission over his license and appealed to Hooper for assistance in retaining the license.

Reports have been received by state police investigators that Hooper made the acquaintance of Rosenberg's wife, Vita, and one rumor now under investigation is that Hooper was recently seen dining with Mrs. Rosenberg in a Bay City restaurant.

Mulbar said that Rosenberg has recently been living alone in a small Detroit apartment and that he has told police he was alone in the apartment on the day Hooper was slain. Rosenberg has a long police record, including a conviction for stealing a load of furs, for which he served time in the state penitentiary, Mulbar said.

Visits Chicago Today.

Kim Sigler, special prosecutor, who is directing the legal phase of investigation into the Hooper slaying, left Lansing tonight for Chicago where he said he will appeal to police authorities tomorrow for their help in the case. Sigler explained he is convinced the slayer is a member of the underworld of a large midwestern city and that he plans to visit Toledo and Cleveland with similar appeals.

Sigler disclosed that he made an appeal for assistance yesterday to Detroit police and that as a result Detective Inspector George Branton, the department's ace crime investigator, has been assigned exclusively to the case.

The Michigan legislature today completed action on a bill offering a reward of $25,000 for the apprehension of the person or persons responsible for Hooper's slaying.

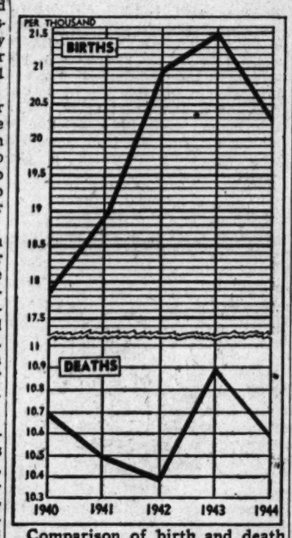
Births and Deaths



Comparison of birth and death rates per thousand during the last five years.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23 (AP).—Births in this country in 1944 were double the number of deaths.

About 1,400,000 people died, compared with 1,459,544 in 1943, the census bureau estimated today. The bureau previously had estimated there were 2,800,000 registered births in 1944, a considerable drop from the war influenced record of 2,934,860 in 1943. [There were an estimated 200,000 unregistered births for each of the years.]

On the basis of the new estimates the 1944 death rate was 10.6 per 1,000 population. In 1943 it was 10.9; 1942, 10.4; 1941, 10.5; 1940, 10.7.

The 1944 birth rate is estimated at 20.3 per 1,000 population. In 1943 it was 21.5; 1942, 21; 1941, 18.9; 1940, 17.9.

The lowest birth rate on record was 16.6 in 1933. Tho the rate has risen since then, the general trend in the birth rate has been downward. It was 25 in 1915.

The death rate has gone steadily downward, too, but has shown signs of leveling off. No significant changes have appeared during the war [overseas casualties aren't included].

SLEW DAUGHTER WITH AX; PLEADS FOR PUNISHMENT

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 23 (AP).—Carl V. Gilbert, 41, a war worker, pleaded guilty to a first degree murder charge today less than 24 hours after his daughter, Jessie Pearl, 5, was slain with an ax in their home. Gilbert told Superior Court Judge Leonard Verdier: "I did it. I want to take my punishment." The court directed that Gilbert be examined by a sanity commission before further action is taken. Gilbert said he struck the child because she delayed in putting on her clothes.

CHILDREN USED TO CHECK FOOD PRICES FOR OPA

New York, Jan. 23 (AP).—If little Willie asks: "Mother, what did you pay for these lamb chops?", it is all a part of an office price administration project and Willie may be just doing his home work.

The regional OPA office, admitting the whole thing was still in an experimental stage and currently confined to nine public schools of Princeton, N. J., let some light on the proposal today.

It works like this:

Willie and his school mates are being instructed—in school—on price control and rationing. They are being furnished with a ruled sheet with spaces to write in the name of the article, its selling price and the OPA ceiling price.

With the chart comes instructions to find out what mother paid for groceries and meat.

At that point the OPA told of the classroom lecture given by Fred Van Deventer, member of the Princeton war price and rationing board and sponsor of the project.

"Tomorrow, when you come in here to school," Van Deventer tells the pupils, "there will be official ceiling price posters in the halls."

Van Deventer tells the children to put the prices paid by mother on the chart, comparing them with the ceiling prices listed.

"Then go home and show your mother what you did," Van Deventer says.

"I want you to do that every day for a week."

In no case, the OPA said, are the children asked to report any violations. If the project works it may be applied on a nation-wide scale.

New York, Jan. 23 (AP).—One hundred and seventy-two persons accused of being "representatives of fascist terror" went on trial yesterday before a people's court at the Bulgarian Black sea port of Varna, the Sofia radio said today.

FRANCE TO GET 5,000 TONS OF U.S. NEWSPRINT

Stocks There 'Zero,' Spokesman Says.

BY JOSEPH HEARST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—The foreign economic administration disclosed today that 5,000 tons of the nation's scarce newsprint has been allocated to France and will be shipped within the next month to bolster the lean stocks of French newspapers.

A spokesman for the French purchasing mission said efforts to obtain newsprint in the United States were initiated about six months ago and that the allocation of 5,000 tons was made by the combined raw materials board about two months ago. The paper was paid for by the French and is not being sent under lend-lease, FEA said.

A spokesman for the French government said the paper will be allocated to all French newspapers under a government rationing system based on circulation. He said French paper stocks are "completely zero" and that the arrival of the American shipment will not mean that French newspapers, now printing but a single page, can publish in normal size.

Deny Normal Publication.

Paris reports that four of the city's 21 daily newspapers expect to publish in normal size when the American shipment arrives were discounted by the French spokesman here. He said the 5,000 tons of paper will be only a fraction of the amount needed by all papers. Since France was liberated French papers have been given small allotments of paper by the United States army.

Before the war, France's principal source of newsprint was the Scandinavian countries. The French spokesman said no requests for additional American newsprint are pending but that efforts are being made to obtain wood pulp in Canada for shipment to France, where it would be made into newsprint.

Procedure Explained.

Spokesmen for the FEA and the combined raw materials board explained the steps taken in handling the French application. The request first was made to the combined board, composed of representatives of the United States, Great Britain, and Canada.

The board notified FEA, as the claimant agency for foreign shipments, and the FEA requested an allotment for the paper from the WPB requirements committee, which passes on the requests of all claimant agencies. When the requirements committee aproved the request it was returned to the combined board which then allocated the newsprint.

Boy Reunited with Dog Saved from Ice in Lake

33 BEN FRANKLIN LETTERS BRING $21,600 IN LONDON

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP).—Thirty-three unpublished letters of Benjamin Franklin were sold in London today to Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, Philadelphia bookdealer, for $21,600. The letters, all written to Franklin's friend and traveling companion to Ireland, Richard Jackson, English parliamentarian of the 18th century, were sold by the trustees of the estate of the late Col. L'Estrange Malone of Yorkshire. The last similar series of Franklin's letters, marketed in 1928, also was bought by Rosenbach.

YANK, DANCER MUST DIE FOR LONDON SLAYING

BY JAMES SLOAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—The drama of London's sensational "cleft chin" murder trial continued in historic Old Bailey court today even after the judge had passed death sentences on an American paratroop private and a British strip tease dancer for the holdup slaying of a London taxi driver.

After the judge had sentenced Karl Gustav Hulten, 22, of Cambridge, Mass., and Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, 18, to be hanged for the murder of George Heath last Oct. 6, the packed courtroom echoed to an emotional outburst by the young dancer.

The sobbing girl's shrieks of "The brute, why didn't he tell the truth?" rang from the cell blocks below the courtroom as the judge disclosed to the jury that Hulten and Mrs. Jones had made "murderous or near murderous assaults on other people in their expeditions" even before Heath was slain.

Tells of Other Assaults.

The judge, who still wore the symbolic black cap which he had donned to pass the death sentences agreed upon by the jury in 75 minutes' deliberations, said that Hulten once desisted from an armed robbery only when he discovered his intended victim was an American army officer.

Tonight, the fate of Mrs. Jones, whose husband was lost in the British air borne attack at Arnheim and who had been a barmaid, movie usherette, and waitress before taking up disrobing in public at a salary of $18 a week, rested with Home Secretary Morrison.

The recommendation of mercy which the jury of nine men and three women made for her will permit an appeal which her counsel reportedly will lodge with Morrison, who has the power to advise King George to commute the sentence.

New Disclosure Cited.

Legal circles tonight debated whether the judge's disclosure of the pair's other escapades, which under British law couldn't be mentioned during the trial, might have prejudiced the appeal planned for Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Jones' mother, who had attended most sessions of the trial with her husband, was not present when the verdict was returned. She and her husband had gone for a cup of tea and only the girl's father was in the overflowing courtroom when sentence was passed. He sat alone behind a row of American army officers.

Hulten remained impassive until the end.

HELD FOR NEGLECT IN CAR AND TRAIN CRASH FATAL TO 3

Raymond Sievert, 44, of 4016 W. 21st pl., yesterday was held to the grand jury on a $2,000 bond on a charge of criminal carelessness arising out of an accident Dec. 23 at the Oak Park av. crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio Chicago Terminal railway in Oak Park, where he is crossing guard. Three persons were killed by an eastbound train after the automobile in which they were riding had been driven onto the tracks. The hearing was held in the Oak Park Police court before Judge Alfred T. Brennan.

BARBER CLIPPERS STOLEN.

Two electric clippers and other barber equipment, valued at $50, were stolen from Gene's barber shop, 6002 S. Ashland av., by burglars who smashed the front door glass, the owner, Eugene Bergeron, 5149 S. Honore st., reported to police yesterday.

Now! a War Born Revolutionary Development "Hearing Lenses!"

What a series of optical test lenses does for the fitting of your glasses, this series of Acousticon hearing lenses does for your hearing.

...which bring to the deafened, for the first time, a far clearer, more sharply "focused" hearing of conversation, music, the whole world of sound

At last Acousticon Research has made it possible to correct your hearing loss by "hearing lenses" much as the optical specialist corrects your seeing loss by means of optical lenses.

From the crucible of war has come the FUTURA ACOUSTICON—a radically new hearing instrument with its remarkable new "hearing lenses."

The Great War Born Discovery

The FUTURA ACOUSTICON and its new "hearing lenses" constitute an outstanding and dramatic development in electronic sound control which Acousticon engineers made as a result of creating communication equipment for use in battle.

This is the first war in history which has been fought on the basis of voice communication between planes—between tanks—between ships and invading troops. This called for receivers and communication equipment of higher performance standards, and more controlled fidelity than had ever been demanded before. Any failure in understanding a message would be paid for in lives! Acousticon alone had to produce within a short period over 1,200,000 service receivers as well as vast quantities of other communication equipment.

As a result, Acousticon engineers made discoveries which gave them hitherto undreamed of methods of shaping and controlling sound. These discoveries made possible receivers so wonderfully accurate that they become "hearing lenses." Listen to each of them separately and you will understand the vast difference between them . . . and why there is but one correct hearing lens for your ear. There are even special Music Receivers which will bring into clear focus for you the richest tones in the musical range.

What happens when you lose your hearing is that you become out of tune with the world of sound. But now with the new FUTURA ACOUSTICON we can control and shape sound so that it is once more in tune with your hearing impairment. When sound is changed and made to agree or harmonize with your hearing impairment it becomes agreeable and harmonious... not just harshly loud or crudely amplified.

The FUTURA ACOUSTICON brings to your ears hearing that will literally make your eyes sparkle with pleasure. We know, for we have seen it happen again and again. That is why the new FUTURA ACOUSTICON will give you not only corrected hearing but also a new sensation of enjoyment and freedom from strain.

NEW HIGH IN VALUE NEW LOW IN PRICE $79.50

What an achievement to include with the FUTURA ACOUSTICON at this low price, individual scientific fitting, local service, custom ear mold or bone receiver, flesh colored receiver cover, and plastic cord.

Remember that Acousticon, the world's first electrical hearing aid manufacturer, has never, and will never sacrifice quality for low price. The many new technical shortcuts devised under the precision mass production made necessary by war, made this low price possible. This is unquestionably the greatest value ever offered to the hard of hearing.

The quality of hearing restoration brought to you by the FUTURA ACOUSTICON with its new hearing lenses must be experienced to be appreciated. Come in and enjoy the thrill of a new kind of hearing restoration. Complete test and demonstration are absolutely free.

Just as his glasses make him see more clearly, his hearing lenses make him hear more clearly.

Modern Styling—Inconspicuous

A variety of flesh shades of Ear Receiver Caps to blend with different complexions. Also neutral shade of plastic cord. This combination makes your Acousticon inconspicuous—hardly noticeable.

WARD BLAMES ARMY FOR LAG ON 100,000 ORDERS

Firm Demands End of 'Serious Inefficiency.'

Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday called upon the army to obey the Presidential order instructing it to operate Ward's seized plants in an efficient manner and demanded that it take steps immediately to remedy alleged gross inefficiencies of operation which the company listed in detail.

The demand was contained in a letter from Bert R. Prall, vice president, to Maj. Gen. Joseph W. Byron, general manager of the seized properties for the army. The letter asserted that an unexpected increase in business, given by army spokesmen as an excuse for falling behind with orders, is groundless, since a similar increase in Ward plants not under army operation has been taken in stride.

Gen. Byron, in an answering statement, declined to enter into a controversy over the manner in which the store is being operated and asserted that the army's viewpoint had been voiced in affidavits filed in federal court.

Should Aid War.

"The executive order under which you have seized properties of Montgomery Ward & Co., Inc., commands you to operate these properties in a manner which will aid the successful prosecution of the war," Prall told Gen. Byron.

"By interference with the normal operation of these properties, however," he said, "you have seriously reduced the efficiency with which the business has been operated. Listed below are specific instances of inefficient operation, all relating to the operation of the Chicago mail order house:

"1. More than 100,000 orders have remained unfilled at all times since Jan. 8. On Jan. 15 the management staff of the house prepared a request to the Illinois department of labor for permission for employes to work on Sunday, Jan. 21, and urged that it be immediately filed. Your representative, Maj. Daley, failed to file the request until 5 p. m., Friday, Jan. 19, too late to obtain approval. This failure prevented the filling of approximately 35,000 orders.

"2. On Jan. 5, the management staff urged your representative to begin offering employes nine hours of work per day, beginning no later than Monday, Jan. 8. Your representative refused to permit an extension of the work day beyond eight hours until Thursday, Jan. 11, again causing the loss of thousands of productive man hours that could have been devoted to handling of customers' orders.

Another Delay Cited.

"3. On Jan. 5 the management staff urged your representative to begin the immediate transfer of orders to the Denver mail order house, which was in a position to handle additional orders promptly. Your representative failed to act on this request until the afternoon of Jan. 11. The failure to act promptly prevented the handling by the Denver house of approximately 20,000 orders.

"4. Preparations for taking an accurate inventory on schedule have been completely inadequate and unnecessarily delayed. Your failure to recondition and restock returned merchandise, failure to check warehouse and reserve stocks, failure to prepare inventory count sheets, cards, and books on schedule, failure to keep payment of invoices on a current basis, will all seriously affect the taking of an accurate physical inventory. These matters have repeatedly been called to the attention of your representative.

"5. Under your operation the house has failed to place orders for approximately $1,200,000 of needed merchandise during the last two weeks. The house is seriously underbought in relation to estimated demand for the next six months. Ward's has repeatedly called this failure to the attention of your representative.

"Delay Cannot be Excused."

"The failure of your representative to take adequate steps to handle customers' orders has made it necessary to delay distribution of the general catalog for 10 days. This delay has given a competitive advantage to other mail order merchants who are operating without interference."

Under advisement in federal District court is a suit in which the government requests a declaratory judgment upholding the legality of the seizure of 16 Ward properties in seven cities Dec. 28. A ruling is expected soon.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Evelyn Green, 2026 Wilson av.]

THE QUESTION.

Would you rather be a congressional page boy or a bat boy for a major league ball club?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Jerry Custer, 12, of 4000 Lake Park av.—A bat boy! I've always been interested in baseball, and I'd like to travel with the ball players. I could get their autographs and give them to the kids in school. I could get a lot of souvenir baseballs and bats. Some day I might even play on a big league team.

Ralph Ortiz, 14, of 4077 Oakland crescent. — Think of all the fun I'd have being a bat boy and being outdoors all the time. I'm not so interested in politics as I am in baseball. Maybe I could travel with the club if there were no school. I'd feel so important knowing all the big league players.

Albert Grosch, 12, of 3845 Lake Park av.—I would want to be a congressional page boy because I'd get acquainted with all the nation's political leaders. I'd learn to know congressional procedure and if I were smart enough some day I could run for President. Also I'd make a lot of good connections for personal gains.

James Gregg, 12, of 3735 Lake Park av.—Baseball always has been one of my favorite sports. I wouldn't know what to do if I were a page in congress—I'd feel awfully out of place. But I'd enjoy working for the ball players, getting their autographs, and seeing all the games. I'd almost feel like a part of the team.

Jimmy Pappas, 13, of 4031 Drexel blvd.—Dad used to play on a baseball team. Some day I'd like to play professional baseball, too. If I could start out as a bat boy I would learn a lot of tricks by watching the boys play and by talking to them. They could teach me many things. I'd hand some of the greatest players their bats!

George Barber, 13, of 4305 Berkeley av.—I don't like baseball, so I'd be awfully bored if I had to work with a ball club all the time. If I were a page in congress I'd know all the senators and representatives and meet a lot of big shots. Maybe I'd even get to see some of the ambassadors who come to this country.

SLAYER IN $57 TAVERN HOLDUP GETS 99 YEARS

Raymond Slechta.

Raymond Slechta, 31, of 1627 S. Kedvale av., an ex-convict, was sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary yesterday by Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court after he pleaded guilty to the fatal shooting Nov. 11 of David Shetsky, 39, in Shetsky's tavern at 3408 W. 16th st. in a $57 holdup.

Slechta testified he had been too intoxicated to remember entering the tavern. His attorney, Frank McDonnell, contended Slechta's gun had been discharged during the robbery when Slechta was knocked down by a hurled bar stool.

Witnesses called by Assistant State's Attys. Edward Healy and James Condon testified Slechta entered the tavern, his face covered with a handkerchief, and grappled with Shetsky. As the two men fell Slechta fired.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 23 (AP).—Forest [Nubbins] Hoffman, 3, of Cheyenne, Wyo., who celebrated Christmas in November because his parents believed he wouldn't live until Dec. 25, came back to Denver's Mercy hospital today for a checkup on an operation performed there to remove a bladder obstruction that had threatened his life. Hospital attendants reported: "Ten pounds heavier and spry as a squirrel."

GIRL'S REMORSE TRAPS SAILOR ON MURDER CHARGE

Frank D. Carter.

A girl's remorse, police said, yesterday led to the arrest of a sailor on a charge of murder an hour before he was scheduled to leave for sea duty. The girl, of Louisville, Ky., told her fiance, a Louisville policeman, that she had been a girl friend of the slayer of a Norwood [O.], police sergeant. The alleged slayer was arrested at Great Lakes naval training center.

The man under arrest was Frank D. Carter, 24, a fireman 2d class, who was turned over to the federal bureau of investigation by naval authorities.

Confession Reported.

Carter, whose home is in Anchorage, Ky., was reported to have confessed yesterday to Assistant United States Atty. Bernard Sokol and Prosecutor Carson Hoy of Hamilton county, Ohio, the fatal shooting July 8, 1942, of Police Sgt. Anthony Overberg of Norwood, O., during the robbery of a Norwood drug store.

The girl, whose name was withheld, told her policeman fiance, who authorities said also must remain anonymous, that she had "gone" with Carter, that she frequently had driven his get-away car after robberies, and that he had shot and killed Sgt. Overberg.

Wife Also Arrested.

The policeman communicated with Chief of Police Charles Fritz of Norwood, who with Kentucky authorities raided Carter's home in Anchorage. There, Sokol said, they found the 45 caliber automatic used in the slaying of Overberg. Carter's wife, Betty, was placed under arrest on suspicion of being Carter's get-away in other robberies. She told police that her husband was at Great Lakes.

Carter was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of fleeing across a state line to avoid prosecution, but this charge was dropped when Carter agreed to waive extradition to Ohio. He later was turned over to Hamilton county authorities for removal to Ohio for trial.

COMPLETE TEST FOR DRURY SET FOR TOMORROW

Lt. William Drury, who Monday was notified by the city civil service commission to report for physical examination as the first step in his examination for a captaincy, yesterday was notified to appear tomorrow instead for physical, oral, and written examination. The commission had been ordered by Judge Joseph A. Graber in Superior court to permit Drury to take the examination.

The city legal department yesterday filed a notice of appeal from Judge Graber's order to the Appellate court and today, a department spokesman said, city attorneys will go before Judge Graber to seek a writ of supersedeas.

Judge John C. Lewe in Superior court will rule tomorrow on Drury's petition for an injunction to restrain the city from filling more than 21 of the 22 captaincy vacancies until after the results of Drury's examination are known.

Drury and six captains, ousted by the commission last summer after a gambling investigation, have appealed to the state Supreme court to enforce a ruling by Judge Graber voiding the ouster.

DROP GUN COUNT AGAINST RABBIT HUNTER IN CITY

A charge of carrying concealed weapons against Thomas Wozitka, 50, of 2645 N. Mobile av., was dismissed by Judge Jay Schiller in State st. court yesterday. Wozitka was arrested Monday after he set out on a rabbit hunt near his home.

Wozitka told Judge Schiller that his family had run out of red points and he thought a rabbit or two might ease the meat shortage. When arrested, he said, his .22 caliber revolver was being carried in a sack, and he had a club in one hand.

After both Wozitka and police agreed that the revolver handn't been loaded, Judge Schiller dismissed the charge and warned Wozitka to do his hunting hereafter outside the city limits and inside the rabbit season.

SLUGGED AND ROBBED OF $12.

Albert Larsen, 51, of 6132 Kimbark av., a maintenance man, was slugged and robbed of $12 in a holdup at 62d st. and Kimbark av., he told police yesterday. He was treated at Woodlawn hospital for a scalp wound.

SUICIDE LANE.

The Republican party continued its complacent and inept progress down Suicide Lane with the retention of National Chairman Brownell by the national committee at its Indianapolis meeting Monday.

To the public Mr. Brownell represents the anti-American element which deliberately threw the election to Mr. Roosevelt by procuring the nomination of Gov. Dewey, whose fidelity to the principles held by the majority of the party's members was already suspect. Mr. Brownell was the personal choice of the discredited governor of New York. His pledge that the party machinery will not be used to forward any one's candidacy can be given just as much credence as Gov. Dewey's repeated pre-convention assertions that he was not a candidate.

Damned already by his association with and support by a defeated nominee, Mr. Brownell completed the job with his so-called report to the committee. It was evident that he had not only read "One World," but also believed it. He shared Mr. Willkie's inability to distinguish between the advance of technology and the immutability of human ambition and selfishness. In the face of Churchill's campaign to restore and retain the Victorian empire and Stalin's realization of the rosiest dreams of the czars, Mr. Brownell holds that the B-29 and the Thunderbolt have made all men kin. The lamb is to lie down with the lion and the bear. The lamb stew will consist of American G. I.s.

So steeped is he in the "me, too" strategy that wrecked the campaign which he and Mr. Dewey waged that he sees nothing incongruous in plumping in one breath for constitutional government and free enterprise, and in the next for "a government dedicated to the efficient assumption of its social, humanitarian, and economic responsibilities." It does not occur to him that it was assumption of "economic responsibilities" by government, with so-called social and humanitarian programs thrown in for window dressing, that wrecked free government and free enterprise in Europe. He doesn't see that the New Deal campaign against economic and political freedom has hidden behind these same spurious watchwords.

Mr. Brownell will be a handicap to the Republican candidates for congress in 1946. He puts the whole party under a cloud of suspicion, for he represents everything that has damned it with American voters in the past. His retention as national chairman gives a strong impetus to the unorganized urge for a third party to fill the vacuum that the political incompetence of Republican leadership is creating.

CASTING OUT PARENTS.

The Civic federation calls attention to two bills filed in the legislature which would relieve children, regardless of their means, from obligation to support aged and needy parents and would throw the burden of maintaining them on the state's old age pension fund.

The bills would repeal the present provision in the old age pension act that the aged may not receive assistance if they have children legally responsible for their support and reasonably able to supply it. The law as it stands, however, imposes no hardship on families which lack sufficient means to support the parents of either husband or wife. When the children can't provide, the state does. That is entirely fair and is an equitable assumption of social responsibility.

As the federation observes, the proposed change, entirely apart from considerations of additional public cost, which might approach 100 per cent, strikes at the vital principle of family responsibility. The family in all recorded time has been the core about which society is organized. The injunction to "honor thy father and thy mother" is rooted in our instincts. It is unthinkable that any person should cast aside the parents who are responsible for his existence and who have sacrificed that he might bear their hopes and pride.

WASTED MAN POWER.

The wasted and hoarded man power, enforced loafing, job stretching, and private diversion of government time and materials found in the Norfolk navy yard by Senators Mead and Ferguson of the war investigating committee conclusively demonstrate a thesis that is not new to readers of THE TRIBUNE. It is that the existing labor supply in this country is sufficient to do the job if all the workers put in an honest day's work.

We have said time and again that the Roosevelt administration's demand for a national service law had no justification in need or in fact, and that in the wastage and hoarding of man power government is the worst offender of all. The workers at the Norfolk yard are government employes. We have said repeatedly that the burocracy ought to clean house, fire the unnecessary payrollers, and get down to work. The senators say the same thing.

Sen. Mead said that the scandalous waste of time and men applied not only to arsenals and navy yards but to the actual uniformed ranks of the army and navy. "There are too many men now assigned to nonproductive jobs whom the armed services either will not or cannot shift to useful work," he asserted. "They should either be utilized in uniform or released to industry at once." These are conclusions with which our readers are long since familiar.

The Roosevelt administration is armed with all the war powers, and more, needed to get all the war production this country requires. But it has also provided itself with a lot of labor social services to encourage workers to forget their responsibilities to the men on the fighting fronts. It's all right for them to stage slowdowns, to indulge in featherbedding, to strike; for in doing so they are just protecting the social gains the New Deal has given them and, besides, they vote right. What the government does thru one agency with its left hand it undoes thru another with its right. Then Mr. Roosevelt runs to congress shouting for more power.

If there is any sense left in Washington, the Mead-Ferguson report should settle this nonsense about a national service law for good and all. Let the government get a full day's work out of all the 50 million and more people it already has before it starts drafting housewives out of the kitchen. The process of regimentation has gone quite far enough without committing the last step and putting every citizen at the disposal of the politicians who have fallen down on their jobs.

We think the conditions at Norfolk are sufficiently outrageous to justify doing something about it. Vice President Truman, when he held Mr. Mead's job, made a flock of reports, too, but very little came of them except that Mr. Truman got up in the world. Mr. Mead, as the new chairman, is also obligated to the New Deal and may also be content to chide a little and then let matters ride. But Sen. Ferguson, when he was a Michigan judge serving as a one-man grand jury, saw that people went to jail after he uncovered the dirt. A little following thru by him now to achieve the same result might do a great deal to correct the mismanagement of the war.

NO PLACE FOR A BULL FROG.

The bombs from the carriers of Adm. Halsey's 3d fleet along the China coast and Formosa, and from the B-29s over the home islands of the empire added to the guns of Gen. MacArthur in Luzon are caving in the face of another Jap government. Again the admirals and generals are causing the emperor "much concern." For the third or fourth time the war lords have let him down. American explosives are disturbing the low forms of sea life which he likes to study when he is not officially shining as the sun god. The South China sea has become an American lake of a sort.

Radio Tokyo and the Japanese press agencies intimate that something stronger than the present cabinet must be found. Premier Koiso, who in home repute "acts like a tiger and sings like a bull frog," has been even more unfortunate than Tojo, whom he succeeded. The voice does not give Hirohito much pleasure even in song.

The Tojo cabinet, which succeeded the Konoye government in October, 1941, went in determined to make war. Subsequent peace negotiations were a screen. Tojo had his plans for the Pearl Harbor attack before Kurusu reached Washington. Konoye, who Sumner Welles said was a highly civilized Japanese statesman of the Saionji type, fell following his failure to arrange a personal meeting with Mr. Roosevelt. Washington had been told, urgently, that if the American President would not meet the Japanese premier as he had the British premier the war party in Tokyo would take over. Prestige was at stake.

Tojo had a war honeymoon of six months in which victories exceeded militarist dreams. In June, seven months after Pearl Harbor, came the defeat at Midway, following the admonitory one in the Coral sea. The Japanese navy high-tailed it for home waters. The honeymoon was over, altho Tojo had two more years before his humiliations sent him to the emperor "apologizing for the government's meager power to the men on the fighting front and the one hundred million people of Japan" [Japanese official announcement], and meekly recognizing that it was "most appropriate to carry out a total resignation of the cabinet."

We can follow Japanese cabinet upheavals in the wake of American advance across the Pacific. Truk was attacked Feb. 16, 1944. The naval base and its warships took an astonishing beating. Five days later Fleet Adm. Nagano and Field Marshal Sugiyama were relieved of duty. June 18 a Jap naval force undertook to relieve Saipan, now a base for B-29s, and retired the night of the 19th beaten. By July 8 all organized resistance on Saipan had ceased. This sealed Tojo's fate. First, Navy Minister Shimada was replaced. Then the whole Tojo cabinet fell in disgrace. The voice of the bull frog took over.

What happened to Tojo took longer and was less than what has happened to Koiso. The first war government fell because it could not protect the naval base at Truk and because it could not hold, supply, or retake Saipan. There had been other defeats from Attu to New Guinea, but the loss of Saipan meant that Japan had been brought under the umbrella of land based bombers. Therefore the Tojo government, in the queer English in which its pronouncements are translated, being filled with trepidation, "finally decided to renovate its personnel." However, within less than six months the voice of the bull frog was apologizing to the emperor who was unhappy again.

Koiso has seen the invasion of Leyte and Luzon, the defeat of the Japanese navy in four great battles in Philippine waters and the sweeping of the South China sea by American carriers. American seamen admire the skill with which the Japanese took their ships thru the various Philippine straits at night and think their plan of attack was intelligent. The fact that it might have been successful probably won't save Koiso.

A SCIENTIST ACQUITS "BOBBY" BURNS.

[Des Moines Register.]

Scandal has long said that the great Scottish poet, Robert Burns, drank himself to death. Learned scandalmongers deduce it from the references to getting drunk in his letters and poems, and the fits of depression he sometimes suffered. People who dislike Scottish dialect deduce it from the language of his poems: Would any one address a mouse as "wee, sleekit, cow'rin', tim'rous beastie" unless he was pretty squiffed?

Now comes a past president of the British Medical association, Dr. Sidney Watson Smith, to blast once more the drinking to death theory. Dr. Smith says that what killed Burns was "subacute infective endocarditis—that microbic inflammation of the heart which usually has a fatal ending in septicaemia."

"Tam o' Shanter," the long poem of which Burns was proudest, is not much read now, but it will come back. It is a moral legend on the evils of staying too late in town and drinking too much!

FABLES IN ORATORY.

The President's inaugural reference to dogs in a manger has been an English colloquialism since the 16th century. Its origin may be found in Aesop's fables, but the ancient Greek inventor of animal stories for the ages, in moralizing over the dog who kept an ox away from its hay, did not use the word "manger."

The writer who contributed the phrase to English speech was Thomas Tusser, in "Hundredth Pointes of Husbandrie," published in 1580; the exact phrasing was, "To dog in the manger some I liken could." Other early examples by more notable figures of English literature may be found in Robert Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy" and Samuel Pepys' diary.

The fabulous ostrich of the President's remarks has been neglected by the several dictionaries of phrase, fable, and quotations that we have consulted. The first nature faker who gave this self-deluded bird to the world's satirists and caricaturists deserves recognition. Who knows?

"Banzai," the Japanese cheer which appears frequently in dispatches from the Pacific, crept into American speech during the Russian-Japanese war and is now completely at home in the unabridged dictionaries. It has as many uses as "hurrah," but is more intelligible. The literal meaning is "10,000 years"; freely translated, it means "forever."

GHOST CITY.

(Warsaw liberated Jan. 17, 1945.)

Five years ago the sudden thunder broke
To bring the Nazi terror to each street,
Where many a foe in other days bespoke
The perils where wide roads and river meet.
The first to fall before grim ruthlessness,
Yet brave as any who have felt the shock,
At last you know your cause has won success,
And now you count the score and view the clock.

The hour is late indeed for all the world;
The awful score mounts daily on each side,
But from your broken streets the foe is hurled,
And peacefully may flow your river wide.
Yet sorrow lingers such as seldom known,
And ghosts of brave folk haunt each shattered stone.

Frank Merriwell Lore.

Supplementary information on the career of the late Gilbert Patten, author of the Frank Merriwell stories [Jan. 15]:

His true name was William George Patten, and under it, at 16, he began to write short stories for Beadle & Adams' Banner Weekly. His first long story was published in the Half-Dime Library in 1886, when he was 20, and was entitled, "The Diamond Sport, or the Double Face at Bedrock." After that he wrote many thrillers for Beadle. The name "William West Wilder" [Wyoming Will] was wished on him by the publishers for a story published in the Banner Weekly in 1889, and was used for eight issues of the Popular Library in 1891-'92.

On April 18, 1896, under the name "Burt L. Standish," he published the first of his Merriwell stories and about the same time he dropped the William G. in his name and became Gilbert Patten. For the next 17 years a weekly Merriwell story was published. Three in 1897 and those from the spring of 1900 to the spring of 1901 were written by John H. Whitson.

MEMORIES IN UNIFORM.

The boys I meet o' mornings
on their way to Glenbard High
Are strangers now, and younger, and their faces make me sigh
For other days a year ago, or maybe two or three,
And all the boys in high school then who called "Hello" to me:
For Jack's in far Australia and Pete's at Camp Lejeune,
And Ray has heard the glory call—
he died a lot too soon;
Young Phil's in aviation now and Flem's in navy blue,
And Fred's in South Pacific seas—incredible, but true;
And all the rest are scattered,
but my heart treasures still
The way they said "Hello" below the high school on the hill.

[Advice and assistance on draft and military questions and problems of dependents of service men and veterans are given here, or by mail if a stamped envelope is sent. Personal advice and assistance are given to veterans by appointment.]

I. C. R. asks: "If a veteran wishes to take up his lapsed national service life insurance is there any arrangement whereby he can reinstate his insurance without immediately paying up all the back premiums? Does a new physical examination have to be taken?"

A veteran now may reinstate his insurance merely by making two monthly premium payments [one past and one current premium] without interest, the back premiums being forgiven. Reinstatement under these new regulations will be granted only if the insured can show "evidence of insurability" at the time application for reinstatement is made. For those whose insurance has not lapsed for more than three months evidence of insurability may be given by completing application for reinstatement on form 353. When the insurance has lapsed for more than six months application for reinstatement is made on form 352 and a physical examination must be made by a doctor approved by the veterans' administration at the insured's expense or free if the veteran goes to the nearest veterans' hospital. We will mail these forms upon request and also supply the name of the nearest approved medical examiner to veterans who wish to reinstate. Better do it now.

ALLERGY, A VERSATILE PERFORMER.

THE treatment of allergy [sensitivity] is either spectacularly successful or an abysmal failure. Every medical man encounters children and adults alike with intractable asthma, who seem to defy every effort of the most expert medical adviser. The more we study the problem, however, the more firmly are we convinced that failure lies in not analyzing the case in sufficient detail.

As we know, there are scores of common ailments which can be controled or abolished merely by regulating the diet. Some one has said that genius is the capacity for taking infinite pains. In no realm of the healing art is that fact more positively demonstrated than in our search for the origin of wheezy breathing, hives, or eczema.

Turnbull reports the history of a baker who had journeyed from physician to physician in an attempt to rid himself of prolonged bouts of sneezing, which alternated with so much blocking of the airways that he was scarcely able to breathe. Inquiries revealed that several grades of flour were utilized. A separate paste was made from each sample and he was tested accordingly. Within three minutes, the typical skin reactions appeared—swelling, intense itching, and wheals. In a short time, inflammatory processes began to disappear. All were gone two hours subsequently.

Because he was suffering from constitutional symptoms, he was advised to take a leave of absence from his factory and to omit all wheat products from his menus. As we would expect, he was free thereafter from seizures. As soon as he returned to his job, the manifestations reappeared but in far milder form. Most of the damage was done when he partook of edibles containing the offending grain.

How faithfully and intelligently will patients coöperate when they learn the nature of the noxious material? This is probably one of the most difficult factors to govern. One woman was found to be highly sensitive to potatoes. Even handling or peeling them would bring on choking sensations coupled with a profuse watery discharge from the nostrils. She was cautioned to shun tubers as she would a pestilence.

But she was inordinately fond of the baked variety and now and then would indulge her taste. Invariably, trouble ensued. At first her doctor feared that there might be some other irritant but her daughter let the cat out of the bag. She admitted that mother had been "cheating."

How much hope hypertensive individuals can expect from the allergist remains to be proved positively. Few victims have responded extremely well. One sufferer encountered a severe tonsilitis. This was followed by recurring attacks of unconsciousness which lasted but a few seconds. Her blood pressure was exceedingly high and the natural inference was that she was afflicted with temporary spasms of the cerebral arteries. All foods to which she was "positive" were omitted and the antics of the blood vessels ceased. From a systolic of 250 the level dropped to 165. Apparently the circulatory system was disturbed violently by the toxins which she was absorbing. She had no further discomfort so long as she adhered to her diet.

THE NEW WATCHMAN

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

The Cycle Completed.

Kindly permit an American of simple tastes to shudder in print. She has just been reading the latest fashion news cabled from post-liberation Paris [or is it mid-liberation Paris?]. The ladies there, she read, are wearing hats a foot and a half high laden down with gewgaws. A jeweler has just created a clip a foot long with triple bows made in a gold cluster of diamond and ruby flowers. A hairdresser has just introduced a platinum hair dye, Clair de lune, fashioned, the writer said, for "mounted Marie Antoinette coiffeurs."

It is none of this simple American's business, of course, but it seems to her that it is pretty dangerous business for a Parisian lady, particularly in time of political upheaval and revolutionary thought, to trot around in hats a foot and a half high wearing 12 inch ruby and diamond clips and a Marie Antoinette hair-do. The last time the ladies of Paris wore hats that size was immediately preceding the French revolution, and the hats fell with the heads.

"Fashion was in one of its most callous moods," observed a writer summarizing the vagaries of that period. "France was on the verge of bankruptcy. There was neither money nor credit . . . and yet" . . .

He wrote it of the year 1786. Add 159 years, and you may conclude that the wellsprings of liberty have exhausted themselves.

The large hats preceding the French revolution started innocently enough. The good ladies of Versailles began to stick feathers in their powdered hair. Soon it was a derby to see who could wear the most feathers and the longest feathers at one time and still remain in a vertical position. Eventually when Marie Antoinette and the ladies of her court passed along the gallery of the palace of Versailles "one saw only a forest of feathers raised a foot and a half above their heads and waving in unison with the footsteps." Some cost as much as 2,000 livres apiece, yet were used so extravagantly on bonnets and hats that carriages could not hold both hat and lady. Either the carriage seat was lowered or the occupant rode dashingly on her knees.

These ladies also were fond of the bonnet à la Turque, forerunner of the turban. It was of plaited satin, silk, and feathers, ranging in height from 10 to 20 inches, but they paled, as did the feathers, in the light of the hats au naturel that followed them. These were towering masses of powdered hair stuffed with animal wool. The gentle ladies of the court had decided to go bucolic, so their hairdressers arranged real—meaning g-r-o-w-i-n-g—gardens at the summits of these masses. Carrots, beets, radishes, and other edibles, usually with the roots turned inward, waved delicately aloft. One daring lady appeared wearing a small, miniature barnyard on her head, complete with bantam rooster. This interesting fashion faded when the ladies beneath the hats discovered that their hair-dos, which were not dressed or "opened," the phrase then used, for two months or more, had become uncomfortably animated.

Apparently no one thought of clips a foot long, but gargantuan shoe buckles atoned for this omission. The oval buckle usually was so large it obscured the shoe and was ornamented with rubies, emeralds, and diamonds fashioned into a guitar, flute, mandolin, or—books. Immediately after the Reign of Terror certain indiscreet ladies abandoned shoes and appeared in bare feet, their toes covered with diamonds. Hairdresses, too, sometimes were made entirely of jewelry, gold chains, ropes of pearls, even oriental turbans of gold. Beneath them, but only for a time, were blonde, yellow, and blue wigs, more elegantly known as perruques. Blonde wigs became highly unfashionable when the spectators at the guillotine expressed a preference for them.

It all apparently was very pleasant and very gay and nice while it lasted, but an American of simple tastes must always wonder how the ladies would have reacted had they been offered a choice of their hats or their heads.

ROTATION.

WESTERN FRONT, Dec. 31.—A group of us have read an article published in Stars and Stripes, Strasbourg edition, of Dec. 30, saying: "Speaking at a Shrine club luncheon here yesterday, Rep. John Sheridan [D., Pa.] said that soldiers do not favor the proposed rotation system under which troops would be withdrawn from combat and brought home for rest periods. Sheridan, a member of the house military affairs committee, recently completed a 23,000 mile trip of the European theater of operations. 'Out of a million and a half troops, I don't believe there are a hundred who want to come home before the job is finished,' he said."

What we wonder is how any man of his position and supposed intelligence could possibly make such statements to the public. Of course, soldiers do not approve of the rotation system in its present form. The percentage sent home is so small that the average man will never get home. The only rotation system in this theater is to send a very small number of men to the states and give them a 30 day furlough, and when the furlough is finished return them overseas to their former organization. It takes practically a month to get home and another month to get back. The 30 days would go so fast that the average fellow would feel more miserable after he returned overseas than if he had never gone home at all.

Our organization has been overseas for 25 months and there are many who have been over here over 30 months. None of us would ever refuse a chance to go home if it were offered to us.

We feel that some definite time limit should be set for overseas service and then when a man leaves the States he will know that he will be gone for that period and can plan on it accordingly. We have read quite a bit about the various surveys conducted regarding demobilization and other subjects. However, we have never met a soldier who has been interviewed.

THE LAME DUCK PROBLEM.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—I read from time to time that a senator, congressman or some man seeking reëlection to public office, having been defeated, is rewarded by appointment at a handsome salary to some other public office. Conceded that the men thus appointed have the requisite ability for the job, an interesting point can be raised: Does public office render a man incapable of seeking, obtaining, or holding a job in private industry? Or does public office make a man so dignified and self-important that working for a living is beneath him? EUGENE MULLANEY.

EVENING BLOOD DONATIONS.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—Corp. Al Saltsberg asks why people are lax in donating blood for the soldiers. The answer is that there are not enough receiving stations—and especially because these stations are not open evenings. The majority of the people work in the day time. G. S.

It is very well written, it is especially interesting, not because my son is the principal person in it, but because of its human appeal. It has caused more people to write to us from all over the country than at any other time in our lives. Ever so many people here in Cedar Rapids sent a clipping, Lutheran people in Chicago, folks in Minnesota, other cities in Illinois, were anxious that we read that article. These stories from the front are highly interesting to everybody.

SENATE CREATES GROUP TO STUDY CANAL HIGHWAY

Daley Bill Sent to House by 48-0 Vote.

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—Creation of a special legislative commission to study the possible utilization of the abandoned Illinois and Michigan canal was voted unanimousy today by the Illinois senate. The canal right of way has been suggested as an ideal super-highway route into Chicago.

Sen. Daley [D., Chicago], whose bill was sent to the house on a 48 to 0 roll call, said that the canal is nonnavigable and in many places presents a health menace in stagnant water.

Inasmuch as state and Cook county officials are making plans to use the canal for a super-highway from Summit into Chicago, Daley said, the commission would determine what action should be taken by the general assembly and what type of bill should be passed by congress to give the state title to the adjacent 90 foot reserve banks as well as to the bed of the 60 foot canal, which extends from Peru in La Salle county to S. Ashland av. and the Chicago river in Chicago.

Appropriation Boosted.

At the suggestion of Sen. Barr [R., Joliet], Daley and Rep. J. Ward Smith [R., Ottawa], who is sponsor of a similar bill before the house, agreed that the appropriation for the commission should be increased from $5,000 to $25,000.

Another amendment would provide for seven members, three from each house and one appointed by Gov. Green. The gubernatorial appointee would replace several administrative officials named in the original draft of the bill.

"The Illinois and Michigan canal is a tribute to the enterprise of the founders of Illinois," Barr said. "In 1822, four years after Illinois became a state, they got congress to approve the construction of the canal, which aided Chicago's economic growth by permitting water transportation between the Great Lakes and the Mississippi river."

Tribute to Barr.

As a tribute to Barr, who has been a member of the senate since 1903, he was made an honorary member of all senate committees when organization was completed today. Barr had asked to be retired as chairman of the judiciary committee.

President Pro Tem Laughlin [R., Freeport] took over the chairmanship of the rules committee, and Sen. Downing [R., Macomb], who had been Gov. Green's choice for Republican floor leader, became head of the appropriations committee. Other major shifts among the Republican majority saw Sen. Carpentier [East Moline] heading the executive committee and Sen. Thompson [Galesburg] becoming judiciary chairman.

Other Chairmen.

Other senate chairmen:

Aeronautics and military affairs, Peters [St. Joseph]; agriculture, Lantz [Congerville]; banks, buildings and loan associations, Beckman [Kankakee]; civil service, Van Hooser [Metropolis]; contingent expense, Crisenberry [Murphysboro].

Education, Lyons [Oakland]; efficiency and economy, Miller [Hillsboro]; elections, Flagg [Moro]; enrolling and engrossing, Armstrong [Lawrenceville]; industrial affairs, Cash [Towanda]; insurance, Bidwill [River Forest]; license and miscellany, Thomas [Belleville]; motor vehicles and traffic regulation, Luckey [Potomac]; municipalities, Collins [De Kalb]; public health and welfare, Benson [Ottawa].

Public utilities and railroads, Knox [Chicago]; revenue, Baker [Davis Junction]; roads and bridges, Paddock [Round Lake]; to visit charitable institutions, Rennick [Buda]; to visit educational institutions, Mills [Chicago]; to visit penal institutions, Walker Butler [Chicago], and wild life and parks, Dick [Quincy].

Gov. Green sent a group of recess appointments, all previously announced, to the senate for confirmation, but held up the naming of his second term department directors and other major appointees.

The senate adjourned out of respect to the late Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, former congresswoman at large and publisher of two Rockford newspapers.

GOVERNOR TELLS FAIR LEADERS TO MAKE 1945 PLANS

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23 [Special].—Gov. Green told officials of Illinois county fairs tonight to go ahead with plans to hold their expositions this year.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Illinois Association of Agricultural Fairs, the governor said the county fairs put "little or no drain" on public transportation facilities. More than 400 county fair officials attended the session.

"My advice is that you prepare as best you can to carry on your county fairs in 1945," the governor said. "All of their activities play a vital part in the story of Illinois production for war."

Gov. Green asserted that 62 fairs were held in the state last year with an attendance of more than 2 million. State aid to local fairs amounted to $354,019 last year.

BILLS PROPOSE SLASH IN STATE 2% SALES LEVY

Also Ask Diversion of Funds to Roads.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—Attacks on the 2 per cent state sales tax increased today in the legislature with the introduction of nine bills proposing to reduce the tax or to divert its revenues. All told 44 bills were dropped into the hopper after some members complained that there was not enough work on hand to justify weekly sessions.

Sen. Barr [R., Joliet], who has served continuously for over 40 years, put in a bill to cut the sales tax to 1½ per cent. Rep. Monroe [D., Collinsville] wants to reduce it to 1 per cent.

Duplicate sets of bills were introduced in house and senate to divert 25 per cent of the sales tax revenue into a farm to market road fund, with a 60 million dollar appropriation as a starter.

Gov. Green has voiced opposition to such measures because of his plan to save the 116 million dollar surplus in the general fund for post-war emergencies.

Bonus Bill Introduced.

The fattest appropriation bill of the session came from the Democratic side today. Rep. Rategan of Chicago asked for 280 million dollars for a soldier bonus to be paid at the rate of 50 cents for each day of service but not to exceed $300. Referendum approval of a bond issue would be required.

A move toward removing the responsibility of children to support their dependents when financially able to do so was made by Sen. Fribley [D., Pana]. He put in a bill to amend the old age pension law for this purpose, drawing the ire of the Civic Federation of Chicago, a taxpayers' watchdog.

"The present old age assistance law and its administration impose no hardship on families which lack sufficient means to support the parents of either husband or wife," the federation said. "Such support is required only when and to the extent that the children are able to give it.

Would Dodge Responsibility.

"Entirely apart from considerations of additional public cost, which might approach a 100 per cent increase, these proposals strike a blow at the principle of family responsibility.

"Since the dawn of civilization the family has been the core of strength around which have developed the larger units of human association. In America the responsibility of the family for its weaker members, recognized in our laws and reflected in family pride of social and economic independence, has been at the root of our independence as a nation.

"These bills arouse speculation as to how soon it will be proposed to absolve parents from responsibility for their children."

Blighted Area Purchase.

Rep. Marzullo [D., Chicago] followed Gov. Green's recommendation of yesterday by introducing a bill for a $250,000 appropriation for the purchase of real estate in the blighted area around the Cook county hospital. Land would be used for park purposes and expansion of the 11 medical institutions in the district.

Rep. Keller [R., Waukegan] joined with Rep. Monroe in a bill to extend the voting hours in general elections from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m.

The legal age for men would be reached at 18 instead of 21 under a proposal brought in by Rep. Preihs [D., Pana]. Lowering the age to 18, however, would require amendment of the state constitution. A senate resolution would put the question on the 1946 ballot.

Bill Curbs Divorce Law.

Only adultery could be given as grounds for divorce in a bill introduced by Sen. Dowd [D., Chicago]. Dowd is also the sponsor of a new bill giving judges sole authority to fix the penalties in all misdemeanor cases. In 1943 the legislature gave this power to juries.

Sen. Connors [D., Chicago] fathered two resolutions today: one to put the senate on record as encouraging establishment of a national lottery, and the other praising President Roosevelt for his conduct of the war. Both were referred to the executive committee.

KELLY PROMISED PRIORITIES FOR AIR TERMINAL

Mayor Kelly returned yesterday from a four day trip to Washington, D. C., where he attended the fourth inauguration of President Roosevelt and obtained assurances of governmental benefits for Chicago.

Priorities for materials to build the $420,000 temporary terminal at Chicago airport will be approved within a few weeks, he was promised by War Mobilization Director Byrnes. The city hopes the building, 1,400 feet long and 30 feet wide, will be in use by midsummer. Air lines using the terminal will finance its construction, after which they will be repaid in remitted fees.

Good Road Building News Assured.

The mayor also was promised priorities for the necessary materials, boilers and equipment to outfit five more floors in the Auditorium building as sleeping accommodations for service men and their families.

Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, public works administrator, did not commit himself definitely when Mayor Kelly asked how large a share of federal appropriations for road building may be in store for Chicago, but he assured the mayor he will have good news on this subject in a month or so.

Pleased by Green Recommendations.

While in Washington, Mayor Kelly planned to reach a permanent agreement with Postmaster General Walker to permit the Congress st. superhighway to pass thru the main post-office buildings, but the postmaster general was out of the capital.

The mayor told reporters he was pleased to read in the newspapers that Gov. Green had recommended appropriating $250,000 for land for a model medical center in the County hospital district and also that the governor recommended the state insurance code be amended to permit Illinois life insurance companies to invest in housing projects.

Four men, one a CIO shop steward at the McCormick works of the International Harvester company, where two of the others are employed, were arrested by agents of the federal bureau of investigation yesterday on charges arising from the alleged theft of precision instruments valued at $450.

They were Dominic De Salvo, 35, of 3530 S. Francisco av., shop steward for the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers' union [CIO], local 108; Frank W. Patterson, 43, of Batavia; Ceno F. Olas, 36, of 5241 Ellis av., and Adam D. Sandy, 42, of Geneva.

All but Sandy, an auto mechanic, are employed as millwrights at the plant. Olas is charged with theft of the property, Spencer J. Drayton, head of the Chicago FBI office, said. The others are charged with receiving the stolen property.

All four pleaded guilty when arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, who held them to the federal grand jury under $1,000 bonds each.

VAUGHAN GIVES VETS MORE THAN PHYSICAL CARE

First 6 Months Accords Hospital Full Rank.

When Vaughan General hospital, near Maywood, completes the first six months of operation next week it will be a full-fledged member of the army's 60 unit general hospital system, with a successful record in handling patients from the world's battlefronts—many of whom it already has sent back to duty.

Vaughan's place in the rehabilitation of wounded men is an intermediate one. Casualties from overseas are given quick primary attention at the debarkation point on either coast. Men from this area then are brought to Vaughan, where they are put back on their feet as quickly as possible and passed on to convalescence centers.

Skilled Medical Care.

Channeling the wounded to Vaughan's comfort and peace from the fury and din of exploding shells is matter of days and hours under the army's air transport system and fast hospital trains which run directly into the grounds.

Once at Vaughan, a smooth running system is put into operation in which skilled medical teams and the latest equipment furnish the complete and exacting care that front line hospitals cannot provide. No factor in the soldier's well being is left to chance—even to the fact he is close to familiar faces and friends. The army takes wounded men as close to home as conditions permit.

The huge institution covers about 100 acres with its 67 red brick buildings. Most of them are single story structures connected by covered corridors. The hospital is operated as a military reservation.

A total staff of more than 1,200 persons contributes to the well being of the patients in the hospital's 1,525 beds. There are 525 enlisted men for operational tasks; 125 WACs and four officers for clerical and technical work; 68 army nurses and 102 male officers, including dentists, medical men, and administrators.

There also are 100 members of the specialized training program; 178 civilian nurses, and a detail of 110 Italian prisoners and three officers for maintenance work.

Stress Educational Therapy.

Separate wards are maintained for officers and men. The treatment is alike. In each ward portable partitions divide the men into groups of four. Some private rooms are available. Educational therapy and reorientation are stressed while the soldier's body is being rebuilt.

There are sun and lounge rooms, a post exchange, commissary, Red Cross field unit, war department theater, chapel, postoffice, bank, library, gymnasium, telephone center, and guard and fire departments.

Study programs and exercise programs are stressed. Even bed patients must exercise. Ambulatory cases work out in the gymnasium. Portable screens and projectors bring movies into the wards nightly. Special entertainments are provided. Noted screen, radio, sport, and stage stars visit the wounded men. Men in the hospital are cheerful, patient, quick to talk about their homes and families, anxious to be up and about.

SPLIT UP BY WAR, 2 PALS MEET IN ARMY HOSPITAL

Indiana Troops Get Together.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The huge 108th American military hospital, which was almost full of wounded soldiers up to a few days ago, was half empty today. This, it was explained, is due to a momentary drop in casualties and consequent diminishing evacuation from front line hospitals.

A considerable lessening of trench foot has also been noted. More effective preventive measures have been adopted by army medical authorities. Front line soldiers also have received better education regarding the causes of trench foot.

Two G.Is Brought Together.

Lots of curious things happen in this military establishment. Take for example, two soldiers from South Bend, Ind. They were next door neighbors. They were graduated from the same college. They received their initial military training at the same camp in Georgia. They had not met since leaving for overseas about a year ago. Altho occupying adjacent wards for several days, they finally were brought together today.

Pvt. Eugene Barkowski, 19, of 914 N. College st., South Bend, a machine gunner who recently was awarded the Purple Heart for shrapnel wounds he received in the arm and leg Dec. 27 during heavy fighting in Belgium, was lying in bed, resting.

Worth Million Dollars.

As the ward sergeant was inquiring in adjoining wards if there were any lads from Illinois who wanted to talk to a Chicago Tribune man, in wandered Pfc. Jack Petersen, a mortar man recovering from an illness. He saw his next door neighbor and college mate from South Bend. Both seemed dumfounded. "This is worth a million dollars of medical attention," Barkowski exclaimed.

With the medical section of the hospital is Sgt. Richard J. Healy, whose aunt, Miss Eleanor McCarthy, lives at 7221 N. Bell av., Chicago.

Richard's sister, Second Lt. Lucille V. Healy, is in charge of the trench foot ward.. Both worked together in England for nine months before coming to France. Tho they are working 12 hours daily, they said they derived satisfaction because they feel that taking good care of soldiers is one of the most important jobs of the war.

Another Illinoisan is recovering from wounds received at the German border Dec. 27, and has been awarded the Purple Heart. He is Paul F. Born Jr., of 808 N. Spring st., Elgin.

Charles Manke, 14, of 536 Gunderson av., Oak Park, fell thru a 7 by 10 foot plate glass window at 424 Madison st. in the suburb yesterday. He suffered cuts on the neck, wrists, and hands, but was allowed to go home after receiving first aid treatment in a near-by doctor's office. NAVY ORDNANCE STATION RISES IN MOJAVE DESERT

Inyokern, Cal., Jan. 23 (AP).—Here on a 656,000 acre tract of government land in the Mojave desert's lava mountains, the navy has established a 35 million dollar ordnance test station for new weapons of war, among them rockets that may be used against Japan.

It will be 18 more months before the station is completed, but it is to be a permanent navy shore establishment, with some of the nation's best brains engaged in ferreting out chemical and mechanical secrets for modern warfare.

The navy's program for rockets includes an expenditure of 100 million dollars a month for ammunition alone. The Inyokern station already has 500 civilian scientists, engineers, technicians, and other workers testing rockets fired from the ground and from planes.

Capt. Sherman E. Burroughs Jr., commanding officer, in lifting the veil of secrecy that has surrounded the construction of the station, said: "The navy will carry on its research thru peace time. If an emergency comes we can supply manufacturers overnight with plans and specifications for what is needed."

Miss Brennan Is Betrothed to Lt. Cremin

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE most important event on Lt. William Amberg Cremin's calendar before his current leave is over tomorrow was a small party which Mrs. Bernard Gordon Brennan gave yesterday in her Astor st. home to announce the engagement of her only daughter, Rosemary, to the young naval reserve officer. Lt. Cremin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Cremin of Scott st.

Miss Brennan, daughter of the late Mr. Brennan, attended the Sacred Heart convent in Lake Forest and was graduated from Trinity college in Washington, D. C. Her fiance, who has been in the navy for three years, was graduated from the Boys' Latin school and Princeton university.

One of Lt. Cremin's sisters, Mrs. Robert Perlitz, was present at the gathering yesterday, as she and her husband are here from Texas for a visit. Lt. Cremin's other sister, Mrs. Proctor Nichols, lives in Colorado Springs, Colo. Miss Brennan has two brothers, James and Lt. Bernard Brennan, stationed in Washington, D. C., with the navy.

Wedding News.

The C. Colton Daughadays' Longmeadow farm near Winnetka was the scene of a wedding ceremony Monday in which their son, Lt. William H. Daughaday of the army medical corps, took Miss Hazel Judkins as his bride. Because of transportation difficulties the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Clyde Judkins, were unable to come from their home in Waterville, Me., and since Lt. Daughaday has only a six day leave he and his bride are spending the remainder of it at a Pennsylvania resort before he reports for duty.

Included in the small family circle at the wedding were Lt. Daughaday's sister, Mrs. Irving Wechsler, whose husband is serving with the office of war information in Washington, D. C., and their sister-in-law, Mrs. Daughaday Jr., who with her baby is living with the senior Daughadays while her husband attends an officers' training school at Fort Benning, Ga. The bridegroom has three other sisters—Mrs. Edwin Popper, who has taken a war job in Cambridge, Mass., now that Lt. Popper has gone to Pearl Harbor with the navy; Miss Deborah Daughaday, a debutante of the season, who has returned to her classes at Wellesley; and Virginia, a student at the North Shore Country Day school.

The former Miss Judkins attended Colby college and the school of nursing at Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Boston, Mass., and has been connected with the Children's hospital of Boston. Lt. Daughaday attended the North Shore Country Day school and was graduated from Harvard university and its medical school.

Here and There.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Worrall [Mary Trumbull] have named their second son, born yesterday in the Evanston hospital, Charles Trumbull for his late maternal grandfather. The baby and his brother, James Jr., are grandchildren of Mrs. Trumbull of Winnetka and of the George Henry Worralls of St. Louis, Mo.

Capt. and Mrs. Mansfield Schmidt of Enterprise, Ala., are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Constance Hildegarde, Sunday. The baby, granddaughter of Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, is named for her mother, the former Constance Spiers of Auckland, New Zealand, and for Capt. Schmidt's sister, the late Hildegarde Schmidt Templeton.

F. Sewall Gardner of Lake Forest recently was promoted to the rank of lieutenant commander in the naval reserve, his wife has learned. He is serving in the South Pacific. Comdr. Gardner is a nephew of Ralph Newberry Gardner of Chicago. Mrs. Ralph Gardner's brother, Comdr. Merrick A. Beach of the

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

"You would think we were selling nylons," was the comment made by the manager of Kimball hall last night as the throng stormed the customarily sufficiently commodious little concert hall to hear the Budapest Quartet give its first downtown concert with the planistic assistance of Rudolph Ganz.

Some readjustment of one's acoustical memories were necessary in hearing the Budapestians indoors after several seasons of acquaintance under Ravinia conditions, but once this was accomplished there was little left but to enjoy the silken tone, the perfect ensemble, and the rare musicianship of this foremost of contemporary string quartets.

All these virtues were obvious and delightful in the opening Haydn, the so-called "Lark" quartet, and if it seemed like something less—or more—was happening during the quartet by Ernest Krenek, the responsibility may fairly be charged to the composer.

Krenek—Austrian born and now resident in America—has changed his compositional style as often as some of us would like to don new clothes. Schoenberg's 12 tone scale was one of his more recent fashions, but it would require a keener ear than ours to detect definitely if this, his latest work, still adheres to that mode. Certainly it has some odd sounding moments, with a fugue which would make old Bach turn purple—but probably not with envy. Yet it also has a slow movement of genuine expressiveness, in a hopeless, dejected, world-weary sort of way, and there was little room for doubt that, like it or not, it is the work of a man who knows what he is doing.

The Brahms F Minor Quintet, which completed the program, usually tempts its performers to compete with the sonorities of the orchestra, but with the restrained and understanding assistance of Mr. Ganz, as adept an ensemble player as he is a soloist and conductor, the work remained in the true chamber music frame.

White Collar GIRL

All in the Way You Say It.

"I was just thinking," a woman commented after overhearing a conversation, "how the same words can be made to sound so differently by the tone of voice."

A telephone operator can say "Operator" pleasantly when signaled or "Operator" with an emphasis that makes you feel your call is a mild form of persecution.

An attendant in a doctor's office can tell you, "We close exactly at 1 today," in a solicitous manner that conveys "And we'd like to be here to take care of you," or she can inform you, "We close exactly at 1," in a way that causes you to wonder why you had to be such an old nuisance as to get sick, anyway!

A salesgirl can announce "We have no elastic," or "We have no elastic," in a tone that indicates, "Where have you been all these months—don't you know there's a war on?"

A receptionist can inquire, "Did you have an appointment?" or "Did you have an appointment? [you intruder, you]."

If you have never considered how important is emphasis, ask yourself which of three persons you'd marry: The one who disclaims, "I love you" . . . the one who proclaims "I love you," or the one who says, "I love you." Which?

Dunham Revue Is Altered, but It Still Sizzles

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Not much has changed about Katherine Dunham's "Tropical Revue" since it played the Blackstone last spring—in its Studebaker reincarnation it is still a crackling show for brilliant dancers, padded in the second half to eke out the evening, and with one big new number, L'Ag'ya, to replace the rites of fertility so blazoned by the publicists last season.

As distinguished dancing there is no comparison between the two, but "L'Ag'ya" may prove popular with the average audience. It strikes me as a voodoo version of Agnes de Mille's ballet in "Oklahoma!", tho I admit I can't work in the scene where Julot goes to the zombie king to get a love charm to lure Loulouse away from Alcide. The king of the zombies was a great disappointment. I expected Roger Ohardieno to be something fearful, and there he was a scarecrow with a corncob pipe, rocking away in a chair and going "hee hee" while his victims played walking dead even on stilts.

But back to "Oklahoma!" Miss Dunham, usually the siren of the piece, comes out looking most fetching in a short white dress and dances with Vanoye Aikens in the most gentle of courting pieces, interrupted by the villain, who looks rather more like a cat than Pore Jud. Then when the villain gets back with that charm, the l'ag'ya, or wrestling dance, results in the death of the hero, bested when he thinks he has won.

But the chief trouble with "L'Ag'ya" is that it builds up to a terrific letdown. That dance is supposed to be deadly, with the kind of footwork that means murder. Mr. Aikens had murder in the whites of his eyes, Claude Marchant looked treacherous, and the dancing was expert, but the only people who seemed in danger were the orchestra men who kept getting caught in the discards of Miss Dunham's zombie strip tease.

But the Dunham Dancers are topflight in their field and Miss Dunham is one of the most engaging entertainers to be found back of footlights. Her teasing "Bahiana" is even more seductive than usual, tho her scene with the cigar has been altered a little, and not improved. The "Rara Tonga" remains an effective Polynesian folk tale, with Ramona Erwin its beautiful chosen woman and Tommy Gomez a sinuous serpent as the husband struck down by the cruel god.

There is some jive mixed in with primitive dances and the best of the show has a gaiety that leaps right out to the audience. Polito is its new singer, a crooner of sorts, but the Dowdy Quartet is back, and those superior drummers are on hand, tho Albert Arkuss no longer leads the expert orchestra. Martin Gabowitz, the new man, conducts with his index fingers, and almost achieves his predecessor's rhythm, which was as vivid as John Pratt's costumes.

WPB and OPA Move to Force Fabrics Into Cheaper Clothes

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—A government program to force a large portion of the limited supply of fabrics available for civilian use into the most essential low and medium priced apparel was announced today by the war production board and the office of price administration.

Outlining the program at a news conference, WPB Chairman Krug and Price Administrator Bowles said it will not increase the total supply of civilian clothing but will increase the supply of essential civilian garments such as work clothing, children's apparel, and underwear.

At the same time, they said, currently inflated clothing prices will be reduced by about 6 or 7 per cent. An OPA maximum price regulation will fix prices at the average level of the first half of 1943.

A larger proportion of the apparel supply will be in low and medium price essential garments, which will begin to appear in retail stores by late spring, Krug and Bowles said. They promised "every effort" will be made to improve the quality of clothing.

The forthcoming program is based upon WPB priorities and the power of the OPA to fix prices. Priority assistance in obtaining fabrics will be given manufacturers producing essential clothing. This assistance will not be given on garments priced above a certain level, which is to be worked out with the industry.

The program will extend from textile mills and intermediate processors thru garment manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers. It will include cotton, rayon, and woolen goods and apparel made from them.

Bowles and Dr. William Y. Elliott, WPB vice chairman for civilian requirements, said low and medium price clothing has been disappearing from the market because manufacturers have turned to high price apparel as the result of low profit margins in the less expensive garments and ready demand for the more costly items.

Bowles said retail clothing costs have shown an "alarming rise" of more than 11 per cent in the last 18 months and might increase 6 to 7 per cent more in the first six months of this year if without control measures. Quality deterioration has had the effect of a further price increase, he said.

He declared that the rise in the nation's clothing bill from 5 billion 800 million dollars in 1939 to 11 billion 400 million in 1944 threatens the entire price stabilization structure and has placed the price control program in "greater danger than at any other time during the war."

Bowles declined to discuss the possibility of clothing rationing, but indicated his opinion was that if the new program is successful, rationing can be avoided.

Krug said the textile supply is sufficient to meet essential civilian requirements if the fabric is channeled into garments most needed and not into "frills." He said the program will provide controls over quality wherever possible so as to increase serviceability and will limit the trimming used on garments.

Dr. Elliott said the controls will eliminate most so-called luxury garments, but will not mean that popular price lines and clothing which is fancier and more expensive than low and medium price essential apparel will disappear from the market.

He said the price maximum for priority assistance will be set high enough to permit manufacture of more expensive clothing after essential needs have been met.

Bowles said the forthcoming price adjustments still will allow manufacturers and distributors profits larger than in peace time. He said he did not believe the program will force any one out of business, altho in some cases business volume will be restricted.

The program was submitted to clothing industry representatives at a meeting today. Final details are subject to industry and trade suggestions.

College Club Program.

Mrs. Axel Paulson will review "The Queen Within the Kitchen" at 11 a. m. today in the Chicago College club. Luncheon will follow.

Chicago Dealers Differ

Chicago manufacturers and wholesalers of men's and women's clothing expressed divergent opinions yesterday of the program to increase production of medium and low price textiles and reduce the consumer costs.

One manufacturer of women's clothing said he thought the new program "completely unnecessary" and said it would ruin many of the exclusive shops which specialize in high priced dresses. He said, however, that a shortage of lower price clothing was developing. Officials of other concerns said they considered the program to be too drastic.

Other manufacturers said the program might increase the supply of available material in the low price field. None, however, was cheerful about the prospective reduction of 6 or 7 per cent in prices to consumers.

Adoption Law Revision Urged to Curb Abuses

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

Revision of the 70 year old Illinois adoption law as a means of destroying the black market in babies in this state was recommended yesterday by Mabbett K. Reckord, general director of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society, in his report at the 61st annual meeting.

Speaking before nearly 300 guests in the Palmer House, Mr. Reckord said the organization is coöperating with other agencies for four safeguards to be enacted to protect both children and their adoptive parents. They are social investigation of the adopting home and the children, six months' resident period in the adopting home before signing of the final decree, consent for adoption to be signed in the presence of a licensed agency or clerk of the court, and sealed adoption records which will remain confidential.

In the last year, Mr. Reckord reported, the society had served 5,279 children, including 1,764 dependent children who were placed in foster homes at the society's expense.

The need for responsible care for every child in America was emphasized in an address by the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, senior auxiliary bishop of Chicago, guest speaker, who pictured today's children as the leaders of the entire world in the near future.

Because boys and girls of war torn countries are growing up handicapped by fear and lack of educational opportunities, they will look to the boys and girls of America to bring to them the message of a democratic heritage and what hope it gives, Bishop Sheil said. He described such work as a great opportunity for America, but insisted it must be prefaced by the understanding that democracy begins at home and that no children in Chicago lack the care they should have.

Hermon Dunlap Smith was reelected president of the board of trustees, and Louis C. Sudler and Holden Knapp Farrar were reelected secretary and treasurer, respectively. New trustees added to the board are Austin Graves, Mark W. Lowell, and Herbert R. Stratford.

Chauncey McCormick, chairman of the board, paid tribute in closing the meeting to eight young men, former wards of the society who have died in military service in the last year.

Convention Plans of Club Federation Women Abandoned

In an emergency session called yesterday by Mrs. Walter M. Rennie, state president, the executive board of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs voted to coöperate with the office of defense transportation by abandoning plans for all state, county, and district membership conventions and conferences. The move was made on recommendation of Mrs. LaFell Dickinson, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

More than 50,000 representatives of the national organization will be affected by the ODT's recent request that non-essential travel by civilians be eliminated.

However, plans already are being made for "stay-at-home" conventions and conferences to be conducted by radio and mail. The next Illinois convention had been set for next May in the Hotel Sherman.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 23.—Walt Disney has found his "Uncle Remus." Jim Basquette, noted Negro actor, veteran of stock, stage, and radio, will play the role and is signed to a seven year contract. Walt also has signed up Bobby Driscoll [last seen in "Sunday Dinner for a Soldier"] and Luana Patten, the 6 year old cover girl, for other roles in the picture. Hank Potter will not direct, after all, since he and Walt couldn't see eye to eye on handling of the story. It's to be treated as "The Three Caballeros" was, with live characters and cartoons on the same screen, and actual production gets under way in a week or two. . . . Sgt. Bill Jacobson writes from London: "It's still impossible to get seats for any London show. Lunt and Fontanne terrific in 'Love in Idleness.' . . . Ran smack into Marlène Dietrich in Savoy hotel elevator. We each did a triple take. . . . The Ritz hotel in Paris going strong with hot water Thursdays and Sundays, but who has time to bathe in Paris? Frank, the bartender, still around, but very old and tired. . . . The barbers in hairdressing salons inform you upon entry that you'll be clipped with the same clippers they used on Goering and Goebbels, which information makes your hair stand on end. . . . Champagne is plentiful, perfume available in great quantities. . . . We just heard of Lupe's death—terribly upset about the details. Don't folks know her exterior was merely a defense mechanism for an inferiority complex?"

Shoe-Shoe, Baby! Or Else—.

Ray Bolger tells me he has a sweet part in "Harvey Girls," and there he was on the set the other day—in a blacksmith's shop. He's supposed to be an optometrist who couldn't make a living because folks in this town don't need glasses, so his friend, Virginia O'Brien, persuades him to take over the blacksmith shop, even tho he's afraid of horses. Then a wild western hombre brings his horse in to be shod, and to prove he wants a thoro job of it, the guy shoots a bullet past Ray's ear. It catches him in midair. A fan dancer never shook as he did. Following that, Virginia comes in and shoes the horse. . . . Ray said greatest joy on his New York appearances were visits from wives, mothers, and sweethearts of the fellows he talked with overseas.

Really, a Perfect Blendship.

The day Louis Bromfield left for his Ohio farm Helen Broderick lunched with him, went down to the train to see him off, and he begged her to stay right on the train and go home with him. More Complications for Pat.

Pat O'Brien had the usual domestic difficulties while interviewing a couple. Butler wanted to make sure there was an upstairs. Said he, "My wife and I play golf and tennis, and we can't be confined." Another applicant called himself a glove man. Well, Pat had never heard that one before, so he explained, "Well, you see, I clean no windows, wash no cars, sweep no floors—in fact, I don't do anything in the house in which I can't wear my gloves." Yes, Pat and Eloise still do their own housework. . . . Ran into Elizabeth Taylor, who had her pet chipmunk on a leash of red wool. It looked so cute I put out my hand to stroke it and, with that, it ran right up my arm inside my coat. Now, if you can love a child after her chipmunk frightens the daylights out of you, that child's got something—and Elizabeth sure has.

Welcome Mat Is Out.

Did you hear about the couple in Des Moines who, after seeing "Going My Way," stopped at the box office, handed in a check for $5, and said, "The next people who come to the window, pass them in with this as our guests." . . . Evelyn Keyes bought the dressing room Ronald Colman used on "Lost Horizon," had it remodeled and decorated as a nursery, and presented it to Rita and Orson Welles for their little Rebecca.

'Private Investigator Maclain' . . . . . By Baynard Kendrick

(Copyright: 1945: By Baynard Kendrick.)

SYNOPSIS: In the sumptuous terrace apartment of Larmar Jordan, novelist, a cocktail party is in session. Capt. Duncan Maclain sits alone with his Seeing Eye dog, Schnucke. He is joined by Sarah Hanley, Larmar's agent. Out on the terrace Sybella Ford, his fiancee, is chatting with Paul Hirst, Larmar's secretary. Troy Singleton arrives. Bob Morse, reporter, tells Maclain he is doing a profile on Larmar, whose wife, Lucia, is charming, and whose latest inamorata is Troy Singleton. Troy insists she received an invitation. Larmar accuses Lucia of sending it for some dramatic purpose. Ellis Brown Mitchell, gun expert, seeks Hirst's aid in cataloging Lamar's gun collection, which Larmar is going to sell. Paul realizes there is something catastrophic to make him dispose of his prize collection. Next day, alone in his apartment, Larmar is studying his financial status, depleted by Troy's demands, when she visits him. As the chimes of Trinity sound, Troy, seated on the terrace, slumps down, shot thru the heart. No one is near. Larmar removes the body to the gun room. Police arrive, summoned by Mrs. Oliver in the apartment above, who heard the shot and saw Larmar carry the body inside. Lucia, accompanied by Bob Morse, returns home. Police find a strange pistol in the privet hedge and a handkerchief caught on a twig close beside it. Larmar admits the pistol is his. When police see blood on his cuff, he is held for murder. Lucia appeals to Capt. Maclain, whom the police try to discourage. Instead he tells them the gun used has a set trigger and suggests they find out who sent the invitation to Troy. Then he calls upon Mrs. Oliver, who is sure no one was there. Lucia finds no escape from the murder charge.

SEEKS EXPERT ADVICE.

Something horrible had happened to her marriage with Larmar.

Lucia had talked to Larmar that afternoon in jail. It was coldly sobering to sit across from your husband at a plain board table and hear him saying, "I've been a bit silly, darling, maybe because I thought you'd grown tired of me, but I'm not a big enough silly to shoot a woman. All I needed to do was to run out of money to get rid of Troy."

She'd tried to tell him that she hadn't grown tired, but merely careless. She'd assured him with genuine tears in her eyes that she didn't believe him guilty.

"You seem to be a minority of one, darling."

The telephone rang.

Sarah Hanley was on the wire, more precise and brittle than usual, her throaty voice laced with unobtrusive sympathy. "Just because the police make a silly mistake, Lucia, you don't need to run away and hide from everyone. I had an awful time worming out the name of your hotel from Paul."

"I want to hide out," Lucia told her tersely. "I'm sick of people staring at me."

"Well, you'll help Larmar more by appearing in public. Public opinion's a powerful thing, Lucia. I happen to deal with it in my business as a literary agent. If you want the world to think that Larmar's guilty, the best way that you can do it is to crawl off into some hole."

"All right," Lucia said dispiritedly. "What do you want me to do?"

"Eat dinner with me at the Pheasant on University pl." She cut Lucia's protest short with, "I'm waiting downstairs now. That lawyer, Jess Ferguson, is expensive and you'll need money to fight this thing. There're some angles about Larmar's work that I have to talk over with you."

"Paul knows more about it than I do."

"I'm waiting downstairs."

"Darn the woman," said Lucia, but unaccountably she felt a little better.

She powdered her nose and went down.

The lobby was packed with a milling dinner throng, and at first she couldn't locate Sarah. Her nerves strung to a point of breaking had made her supersensitive to any one's regard or she might never have become conscious of the man with the deep cleft chin.

He was wearing an ill-cut heavy double breasted suit of blue that stretched so tight across his shoulders the coat seemed too small. His eyes were brown and calculatingly cold. The cleft in his chin made him noticeable if nothing else, for it was cut so deep that it might have been the remnant of some disfiguring scar.

From his seat on a high-backed red plush divan, he looked up from a newspaper spread across his knees to study Lucia with a frank unfriendly stare.

Without warning, he got up and left the lobby thru a side door. Lucia had a distinct impression that he'd been seated in the lobby for a long time, watching the elevators and checking to see who entered and left every car.

She finally located Sarah near the front door. They walked to University pl. in silence. A drink restored some of Lucia's lost animation. Sarah chattered vivaciously thruout the meal. Not until coffee was on the table did she mention Larmar. Then it was to ask, "Do you think Larmar could continue his book in—the present circumstances? I thought it might help him to forget himself, Lucia."

"Of course. Then there's the question of money too, which you mentioned over the phone."

"One has to be practical in these things," Sarah reminded her. "I understand from Paul that Larmar's affairs aren't in the best of order. There's Ferguson to be paid, and Paul and Harry. Unless you have some money of your own, Lucia, you may be facing a problem of just what to do."

"You're Larmar's agent. I'll leave the practicality to you."

Sarah put her coffee cup down. "I understand you've retained Capt. Duncan Maclain."

"I felt it was the least I could do."

"He may be expensive."

"I didn't ask him. Is anything too expensive to put Larmar back in circulation again?"

"Of course not," Sarah hastily agreed. "Can you stand going up to the apartment this evening?"

"Why?"

"Paul asked me to find out if you'd come. It's after eight now, and I have an appointment uptown."

"What does Paul want with me?"

"He thinks as I do," Sarah Hanley said as she paid the check. "We believe that you can do more than either of us to keep Larmar busy with his book. Besides that, Paul's expecting Capt. Maclain."

"All right, I'll go."

"Good! I'll walk up to Tenth st. with you and take a Fifth av. bus uptown."

She parted with Lucia at the entrance to the Arday apartments.

There she took Lucia's hand and said gravely, "For once in my life I'm not concerned with commissions, Lucia. I'm fond of you both. Do what you can to get Larmar working down there."

The doorman restored some of her self-confidence by saying, "Good evening, Mrs. Jordan," with just the right inflection. But the elevator boy was frankly bursting with suppressed curiosity.

Maclain greeted her as she opened the door. It was a relief to take sanctuary in the familiar study.

The captain's mood had changed since her visit to his office that morning. Then he had been close to apathetic. Now, Lucia felt, his well-controlled air of triumph hid some new-found information that offered a line of action. Had she known him better she might have been less encouraged.

Schnucke stood up as they entered the study and stuck close to the captain's left side until he and Lucia sat down.

Voices came from the gun room. Lucia must have started and drawn in her breath for Maclain said quickly, "That's Brownie and Paul."

"O." She took out her vanity case to regain composure.

The captain seemed to understand. "I asked Brownie to come here Lucia. I wanted some expert advice on guns and Brownie's thoroly familiar with Larmar's collection."

"You mean I may have to sell them?"

navy, and Mrs. Beach are here from San Francisco, Cal., for a few days. The Gardners will entertain at dinner for them Friday night.

To celebrate Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Joseph Nelsons' 50th wedding anniversary yesterday, a few of their old friends dropped into their apartment in the Belmont hotel between 4 and 7 p. m. yesterday to toast them with champagne punch. Sharing in the party were the Nelsons' daughters, Kay and June, and their son, Paul, and his wife, who came from Washington, D. C. The second son of the family, Lt. John L. Nelson, will bring his family here the end of the week, as he is being detached from his navy base in Key West, Fla.

On the Calendar.

At a luncheon meeting in the Arts club yesterday the board of directors of the Margaret Etter Creche, Chicago's oldest day nursery, announced it will repeat a benefit St. Patrick's day cocktail party and tea-dance it gave last year, again on St. Patrick's day, March 17, in the Casino club. Mrs. Frank E. Halle again will serve as general chairman of the benefit, with Mrs. Frank Bering as co-chairman. The nursery, which was founded in 1885, cares for about 90 children each day in its building at 2116 Chicago av.

Miss Naomi Donnelley will succeed Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson as president of the Visiting Nurse association at the annual meeting at 3 p. m. today in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. Others slated for election as officers are Mrs. Selim W. McArthur, Mrs. George A. Poole Jr., Mrs. Frank D. Maher, Mrs. John P. Bent, Mrs. John B. Drake, and Mrs. Bennet B. Harvey.

A large audience is expected in the Casino club tonight to hear Catherine Drinker Bowen, author of "Yankee from Olympus," address a meeting of the Colonial Dames. Her talk will be preceded by cocktails and dinner at an early hour, 6 p. m., so that many suburban members of the society and other interested guests may reach home at a reasonable hour. Some of those with reservations for dinner are Mrs. John Crerar, Dr. and Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson, the Freeman Hinckleys, the Frederick A. Prestons, Mrs. Edward K. Hardy, Mrs. William B. Greenlee, Mrs. F. Stanley Rickcords, Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert C. Adams, Mrs. Robert G. Peck, and Mrs. Earle B. Fowler.

The Illinois Opera Guild will present a musical program at 11 a. m. today in the Arts club, at which the artists will be men stationed at Great Lakes. Officers of the training station and the naval hospital and their wives will be guests of the guild at luncheon following. On the program will be John Carter, tenor; Harold Turner, pianist; Oscar Chausow, violinist, and Victor Salvi, harpist.

Miss Janet Fairbank will be heard in a recital of new songs at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the James Henry Breasted hall of the Oriental institute. The department of music of the University of Chicago is presenting Miss Fairbank, who will repeat a program she gave in Carnegie hall, New York, last November. The recital is open free to the public.

Weddings

At home in Jacksonville, Fla., are Lt. [j. g.] Charles Everitt Standard of the naval reserve air forces and his bride, the former Nancy Drake, who were married at 8:30 p. m. Sunday in St. Augustine's Episcopal church in Wilmette. After the ceremony the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Drake of Wilmette, gave a reception in the Michigan Shores club.

Mrs. James C. Daubenspeck was the bride's only attendant. Lt. Comdr. William Hunt served as best man, and Capt. Grover C. Baldwin and Lt. Harry G. Gilbert, as ushers. The former Miss Drake attended the Roycemore school and Denison university. Lt. Standard, son of Mrs. Vassa Standard of Miami, Fla., was graduated from Purdue university and has received the navy cross and air medal for action in the Pacific. He now is stationed in Jacksonville.

When Ensign Richard Shepard Barrows' new orders come thru from the naval reserve, he and his bride, the former Margaret Bentley Hamilton, will know where they are to live. Following their marriage Dec. 16 in the New York apartment of the bride's aunt, Mrs. John Hammond, Ensign and Mrs. Barrows came here for a visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, en route to Hobe Sound, Fla.

The bride and her father, David O. Hamilton of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., and sister, Elizabeth, lived in Mrs. Bentley's home for several years after Mrs. Hamilton's death. The former Miss Hamilton attended St. Timothy's and Sarah Lawrence college. Ensign Barrows, son of Col. Ralph G. Barrows of the army and Mrs. Barrows of Brookline, Mass., attended Harvard university.

A New Shade of Pink Makes Its Timely Bow

BY REA SEEGER.

The rosy hue downtown is the new color promotion for pink. It's a pink shade universally flattering, a delicate romantic color that has taken over the collections of costume accessories, blouses, jackets, and hats. For the first time in weeks, you can find blush-pink gloves of stunning fabrics, and some suedes for dress parade. The collections of pink hats rival the spun sugar creations of a Viennese confectioner. Some pink veiling is the last word for feminine headlines, just the sort of airy trifle to wear now with drab or jaded winter wardrobes.

Pink blouses by the score are out to contrast all street shades of wool used for suits or coats. Long sleeves, short sleeves, and sleeveless affairs, together with vestees and gilets, all come in this luscious pink color. Such trifles as scarves, ascots, new spring veiling by the yard, pink posies arranged for a lapel, or the larger varieties to be massed for new floral hats, bows and knots of ribbon for accent trim on otherwise severely simple dark dresses come in this pink.

New prints for the gals who make their own feature this lush pink, most of them with backgrounds of pink spattered with gay spring flowers, others with geometrics in subtle contrasts of gray, brown, or navy blue against the rose tint. Smart dots and checks, stripes, and subdued pinks with typically French colors like chartreuse and mauve provide a wide assortment of new rayons that include the famous fiberset specials—all awaiting scissors, pins, and a brand new pattern.

Mrs. Rob C., Gary, Ind.—My husband prevented bicycle handlebar grips from slipping off by wrapping friction tape around the ends of the handlebars. Then he dipped the grips in kerosene. [He said turpentine would have done as well.] This kerosene permitted the grips to slide over tape and when it evaporated the grips shrank to their natural size.

Mrs. George S., Chicago.—If your apartment is cold, try giving the baby a bath in front of the oven. I do this frequently. I put the little tub in front of the oven door. I use the range top to dry and dress her, after placing a firm cover on it which I keep especially for the purpose.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 spades	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of diamonds.

The bidding was slightly aggressive. South, having six and a half winners was justified in making one more try notwithstanding partner's weak response. North, despite the fact that he had a number of honor cards might have been deterred from continuing the bidding because of his most unfortunate distribution. The four, three, three, three holding is the most undesirable one can hold. Notice that a doubleton heart in the North hand would have made all the difference in the world.

West led the king of diamonds upon which East played the encouraging signal seven. West continued with the queen of diamonds which declarer ruffed, extracted trumps, and led a low club. West climbed up with the king and realizing the necessity for building up a heart trick, switched to the deuce of hearts. He was too late. Declarer won with the ace, drove out the ace of clubs and discarded his losing heart on dummy's long club. The proper time to have led hearts was at trick two, but West was not to blame, it was East's fault. The signal to continue diamonds was improper. He explained it on the ground that he wanted to show his partner the ace. Signals are not given to show things, they are given to suggest leads. East should have known that it was important to build up a heart trick and that the diamond tricks would take care of themselves. The deuce of diamonds was, therefore, the proper play, saying to partner, "Please lead something else." It would not have been difficult for partner to deduce what that something else should be. Obviously, a trump lead was not desirable, and surely a club lead against dummy's strongest suit would have been out of the question. Let me repeat: Signals are not intended to show holdings, but are made to guide partner's leads.

Teen-Agers Need to Be Understood

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The break for freedom and the foreshadowing of maturity occur at different ages in different families.

Some girls at 13 are developed mentally, socially, and physically, and begin to grow restive at the childish restrictions which they accepted without question only a few months before. Other girls reach the age of 16 or 17, as do many boys, before they begin to claim the freedoms and prerogatives that go with being adult.

But whenever that time comes, almost inevitably a certain amount of friction begins to be apparent between these teen-age sons and daughters and their parents. The children want to grow up in a hurry, and often we who are their parents take too much time to get used to that idea.

But what we know, and too often our own children don't know, is that they do not grow up all of a sudden and are not at once equal to running their own lives. We know that we must grant them independence gradually, and that we are safeguarding them in imposing some reasonable restrictions upon them.

Unless we are unusually sympathetic and understanding, and unless our children try to meet us—well, at least a third of the way—the grating sound of family friction is heard in the air. We can find lots of things that make fault finding, or even merely honest criticism, easy, such as late party hours, being impossible to waken in the morning, and having strength to dance or skate endlessly but being "too tired" to do housework or help in other ways at home.

But along with all this, we should keep an eye open for the honest efforts our teen-age children do make to conform to our wishes. We must not forget their side of the picture. And to have a child who remains absolutely truthful, honest, direct—who may protest but doesn't deceive you; who helps you or means to, most of the time; who is loving and loyal—these virtues and others which you will summon to mind should not be overlooked.

Either directly or indirectly, be generous with warm approval of your teen-age child's good points and good intentions. Adolescents are not too old for our praise.

Serkin Finds Beauty in Work of Beethoven

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Desire Defauw, conductor; Rudolf Serkin, pianist. Presented in Orchestra hall Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 23, 1945. The program:
Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro" ..... Mozart
Sinfonia Domestica ..... Strauss
Concerto for Piano, No. 4, G. major ..... Beethoven

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

To many of us, the definitive performance of Beethoven's G-major concerto is likely to remain that gloriously revealing one played, and later recorded, by the Chicago Symphony orchestra with Frederick Stock and Artur Schnabel. Yesterday's, with Rudolph Serkin at the piano and Désiré Defauw at the helm, was a less illuminating story, but often a beautiful one.

Mr. Serkin is certainly one of the better pianists. He has technique, intelligence, and subtleties of mind and spirit that probe into music—remember his "Emperor" a few years ago and his way with the "Hammerklavier"?—but he also has nerves that lie closer to the surface of late, and they sometimes nag him nearer frenzy than brilliance.

Altho much of his performance was extraordinarily beautiful, particularly in the superbly played andante, which had a true sense of communicative style, and tho the concerto as a whole was brushed with the sensitive vitality that is a Serkin asset, it was occasionally marred by forced climaxes admirable only to those who judge an artist by how hard he works.

In general, the accompaniment was rhythmical in a slashing style, but ragged in detail. Like the soloist, it was best in the slow movement, where, after an arrogant opening, it remembered that it was conversing quietly, not making a soapbox harangue. The concert also held some brusque Mozart in the overture to "The Marriage of Figaro" and a repetition of Strauss' "Sinfonia Domestica," recently revived at the midweek concerts.

Those who were unable to buy tickets for Vladimir Horowitz's Orchestra hall recital next Monday night will have another chance when he returns April 2. He will play the first American performance of Prokofieff's Eighth Sonata, recently flown from Moscow.

Goodwill Industries Fund Drive Will Be Topic for Auxiliary

A drive to raise $500,000 for a new home and facilities for the Goodwill Industries will be discussed by Mark A. Brown, treasurer of the Industries and vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, at a luncheon meeting of the organization's woman's auxiliary at 12:30 p. m. Friday in room 819 at 410 S. Michigan av.

The meeting will be of special significance to friends of the Industries, as the organization's building at 2425 S. Wallace st., in which paid, on the job training has been given to Chicago's handicapped for 21 years, has been condemned. According to members, this action comes at a time when need for the Industries service is greatest because of the increase of returning handicapped veterans.

Mrs. Burnett D. Warner is chairman of the auxiliary. Guests at the luncheon will include delegates from the State Federation and affiliated women's clubs, also of church groups. The public also is invited.

Thru the Looking Glass

There are times when the fragrance you want to use is one that refreshes you, that has nothing languid about it, and these are the times when a scent that is a little spicy, a little sweet, but in general rather clean and tangy is just what you need.

One of our favorites in this classification is one of the least expensive you can buy, but it's perfect for the tired business girl, not only because it gives her a lift but because it's in the good taste that is required of her in the way of perfumes.

There is a whole family of bath aids in this spice scent, and you'll find them as useful as they are glamorizing when you want the kind of a bath that relaxes. Make it a 10 minute bath, in water that's warm rather than hot.

Start off with bath salts, a small fistful sprinkled into the dry tub just beneath the faucet. Turn the water on hard so the salts will dissolve and the fragrance permeate the water and the room. Then pop in yourself, and just lie in the water for a full five minutes, with your muscles relaxed and your mind as blank as you can make it.

It's after this that you get vigorous, scrubbing furiously with spice scented soap and a coarse cloth. Rinse in water slightly cooler and have a brisk rub down with a clean, rough towel. Dash toilet water—in the same fragrance—all over your skin, and as a final fillip dust with bath powder. You'll feel ready for anything, and you'll be discreetly, prettily scented for the rest of the day.

It costs very few pennies and even fewer minutes, this spice scented bath, but it does wonders for nerves and morale.

HAWKS HOSTS TO RANGERS IN GAME TONIGHT

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The New York Rangers and the Chicago Blackhawks, those big town rivals for the National Hockey league booby prize, will meet tonight in Chicago Stadium. The Hawks think they are going to win, and if they do they will break a deadlock in their season competition with the Rangers and also will soar to a rating only a game and a half behind the New Yorkers.

Butch McDonald.

It will be the seventh game of 10 scheduled for the teams this season and presents an unusual situation in that each team has won and lost only one game to the other in six played. That is to say the Hawks have won one from the Rangers, the Rangers have won one from the Hawks, and the teams have played four ties. The Hawks' victory was 8 to 3 way back on Nov. 1 and the Rangers' was by 3 to 1 on Dec. 20. The ties were of some variety, 0 to 0, 1 to 1, 3 to 3, and 4 to 4.

Slapped Down in Last Start.

The Rangers will be playing their first game since they ran afoul of the Boston Bruins Sunday night. The Bruins, whom the Hawks had whipped, 4 to 1, the preceding Sunday, slapped down the Rangers, 14 to 3, in the biggest scoring jag of the season.

That wasn't all that happened to the New Yorkers last week. For the first time in 19 years a National Hockey league game couldn't start on time, when the Rangers were 2 hours and 43 minutes late in getting on the rink in Detroit. And, after all their fretting on a slow train, the Rangers were obliged to succumb to a 7 to 3 jolting. All this happened after they had been so happy over winning or tying their first six games in 1945.

Start Talking Rough.

The new Hawks, with their recently increased speed and zeal, have been a little rougher than in their early matches this season, when lethargy sometimes was the watchword. This has offended some of the tough guys on the other teams. The circumstance has emboldened the Hawk propaganda department to send out grudge bulletins for the first time this season. Reference is made to Bob Dill, hair-trigger defense man who is with the Rangers because he was too tough for American league referees to handle.

Dill, a nephew of Pugilists Tommy and Mike Gibbons, is leading the league in penalties, most of them for violent offenses, in some of which he has come out second best, notably when he tangled with Maurice Richard of the Montreal Canadiens. Dill, however, is a good hockey player and also is good enough to play on Mike Kelley's Minneapolis baseball team. He has ambitions, he says, to play on the New York Giants, thus becoming a year 'round New York athlete.

Looks Like Reunion.

After yesterday's Hawk drill in the Stadium, Manager Paul Thompson announced Butch McDonald, injured in Toronto Saturday night, will be able to play tonight. This will give the several branches of the McDonald family extensive representation in the contest, the Rangers having Bucko McDonald and Kilby Macdonald in their starting lineup.

The Alchemy of Love.

As morning tints suffuse the sky
And turn its gray to gold,
So romance steals into the heart
Its wonders to unfold.
It touches up life's shabby face
And leaves no drabness there;
With deft and subtle artistry
Love makes the whole world fair.

Some impetus it adds within,
Some precious worth imparts
To common things. All heaven beams
Upon united hearts.
And happy meanings multiply
In joys together found
For in this bond each finds that love
Still makes the world go 'round.

P. J. Wilson, vice president of the Portsmouth [Va.] city council, would like to know the identity of the author of the following quotation, and so would the Wake:

"On the plains of hesitation bleach the bones of countless millions, who, at the dawn of victory, sat down to rest and resting, died."

Mr. Wilson believes it was taken from one of Robert J. Ingersoll's speeches. Perhaps a Wake reader can help.

NOTRE DAME AND PITT ELEVENS TO MEET OCT. 20

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 23 [Special].—Ed McKeever, acting director of athletics at Notre Dame, today announced that the Irish football team will play the University of Pittsburgh in Pittsburgh on Oct. 20, 1945. This will be the 14th meeting between the two schools since the series started in 1909. Notre Dame has won seven, the Panthers five, and one was a tie.

FRICK REFUSES TO AIR RESULT OF DRAFT TALK

League to Receive Report Feb. 3.

New York, Jan. 23 [Special].—Ford Frick, president of the National league, returned from Washington today with amplified data on the prospects of continuing major league baseball thru '45. He declined to make public the results of his conference with Maj. Gen. Hershey, selective service director, but said he would present a full report to league club owners when they meet in New York Feb. 3.

Frick emphasized that he "did not visit Washington to ask for favors but merely to obtain factual information to present to the club owners."

Told What to Expect.

"I told Gen. Hershey just what information we desired and he responded frankly and honestly. He told us exactly what we could expect under the current rulings. That was all we wanted to know," he explained.

The meeting, held yesterday, was also attended by Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, who undoubtedly will make a similar report to American league owners at their meeting here on the same date.

Hershey's office said he had no comment to make except that it was a "very informal meeting."

NO REPORT FROM FRICK.

Leslie M. O'Connor, chairman of the major league advisory committee, the three man ruling board of baseball, last night said he had received no report from Ford Frick, president of the National league, regarding a meeting with Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director.

Frick, also a member of the advisory committee, and Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators of the American league, met with Hershey to discuss a recent ruling by the army that draft cases of professional athletes must be reviewed before they can be rejected for physical disability.

"So far as I know, Mr. Frick did not act in any official capacity on behalf of baseball," O'Connor said. "He and Mr. Griffith apparently were seeking information. I have not heard from Mr. Frick regarding the meeting with Mr. Hershey."

Will Harridge, president of the American league, said he knew nothing about the conference, adding that Griffith did not act in an official capacity, and that, of course, Frick did not act for the American league. Harridge is the third member of the advisory council that took over the office of the late baseball commissioner, Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

Detroit Beats Boston, 5 to 4; Seibert Stars

Boston, Mass., Jan. 23 (AP).—Earl Seibert scored twice in 36 seconds late in the third period to give the Detroit Red Wings their 13th consecutive National Hockey league victory over the Boston Bruins by a 5 to 4 margin tonight before a 12,000 crowd in the Boston Garden. Both tallies were made while the home forces played shorthanded.

The Bruins, who have not beaten the Wings since Dec. 28, 1943, spotted them two early scores but started the final period with a 3 to 2 lead after scoring three times in almost that many minutes during the second session.

As soon as the third got under way, Seibert led a charge and drove a 45 foot pass that was batted into the Boston cage by Rookie Tony Bukovitch. During the 14th minute Bill Cowley set up a close-up goal for Bill Thoms and again the Bruins appeared to be safe for a triumph.

SENN SENIORS TAKE LEAD IN NORTH SECTION

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

BOX SCORES ON NEXT PAGE.

Senn's Bulldogs yesterday took technical command of first place in the senior side of the City league's north section by defeating Lane on the latter's court, 56 to 44, but not until they were forced to some exercise reminiscent of their victory in the University of Chicago holiday tournament.

The Bulldogs now boast a record of five straight successes in as many league appearances, against four in a row for Von Steuben and Waller, who also are undefeated. Yesterday's defeat was the first league loss for Lane Tech, whose juniors remained in a tie for first place with Waller by trouncing the Senn youngsters, 75 to 29.

Senn Takes Early Lead.

Senn's seniors started out as if they were going to make a runaway of their chore, restraining Lane to six points in the first period while collecting 17 themselves. The Indians then outscored the visitors, 12 to 10, in the second period, so that they were only nine points in arrears at the end of the half.

Baskets by Haag and Kinney brought the home lads within seven points at 29 to 22 in the third period, and again at 37 to 30, but the Bulldogs went to work and scored nine points therefrom to the end of the quarter while holding the Indians to none. From that point to the finish Lane couldn't come closer than the final margin of 12 points.

Murphy, Wulf Lead Attack.

Senn's scoring was well distributed, with Frank Murphy's 15 points and Jack Wulf's 14 leading. Bato Govedarica, who had averaged nearly 21 points per game in previous league contests for Lane, was held to four baskets.

The Lane juniors held quarterly leads of 22 to 6, 33 to 14, and 51 to 19 in winning from Senn. Don Simon, with nine field goals and three free throws, headed the winners' scorers, with Bill Charnota's 18 points being runner-up.

M'PHAIL ENDS ARMY CAREER; PLANS IN DARK

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23 (AP).—Lt. Col. Larry MacPhail, former president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is on his way back to civilian life. A special order for his discharge has been issued Feb. 10, it was learned today from the war department. MacPhail's return to inactive duty will not be for reasons of physical disability.

Lt. Col. Larry MacPhail.

The job MacPhail has been doing for Undersecretary of War Patterson is complete, the war department said. MacPhail handled public relations work on industrial conferences. He took a rigorous army physical examination the last week preparatory to his discharge.

In New York MacPhail insisted today he knew nothing of his reported discharge from the army and would not comment on a Washington report he would leave the service other than to say, "I am on leave until Feb. 10. I cannot say what I am to do after that date."

ILLINOIS FACES UNBEATEN IOWA QUINTET FRIDAY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Only one team, the University of Illinois' Whiz-Kids in 1943, has completed a Western conference basketball season in more than a decade without defeat. This precedent is basis for the belief of Iowa's opponents that the Hawkeyes, now undefeated in four games, will stumble somewhere along the march.

Iowa won its fourth consecutive conference game Monday night and its 10th of the season in beating Indiana, 56 to 51. But Iowa has won three of its Big Nine victories on its home court and consequently has five of its remaining eight games on the road beginning with a trip to Illinois Friday. Other opponents away from home are Indiana, Purdue, Wisconsin, and Minnesota. Teams playing in Iowa City are Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin.

At this writing Iowa has its finest quintet in many years, if not in all of its basketball history. But because of Michigan's great defensive battle against the Hawkeyes—Iowa won, 29 to 27, in the last two minutes—Iowa's offensive average is 47 points. Opponents have averaged 36½ points for four conference games.

Illini to Offer Stern Test.

Iowa's well earned five point victory over the Hoosiers was the result of its ability to outscore a comparatively weak defensive quintet. In three conference games this season both teams scored 50 points or more and Indiana has played in all three and lost two of them. Thus, Illinois obviously will give Iowa a better test because of its defensive merit and the advantage of competition on its home floor.

Victory over Illinois is most important for the Hawkeyes despite their current advantage over Ohio State, defending champion, which lost to Purdue three weeks ago, 37 to 36. In its opening game of the season Dec. 30, Ohio State was forced into overtime to beat Michigan, 44 to 41. Both games were away from home. Since then Ohio State has gained momentum, defeating Michigan, 61 to 47, and gaining revenge against Purdue Monday night in Columbus, 50 to 35.

Unfortunately, the Buckeyes do not play Iowa so there can be no direct test. Northwestern also is not on Iowa's schedule in the program which provides home and home competition with six of eight conference members.

Well Balanced Quintet.

Iowa has a well balanced quintet which does not depend always on Dick Ives, who led the 1944 conference scoring. It has height and an excellent center in Clayton Wilkinson. And, in Murray Wier, Iowa has a dependable substitute. Wier saved the game at Michigan by scoring three times in succession to give the Hawkeyes a 28 to 27 lead. Jack Spencer made the final point of that game by free throw.

Ohio State, with four victories and a defeat by Purdue, does not resume play until Feb. 3. The series

Gloves Activity

FOLLOWING are the Golden Gloves programs in out of town centers this week:

TOMORROW—Evansville [Ind.] Courier, first round.

FRIDAY—Memphis [Tenn.] Commercial-Appeal, fourth round; Indianapolis [Ind] Times, first round; Evansville [Ind.] Courier, second round; Milwaukee [Wis.] Journal, second round.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

The Madison Athletic club, for years a source of excellent material in Chicago Golden Gloves affairs, will have 17 capable representatives in this year's competition for city amateur boxing championships. In the list received yesterday from Robert Howard, the club's boxing trainer, are the names of three of Chicago's 1944 champions, Jack Boyd, winner of the 112 pound open title; Charles Kucharz, 175 pound open champion, and Pete Gorman, 118 pound novice title holder.

Kucharz reached the quarter finals of the 1944 Tournament of Champions where he was eliminated by Roy Standifer of Cleveland, who went on to win the title. Boyd lost to Frank O'Hern of Minnneapolis in the first round of competition in the Stadium.

Entries Close Tonight.

These three boys and John Starbeck, a 135 pounder, compose the open division group, while 13 novices also will try their luck in the north side sectional tournament in Loyola university gymnasium on the nights of Jan. 31 and Feb. 1 and 2. The south side tourney will be held in the St. Sabina gymnasium Jan. 29 and 30. Then the open division champions of the two sections will be matched at Marigold Gardens Feb. 12 for the city championships, the winners to represent Chicago in THE TRIBUNE'S 18th annual Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions in the Stadium on Feb. 26, 27, and 28.

Entries for Chicago's prelude to the nation's biggest boxing show close at midnight tonight, while also in the evening's order of business is another physical examination of boxers at the C. Y. O. gymnasium, 31 E. Congress st. Invitations for examination have been sent to 400 boys and they may put in an appearance between 6:30 and 8 o'clock tonight or Friday night at the same time and place.

Illinois Tech Enters Four.

Illinois Tech, which has entered its better boxers in Golden Gloves for more than a decade, will be represented in the Loyola sectional tournament by Charles Porter and Willis Bicknese, middleweights, and John Newman and Charles Hatstat, welterweights. The entry was made yesterday by Coach Bernard Weissman.

Two of the 27 out of town centers already have swung into action. The Milwaukee Journal's eliminations started last night and the Memphis Commercial-Appeal is preparing to go into its fourth round of competition Friday. Tomorrow the Evansville [Ind.] Courier opens its tournament. Other cities in the vast Golden Gloves area which stretches from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific and from Canada to the Mexican line and the Gulf of Mexico report increasing activity as they make ready for their tournaments.

Soldier Boxers Active.

From the Sioux Falls army air field in South Dakota comes the announcement that two Sioux City, Ia., 1944 Golden Gloves champions still are stationed at the A. A. F. training command a radio school at the field and are confident of returning to the Tournament of Champions. They are Sgt. Lou Kahn, the chubby heavyweight who went to the quarter-finals in Chicago last year, and Staff Sgt. George Birch, who won his opening bout in the light heavyweight division.

Kahn was knocked out in the second round by Orlan Ott, the aviation cadet who went on to win the crown. Birch, a well built Negro lad, will enter the middleweight class this year. Staff Sgt. Phil Shaddy, a former professional boxer who fought out of Omaha, Neb., has 20 prospects working out daily and plans to enter a 10 man team in the Sioux City Journal-Tribune's tournament which will be held Feb. 12, 13, 14, and 15.

MORRIS RETAINS BIG 9 SCORING LEAD WITH 92

Six of Top 10 with Teams in Lower Bracket.

The individual scoring column hardly offers any hint which way the team title wind will blow in the torrid Big Nine basketball race with Max Morris of sixth place Northwestern far in front with 92 points.

In fact, six of the league's top 10 scorers are members of lower bracket contenders, including Michigan's Bob Geahan, who is second with 62 points.

Morris, who has scored 35 field goals and 22 free throws, acquired his 30 point bulge over Geahan in five games, one less than the Wolverine star has played, for an 18.4 average.

60 Points for Wilkinson.

Statistics including Monday night's games show center Clayton Wilkinson as the best point maker for undefeated Iowa with 60 points in four games, good for third place. The former University of Utah star increased his total considerably with a 20 point performance against Indiana Monday.

Fourth with 59 points is Gene Faris of Indiana, which has broken even in four starts. Arnold Risen of once beaten Ohio State and Myrwin Anderson of Purdue's fading Boilermakers [2-4] are tied for fifth at 57.

Don Lund of the eighth place Wolverines slipped from third to seventh place with 53, followed by Bill Gosewehr of Purdue, 51; Paul Huston of Ohio State, 44, and Junior Kirk of Illinois, 43, rounding out the top 10.

Play Illinois Friday.

Altho Purdue is tops in team scoring with 252 points for six games, Indiana has the best average, almost 51 points in a four game total of 203. The pace setting Hawkeyes, however, still boast the best defensive average, yielding only 36.5 points in four games.

The Hawkeyes may have plenty of trouble trying to keep their record unblemished. They still have to tackle Indiana on its own court, which will be a tough assignment in view of Iowa's slim 56-51 win over the Hoosiers at home.

Friday night the Hawkeyes play Illinois [2-1], which has a 48 point average in three games. It will be the first meeting of the two teams this season. Individual scoring leaders:

Gears Oppose Cleveland Pro Five Tonight

A personal scoring duel between Stan Patrick of the Chicago American Gears and Mel Riebe of the Cleveland Transfers is expected to be a side attraction of tonight's game between the two National Basketball league teams in the Coliseum.

Riebe leads the league with 282 points scored in 15 games, Patrick is in third place with 217 points in 14.

The White Liners, the American Gears' feminine five, will play the Boeing B-29 Bombshells in a preliminary game. The first game will start at 8 p. m. with the feature scheduled for an hour later.

A victory for the Gears over the Cleveland team would even the series at two each. The Chicagoans to date have won five against two losses in the Coliseum.

Coach Jack Tierney of the Gears yesterday announced his lineup as Dick Triptow and Stan Patrick, forwards; Vince McGowan, center, and Elmer Gainer and Bill McDonald, guards. For Cleveland the starters will be Riebe and Tom Wukovits, forwards; Don Warnke, center, and Mike Bytzura and Ned Endress, guards.

TENTATIVE CITY LEAGUE INDOOR TRACK DATE SET

Following a year's suspension, the City league indoor track meet probably will be resumed this year, August Pritzlaff, physical education director of the board of education, said yesterday.

Pritzlaff said the meet has been tentatively set for March 31 in the University of Chicago fieldhouse, and stated he was waiting only for the Central A. A. U.'s approval of March 30 as the date for presentation of its annual indoor meet, before making his City league date official.

Pritzlaff said the City league is desirous of coöperating with the A. A. U., stating that if the organizations held their meets on successive dates, there would be a considerable financial saving to each.

PREP COACHES TO PRACTICE FOR GAME ON SUNDAY

BY DAVID CONDON.

North section coaches in the Catholic league will practice in St. Patrick's gymnasium tomorrow night in preparation for their game Sunday night against the south section coaches in Loyola gymnasium.

The game will be a prelude to a north section-south section All-Star contest between high school players selected from the Catholic league schools.

Tony Lawless, Fenwick High school coach, will be in charge of both north section All-Star teams, the coaches, and the preps. John [Hicks] Connolly of Loyola academy, recovering from an emergency appendectomy, will have charge of the south section teams.

Basketball rosters in the City league will look somewhat different after this week, with several of the leading prep stars being graduated as the current semester ends. Particularly hard hit will be Marshall's undefeated seniors, who lose four regulars, including Capt. Bernie Cherney. Joe Sulenski of Kelly is another who will disappear from the scene, while the Lane Tech juniors will lose three veterans. Sulenski played his last game for Kelly yesterday, making 15 points to tie for scoring honors.

The City league has been divided into two sections, north and south, for wrestling competition. The Amundsen High wrestlers defeated New Trier, 21 to 16, at Amundsen yesterday in a practice meet.

With the Suburban league basketball schedule half completed, Dick [Cowboy] Bowman, 6 foot, 2 inch forward on the Morton squad, has scored 35 baskets and 23 free throws for 93 points in five games. He is the leading league scorer with a safe margin over Steve Allen of Waukegan, who has scored 60 points. Waukegan and Morton are tied for first place in the league.

Waukegan's first track meet is scheduled against Harrison of the City league on Feb. 6, Coach O. J. Kudrnovsky has announced. Harrison will have a number of returning veterans, including Francis [Cy] Citek, a miler, and Dick Kalish, a half miler. Bill Bradford will return as a pole vaulter and Bob [Torchy] Toriello and Tom Jenkins will be used in the dashes.

Hawkeye Five Faces Illinois Test Friday

with Illinois and the game in Chicago with Northwestern are high points on the schedule.

Illinois, which divided with Michigan and won from Northwestern, still has excellent title prospects, but the schedule includes Iowa, Ohio State, and a return game with Northwestern.

Badgers Oppose Wildcats.

Wisconsin's excellent showing against Great Lakes, despite loss of two regulars by ineligibility, points to a good contest with Northwestern Saturday night in the second game of the Stadium double header. Ray Patterson, the man the Wildcats fear most, scored 13 points. Gene Mathews, who substituted at forward when Patterson moved to center, scored 11 points.

Marquette and DePaul open the double header Saturday night at 8:15. George Mikan, who has not been stopped by any team this season, can defeat the Hilltoppers almost single handed. But Mikan has been held in control for short periods as when Marquette defeated the Demons last year and Illinois took the first game of its series with DePaul this year.

DePaul may likely lose its second game of the season tonight in St. Paul to Hamline university. The Demons won from the same team last Saturday in the Stadium, 45 to 41. Travel and a foreign floor easily can erase this point margin.

USELESS CURBS HELD THREAT TO BUILDING BOOM

Freedom Required, Says H. U. Nelson.

BY AL CHASE.

Freed of unnecessary restraints —federal, state, municipal, and labor union — and permitted profitable building, the American construction industry will attain the greatest prosperity in its history after war ends, Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said yesterday. Otherwise, there will be no post-war building booms.

Herbert U. Nelson.

Nelson also replied to charges made recently before the Taft senate housing subcommittee concerning alleged defects in the construction system by asserting that American homes were better, less expensively, more quickly built than in any other country in the world. He said the building industry was four times as efficient as 100 years ago.

Advice Termed Ill Founded.

"What the building industry of this country needs, and especially the housing part of it, is not a lot of advice from people who know little about it," said Nelson. "It needs to be freed from all kinds of unnecessary restraints: The endless, detailed, silly local building codes; the impossible local taxes, which make building unprofitable; and the constant interference of trade unions with the use of efficient methods.

"The duplicating tax system of the federal government which takes what is left from the income of real estate after local government has milked it practically dry also is an obstacle and interference either imposed or countenanced by law—local, state, and federal.

"If we could get rid of these, the construction and building industry of our country could blossom as it never has before.

"Burocrats Can't Understand."

"What the burocrats and Washington experts can't understand is that the American people have the 'know how' of doing things better than anybody else in the world. All they need is the chance to do it.

"We don't need to look at the building industry. It is all right. We don't need to worry about our financing system for homes. It is good. What we do need to look at and worry about are the endless interferences of the burocrats, government, and some labor leaders who are misled into foolish actions by their temporary political influence.

"Let's reverse the picture. Let's make it profitable to build, then maybe we'll get somewhere. If this doesn't happen, we will not and cannot have a post-war housing boom."

Takes Longer, Costs More.

The British contractors and workmen take 25 per cent longer to build a small house, Nelson said, and it costs 20 per cent more than for the same or a comparable American product.

Comparisons with other European nations showed similar results, he said. Even in Sweden, which Nelson said was not as socially advanced as generally believed, both contractors and labor appeared to be "inefficient, lazy, and unproductive, with archaic building methods" during a pre-war visit he made.

Nelson declared that not only did the American construction industry lead the world in speed, techniques, and results, but extensive research activities of big American corporations were being carried on more consistently.

Southern Railway Places Common Stock on $3 Basis

Southern railway directors yesterday placed the line's common stock on a $3 annual basis with the declaration out of surplus of a quarterly dividend of 75 cents, payable March 15.

END WAR AGENCIES WITH PEACE, ADVISES LEGISLATIVE GROUP

Liquidation of war emergency agencies within a year after cessation of hostilities was part of a 12 point program offered yesterday for the preservation of small business by the Illinois legislative commission on small business.

The commission, created in the 1943 general assembly and composed of 10 members from the house and senate, said the problem of preserving small business must be solved by a national concerted attack on burocratic controls after the war is ended.

The commission report also recommended:

"Take those vital powers which may decree life or death over private enterprise out of the hands of appointed burocrats and restore them to our elected representatives in congress, where they belong.

"Revert to the constitutional requirements that laws, orders, restrictions, and directives shall be enacted by law instead of by decrees promulgated by burocrats, who are not directly answerable to the people.

"Get rid of, once and for all, the planned economy scheme of nucleus plants, classification of retail stores, grade labeling, and zone distribution."

Contends New Building Will Need No Prod

The building and construction industry will require no artificial government stimulation immediately after the war because of the large potential demand for privately financed home and business structures, Thomas S. Holden, president of the F. W. Dodge corporation, told the Associated Equipment Distributors in the Edgewater Beach hotel yesterday. Other speakers criticized the treasury department's disposal of surplus construction machinery.

Holden said that up to Nov. 30 his company's field staff reported that in its 37 state territory 65,565 projects were contemplated after the war at a total estimated cost of $12,375,490,000. Of these 23,811 were in the designing stage, at a total estimated cost of $5,946,765,000.

First Year's Work Estimated.

Dollar volume of actual new construction in the first 12 months after German resistance ends, however, will likely approximate 1938 volume, $3,197,928,000, because of material, man power and price control problems, he said.

"If I am right in this belief, it is obvious that the public work already planned, if put under contract immediately or soon after the collapse, would tend to crowd out every potential private project on our list," Holden said.

"This is a rigid mathematical interpretation of statistics on plans, but properly viewed it is an illustration of the point that artificial stimulation of public works in the early post-war period can scarcely fail to intensify undue competition with private projects for needed man power and materials."

Surplus Sales Criticized.

Surplus property disposal was criticized by William A. Danner of Boston, Mass. He questioned appraisal methods because, he said, fewer than 500 persons could place the correct value on construction machinery and "these 500 are not working for the government."

"As a whole the business ethics of the treasury procurement section leave much to be desired," he said. "This department over the years knew good business practice, but now it accepts late bids, negotiates after the bids are taken and threatens to take the whole matter away from the industry by throwing the bidding wide open."

PRESIDENT ASKS BROADENED RAIL RETIREMENT ACT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23 (AP).—President Roosevelt has asked early congressional action on legislation liberalizing and expanding the railroad retirement and unemployment insurance acts.

In a letter to Chairmen Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Lea [D., Cal.] of the senate and house interstate commerce committees, the President asked hearings "as soon as possible" on a measure to that end now before the committees. The letter, dated yesterday, was released by the White House today.

Officials of the American Association of Railroads said the legislation at an annual cost of 100 million dollars would raise the retirement tax on employers and employes from 3.25 per cent each to 5.7 and eventually to 6.25 per cent, increase minimum pensions generally from $40 to $50 a month, liberalize disability allowances, increase the limit for payment of unemployment pensions from 20 to 26 weeks and raise the maximum weekly benefit from $20 to $25, and provide sickness, accident, and maternity benefits for women workers.

REDUCE POINTS ON STEAK, MEAT DEALERS URGE

An appeal to Price Administrator Bowles to lower the point value of steaks and raise that of chucks and other lower grade cuts was made yesterday by the National Association of Retail Meat Dealers, who said in a telegram that choice cuts are going begging and deteriorating in butchers' iceboxes because their point value puts them out of reach of the consumer.

The appeal was made by presidents of 79 retail meat dealers' associations meeting in the Hotel Sherman who also asked that a special stamp be designated for butter. Dealers having meat sometimes are unable to sell it because housewives have used their points for butter, they said.

5 Million of Chicago Park District Bonds Are Called

The Chicago park district board yesterday ordered retirement of $5,086,000 of series A, B, C, and D refunding bonds of 1935 at par and interest as of March 1. The remainder of the 6 million dollar total of these series will be called Sept. 1, President Robert J. Dunham said.

STOCK MARKET REGISTERS 5TH STRAIGHT LOSS

Early Rally Fades, Selling Renewed.

New York, Jan. 23 (AP).—The stock market registered its fifth consecutive decline today when a half hearted forenoon recovery move failed and relatively heavy selling of rail and industrial leaders broke out in the final hour of trading.

Light bidding in the morning was attributed to a belief that the recent substantial reaction had discounted to some extent a possible quick Nazi collapse with its resultant transitional problems for business. The rapid Russian drive toward Berlin, however, revived bearish sentiment and early advances were wiped out in many cases.

Trade Expands on Selling.

The ticker tape loafed much of the time until the late selling when it speeded up and total trade reached 1,365,850 shares, compared with 1,467,370 yesterday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off 0.3 at 57.8. Of 948 issues changing hands in the broad trade, 289 rose and 457 declined.

Southern Railway common was ahead more than a point when it was placed on a regular dividend basis, but retained only ⅛ of the gain. Minor improvement was shown by 20th Century Fox as a 42,000 share special offering of this stock was oversubscribed.

RAIL BONDS LOSE GAINS.

New York, Jan. 23 (AP).—A late selling flurry struck the bond market today after the main corporate list had registered substantial recovery during the morning. Numerous rails that had worked up major fractions to more than a point were the first to slip, and many closed with losses as large as their earlier advances. Industrials and utilities were less affected but did not escape the reversal. Trade of $11,875,600 par value compared with $14,499,500 yesterday. All groups in the Associated Press averages were modestly lower except utilities, which held even.

Except for a loss of 1 to 3 points in some new Brazilian issues, foreign dollar bonds improved. Those of Poland and Silesia made progress.

CHICAGO STOCKS RECOVER.

Chicago stocks recovered yesterday on decreased trade. Of 118 issues traded, 60 advanced and only 31 declined. Most active in total turnover of 40,000 shares were Chicago corporation common and Admiral corporation, each up ½; Peabody Coal and Standard Dredging, unchanged, and Aviation corporation, down ⅛. Five issues reached 1944-1945 peaks.

FANCIFUL VIEWS ON FUTURE OF PLANE ASSAILED

Extreme predictions of the future of the airplane were criticized last night by Geoffrey F. Morgan, of Douglas Aircraft company, before the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association in the Palmer house.

Forecasting increased air traffic after the war and that passengers would travel even more safely in greater comfort and at reduced cost, he said the aircraft industry does not believe airplanes ever will be as common as automobiles. By 1950 he estimated the ratio of planes to cars will be about one to 50. The helicopter is still in the experimental stage and stands where the airplane did in 1910, Morgan said.

William G. Nelson, vice president of the Merchants National bank, was elected president of the association to succeed Harry A. Fischer. Other officers elected were: Thomas B. Black, vice president, and Harry H. Salk, secretary-treasurer.

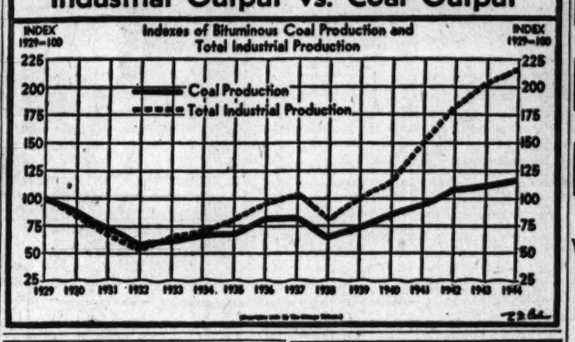
RECEIPTS OF ALL MEAT ANIMALS DECLINE AGAIN

The steady decline in receipts of live stock from farms continued yesterday and some packing plants in various parts of the country cut one day a week from their butchering schedule. Aggregate receipts of cattle, hogs, sheep, and lambs at 20 markets were 4 per cent below the abnormally low total of a week earlier and 29 per cent smaller than the corresponding day in 1944.

Ceiling prices again were paid for nearly all hogs offered in Chicago. The average was unchanged at $14.70.

Steers sold as much as 25 cents higher and other cattle were steady to strong. Lambs maintained Monday's gains and equaled the highest prices of the last seven months.

Industrial Output vs. Coal Output



Embargo Rail Freight Into Stormy East

Emergency embargoes on shipments of civilian freight and bulk grains were ordered yesterday by the office of defense transportation in an attempt to alleviate a railroad traffic jam in northeastern states, the Association of American Railroads announced.

The transportation tie-up was attributed to the most prolonged severe weather conditions in many years. The interstate commerce commission was coöperating with the ODT and the A. A. R. in the program, granting diversion and rerouting privileges to railroads operating in the affected area.

Embargoes Expire Sunday.

The two embargo orders expire Sunday and the diversion order on Feb. 20.

Altho listing certain exceptions, embargo order No. 35 provides that "railroads will not place cars for loading carload or less-carload freight consigned, reconsigned, or intended for a destination in the United States" east of Chicago, Springfield, and East St. Louis, Ill., and north of the Ohio river.

The exceptions include: Carload and less-carload freight originating in Canada consigned to embargoed territory via interchange points east of Lake Ontario; carload and less-carload freight originating within the embargoed territory; live stock and live poultry; fresh or frozen meats; coal and coke; goods consigned direct to ports for export; products loaded in tank cars; traffic moving on government bills of lading; and traffic moving on commercial bills of lading consigned to army or navy ordnance plants.

Bulk Grains Embargoed.

Embargo No. 37 affects all shipments of bulk grains originating in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan "when consigned, reconsigned, or intended for destinations east of a line extending thru, but not including, Toledo, Columbus, and Cincinnati."

The ICC service order directs railroads operating in Illinois, Indiana, lower Michigan, Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, New York, and the New England states to forward freight traffic by routes most applicable to expedite movement and prevent congestion without regard to shippers' or carriers' routing.

PRICES OF GRAIN LOWER ON MORE GAINS BY ALLIES

Grain traders construed yesterday's war news as favorable for an earlier end of hostilities in Europe and a wave of liquidation developed in futures, particularly in wheat.

Wheat broke 1⅞ to 3⅜ cents a bushel from the early high with December selling at a new seasonal low. Closing trades in wheat were near the bottom at losses of 1⅛ to 2⅜. Corn declined ¼ to ⅝, oats 1 to 1⅛, rye 1½ to 1⅝, and barley 1 to 1⅛.

Short covering was responsible for early firmness in grain futures. At one time deferred deliveries of wheat were up 1 cent from Monday's close. At the low wheat futures were 7⅛ to 9⅜ below the recent high.

Pontiac to Make Assault Rockets on Navy Contract

Pontiac Motor division of General Motors corporation will produce 5 inch, high velocity assault rockets under a new navy contract, H. J. Klinger, general manager of the division and G. M. vice president, said yesterday. Pontiac will produce the entire rocket with the exception of the nose fuse and the explosive charge.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

ATLAS $3 PREFERRED.

I note Atlas corporation $3 cumulative preferred stock sells at prices to yield about 5.25 per cent. What is its background?—C. T.

Atlas corporation is registered with the securities and exchange commission as a nondiversified investment company. Its operations differ from those of many other investment companies in that it invests heavily in special situations.

Forty per cent of its total net assets as of June 30, 1944, was represented by investments in five companies, with the largest commitments in Radio-Keith-Orpheum and Ogden corporations. Total net asset values, after dropping from $227 a preferred share in 1936 to $126 in 1941, had recovered to $196 as of last June 30. Net investment income, exclusive of losses or profits on sales of securities, has recently been on the upgrade.

In the first half of 1944 net investment income was equal to $4.01 a share on the 343,734 preferred shares of $50 par value, compared with $3.30 in the same period of the preceding year. For calendar years, investment income per preferred share was: 1943, $6.92; 1942, $1.45; 1941, $2.49; 1940, $2.38; 1939, 2½ cents. The regular $3 preferred dividend has been paid each year since 1929, charged in part to capital surplus. The stock is callable at $55 a share.

The company apparently conducts its operations without borrowing. If investment income can be maintained at or near the 1943 level, the investment status of the preferred stock presumably would be enhanced. It has been the announced policy of the management, however, at times "to select securities for profit and not for income."

BRITISH PLAN 2 RECONVERSION LENDING UNITS

Would Underwrite Industry Needs.

LONDON, Jan. 23 (AP).—Creation of two large lending companies to finance post-war conversion and production requirements of British industry has been proposed by banking and financial interests with government approval, John Anderson, chancellor of the exchequer, told commons today.

The larger of the two companies proposed for post-war needs, Anderson said, would underwrite temporary or long term needs of big companies. It would be named the Finance Corporation for Industry, Ltd., and would have a capital of 100 million dollars and a borrowing power four times as large.

Sources of Capital Told.

The capital would be subscribed in approximately equal parts by insurance companies, investment trust companies, and the Bank of England, with loan funds subscribed by clearing banks and Scottish banks.

The second would be the Industrial and Commercial Finance Corporation, Ltd. It would provide medium and long term loans of $20,000 to $800,000 for small and medium sized business. The capital would be subscribed by clearing and Scottish banks, with a token subscription by the Bank of England. The capital proposed was 60 million dollars, with borrowing power twice as large.

Seek to End Double Taxation.

Anderson also said Britain and the United States were considering definite proposals for a treaty to end double taxation. The proposals were based on official discussions begun a year ago and completed recently, he explained.

Britain's war time cash advances to allied countries outstanding Dec. 31 totaled $1,230,776,000, the chancellor reported. The total eventually will be reduced considerably when the application of lend-lease agreements effected last year with some allies cancels the cash charge for military equipment already advanced.

People and Events

The nominating committee of the Bond Club of Chicago will submit officer and director nominations to members Feb. 8 in the Blackstone hotel, George F. Spaulding, president, said yesterday. The nominations include Julien H. Collins, of Harris, Hall & Co., for president; Paul L. Mullaney, of Mullaney, Ross & Co., for secretary; and Lee H. Ostrander, of William Blair & Co., for treasurer. Six directors will be elected.

Charles F. Duggan, superintendent of the Illinois Central railroad's Iowa division, has been promoted to assistant general manager with headquarters in Chicago, Wayne A. Johnston, general manager, announced. He will be succeeded by C. J. Fitzpatrick, superintendent of the Springfield division, who will be succeeded by E. H. Hallman, trainmaster at Waterloo, Ia. John L. Beven Jr., son of the late president, John L. Beven, will become trainmaster at Kankakee, succeeding E. J. Brossean who will move to Waterloo.

Elmer E. Gordon was appointed general passenger agent at Chicago for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, a position formerly held by the general traffic manager, H. R. Sampson. The company also announced the promotion of H. H. Zeller to superintendent of dining car service to succeed L. A. Stone, who retired.

Dorothy M Carr was elected assistant secretary of the Metropolitan Trust company, Barnet L. Rosset, president, said. Miss Carr will head the women's department pertaining to trust matters in addition to her general duties.

The Illinois Motor Truck Operators' association will hold its annual dinner in the Stevens hotel at 7:30 p. m. Saturday. More than 2,000 persons will attend.

NEW STANDARD FIRE POLICY UP TO LEGISLATURE

A new standard fire insurance policy eliminating many technicalities of the present contract will go before the Illinois legislature at this session with the backing of the state insurance department, James C. O'Connor, associate editor of National Underwriter, told the Insurance Brokers' Association of Illinois yesterday in the Chicago Board of Underwriters' auditorium.

O'Connor said the new policy went into effect in New York in 1943 and since has been put in force in 26 states. It covers fire caused by riot, which present contracts exclude, and does not become void if the building collapses. It also drops the present burdensome conditions regarding ownership of the property insured, O'Connor said.

The new policy is only about half as long as the old and is much easier to read and understand, he said. The present Illinois standard policy, commonly called the 1918 New York form, was made mandatory in Illinois in 1938.

The authorization included $6,476,275 for the Missouri-Pacific and $1,163,960 for the International-Great Northern and $1,467,480 for the New Orleans, Texas and Mexican railroad, both Missouri-Pacific subsidiaries.

Act to Obtain More Transit Line Workers

Direct action, expected to relieve in some measure the acute labor shortages that are crippling Chicago's local transportation systems, was taken yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission and the city administration.

Major developments were:

1. The commission instructed the surface, elevated, and bus lines to file with the war man power commission requests for higher priorities in the hiring of help.

Relaxed Work Curb Asked.

2. Mayor Kelly and other city officials approved this move and recommended that the state labor department permit relaxation of rules limiting trainmen to a six day week. The mayor also gave the companies permission to recruit city policemen and firemen for work on their days off.

The commerce commission order was issued after representatives of transportation agencies reported that poor service resulted primarily from lack of workers, many of whom are quitting to work in war plants. The surface lines are short about 1,000 trainmen and the Chicago Motor Coach company needs 150 bus drivers to maintain service standards, their representatives said.

A conference of the transportation companies and the federal regulating bodies, including the office of defense transportation, was called immediately after the city had asked the commerce commission to use its powers to get better transportation for Chicagoans.

Employer Must Move First.

At this meeting Atty. David Cohen, speaking for William H. Spencer, regional man power director, said that none of the companies involved had asked for a higher labor priority except the surface lines, whose request is being considered. The initiative must come from the affected employers, he said. John D. Biggs, chairman, and other commerce commissioners then issued their order.

The mayor appeared at a later meeting in the offices of Philip Harrington, city commissioner of subways and local ODT administrator. He said that the transit situation was bad, that passengers were "packed in like sardines," and that something should be done about it. His suggestion to hire policemen and firemen in off time was termed helpful by E. J. McIlraith, acting surface lines manager.

At each meeting the employment of women was discussed. The company men implied they considered it impractical to use them as conductors or bus drivers, and that it was unlikely they could be persuaded to take the jobs. The WMC is expected to take the opposite view.

All the companies at the ODT meeting agreed to file their man power priority requests with WMC not later than Monday.

FRENCH PLAN PROCEEDS

BY ROBERT SAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 23.—The fourth and final stage of France's monetary purge is expected early in February.

News that all except two members of the government voted for the program of Finance Minister Rene Pleven and that the resultant resignation of Philippe Mendes-France, minister of national economy, was prevented by the arbitration of Gen. de Gaulle was interpreted to foreshadow completion of the country's financial program. This long had been delayed by the divergence of views between Pleven and Mendes-France.

What form the final monetary action will take has aroused wide conjecture again. Pleven's favorite instruments are loans and taxes and he already has hinted subscribers to the liberation loan will have other reasons besides the 3 per cent interest for rejoicing.

Blocking of bank and postal savings accounts is not expected but most observers are convinced that some form of exchange of banknotes is inevitable, probably at par. The plan would smoke out rich hoarders and make notes taken by the Germans valueless.

I. T. & T. HOLDING IN SPAIN SET AT ABOUT 70 MILLION

New York, Jan. 23 (AP).—Negotiations under way for sale by International Telephone and Telegraph company of its Spanish telephone subsidiary to Spanish interests involve about 70 million dollars, it was learned today.

The company's statement of Dec. 31, 1943, showed $28,012,880 was invested in securities of Spanish properties, and $43,266,855 in receivables, a total of $71,279,735. Earlier this month 5 million dollars in earnings of the Compania Telefonica Nacional de Espana was released to I. T. & T. by the Spanish government.

Under the contract of Aug. 29, 1924, by which I. T. & T. took over the government operated telephone company, the Spanish government after 20 years could reclaim the properties by repaying investments plus a premium.

TAX PROGRAM TO AID SMALL PLANTS URGED

Excess Profits Levy Deferment Asked.

A tax program designed to help small businesses during the reconversion after the war was approved by trustees of the National Small Business Men's association at a two day meeting in the Palmer House, De Witt Emery, president, said yesterday.

DeWitt Emery.

The group recommended immediate amendment of the tax laws to provide deferment of corporation excess profits taxes to the extent they are offset by expected tax credits and an increase in the exemption on excess profits from $10,000 to $25,000. For the more distant future they proposed general revision of taxes affecting business and the elimination of tax exemptions given coöperatives.

Many to Be in Poor Condition.

"Our attention has been drawn to the fact that many small manufacturers will be in bad financial condition when their war contracts are ended," Emery said. "The cases of some will be hopeless. Many of these small companies have piled up big tax liabilities and invested heavily in inventories and equipment, including machinery.

"Many of these companies will have heavy reconversion costs and many will not be in a position to borrow from banks while they have uncompleted contract terminations.

"To avoid a depression it is essential that these companies maintain their pay rolls. We believe that one way to retain necessary capital in a small business is to allow companies to defer payments on excess profits taxes in an amount equal to estimated tax credits. Under the present law excess profits taxes must be paid at once as they come due. It would take probably several years to get a refund on the tax credit.

Seeks Opportunity to Grow.

"Under the tax deferment proposal companies would operate on funds which would come back to them as tax credits several years in the future. As it now stands many small companies actually are operating on funds which they have accumulated for income taxes. The fact that they have one customer—the government—with a grade A credit rating makes this possible."

Emery said that raising the excess profits exemption from $10,000 to $25,000 would give small business the opportunity to grow that all companies had up to eight years ago by reinvesting their earnings. He said that the trustees hold that there should be no income taxes on business. Whatever business pays in income taxes it collects from its customers—the public. He said that business should not be a tax collector for the government; that such taxes as are now hidden in income taxes should be brought out in the open and collected directly by the government from individuals.

Criticizes Wallace Selection.

Emery said the trustees took no action regarding the naming of Henry Wallace to be secretary of commerce which would put him in charge of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

"I personally think that the appointment was one of the poorest ever made by this administration which has not been noted for good appointments," he said. "If Wallace is approved by the senate, everything of a financial character should be taken out of the department."

ELECTRIC SIGN MAKERS CHARGE DISCRIMINATION

The electricity and fuel saving brownout ordered in effect Feb. 1 by WPB will cause a big hardship on manufacturers of electric signs, spokesmen for the industry said yesterday at a meeting of the National Electric Sign association in the Palmer House. Because of the small output permitted under restrictions on production, the companies have been forced to rely largely on maintenance and repairing for a war time income.

"We will coöperate fully, but we do think we are being discriminated against and that the government should go 'all-out' in this if the necessity for saving coal is as real as they say," one representatives of the industry said.

"We think that when the WPB permits night baseball, softball, and night indoor sports we are being unduly discriminated against for, outside the utility industry, we are the only other industry affected."

GROCER AGREES TO PAY $3,475 IN OPA PRICE SUIT

Federal District Judge Campbell yesterday entered a consent judgment for $3,475 damages in an OPA suit charging that Economy Wholesale Grocers, 923 W. Randolph st., exceeded ceiling prices in its cash and carry wholesale grocery business.

OPA also filed suit asking a treble damages judgment of $4,681 against J. F. Bambas & Co., wholesale tobacco and candy dealer at 1657 Blue Island av., for alleged overcharges on sales of cigarets and candy.

BANKS BUY BIG NEW YORK CITY ISSUE OF BONDS

New York City yesterday sold 75 million dollars of serial bonds to the Chase National bank, the National City bank and associates on a bid of 100.033 for an over-all interest rate of 1.8737 per cent. Proceeds will be used for the construction of a new airport in Queensborough, for rapid transit improvements and other purposes.

The interest rate was the lowest the city has obtained on a large issue except one of $14,740,000 last August, which sold for a rate of 1.65 per cent. Bankers reoffered the bonds at varying prices according to maturities.

COUNCIL STARTS CRACK DOWN ON FIRE VIOLATORS

'Didn't Know How to Use Extinguisher': Clerk.

A city council subcommittee, appointed last week to investigate the General Clark hotel fire on Jan. 16, took steps yesterday to crack down on flagrant violators of the city building code, as a six man jury heard a night clerk at the hotel testify at an inquest in the city morgue that he could have extinguished the fire which claimed 14 lives if he had known how to operate the fire extinguisher. The jury returned a verdict that all 14 deaths were accidental.

Meeting in the city hall, the subcommittee, headed by Ald. Duffy [19th], ordered the building commissioner and the fire department each to submit a list of six "flagrant violations" of the city code by Thursday, when the group will visit the buildings in which alleged violations have been made.

Test Cases to Be Sought.

Ald. Duffy explained the committee would be accompanied by First Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph Grossman, who will provide legal advice as to whether the city can close buildings immediately and file charges against the owners. Test cases of the violations will be sought, he added.

During a resumption of inquest proceedings yesterday, Perry Rosenberger, clerk at the hotel, 217 N. Clark st., testified that he found flames waist high in the storeroom, just off the lobby, but that neither he nor James J. Kostner, 68, a guest sitting in the lobby, knew how to use the extinguisher hanging there.

Ran From Building.

He said he ran outside the building, where he met Harry Brown, Negro bellhop of 2673 Washington blvd., whom he told to turn in the alarm at the Clark and Lake sts. box.

Fire Marshal Mullaney said that the alarm evidently had been delayed because the fire had reached such headway by the time firemen arrived that as Chief Burton A. Erickson of the 1st battalion entered the lobby he was lifted off his feet and blown out the door by a gust of smoke from the fiercely burning interior.

Reporting that the hotel had been inspected and approved only a week before the fire, Building Commissioner Paul Gerhardt Jr. said his office had undefined means of action against such buildings which were constructed before the present building code was enacted and which do not conform to that code.

Powerless to Act.

He explained further that because of the nonretroactive feature of the code he was powerless to take action. Noting this part of the testimony, the jury recommended that the code be made retroactive to cover all structures, regardless of when they were built, and suggested that automatic and manual fire alarms be installed in all hotels.

Clarence Mason, Philadelphia, Pa., told the jury that when he and his wife escaped down the corridor from their room, they noticed that the exit light was out.

Earlier, two more victims were identified by relatives, making a total of 11 bodies now claimed. Mrs. Mildred Oucher, 6642 Maryland av., identified her estranged husband, Rudolph B. Oucher, 40, and Dr. G. C. Weeks, 320 S. State st., identified Thaddeus Van Horn, 44, a specialty salesman whose residence was unknown to Dr. Weeks.

COURT TO RULE FEB. 2 ON 5 CENT BUS FARE LAW IN EAST CHICAGO

Bus drivers of the Chicago and Calumet Transit company continued to collect 10 cent fares in East Chicago, Ind., yesterday, pending a court ruling on a city ordinance reducing the fare to 5 cents.

Trial of Norman Abbott, 17839 Commercial av., Lansing, and Leamon Babb, 467 Truman av., Hammond, two bus drivers arrested Friday on a technical charge of collecting a 10 cent fare, was continued yesterday to Feb. 2 by Judge Thomas W. Callahan in East Chicago City court.

Lloyd J. Cohen, attorney for the company, told the court that the city council lacks power to order fare reductions and contended that the power rests with the Indiana public service commission.

The city countered that the bus line is operating under a 1925 franchise from the city of Hammond and has no franchise to use East Chicago streets.

All capital stock of the company was purchased in February, 1943, by Marshall Field III., reportedly in an effort to offset losses from a Chicago publishing enterprise.

BETS ARE OFF; BOOKIES BEGIN TO PULL STAKES

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Since horse racing was suspended in the United States Jan. 3 and interest in it centered in tracks at Havana, Cuba, Mexico City, and Agua Caliente, Mexico, numerous Chicago handbook operators have turned from gambling to legitimate business.

Two were found operating delicatessen stores, and said they were doing fine. A survey by Tribune reporters showed another had gone into the manufacture of seat covers. A fourth said his business in corrugated paper boxes was beginning to show signs it will bring him more than he ever earned in his years as a bookie. A half dozen others were running taverns.

Policy Games Flourish.

Several of the tavern operators said they had "taken an end" in taverns on the south side, and were keeping an eye on the policy games now flourishing there more than ever as a result of the slump in hand books.

Most of the bookies still operating said their business had fallen off about 90 per cent. In one big book outside the city limits where before the ban at least 200 customers would be assembled by the time the first race was run, only about a dozen were found.

"Why Bet?" He Asks.

Two of the remaining employes sat at a table playing gin rummy. Two others were trying to drum up a few bets. But the customers showed little interest.

"Why bet?" one commented. You can buy the race, the horse, the jockey, and all for $200."

One of the employes explained that the customer referred to rumors of fixed racing on the foreign tracks, and the poor odds being paid. By yesterday, however, some of the book makers said the odds were "perking up a little" at all three tracks.

Loop operators reported business "almost dead." One of the largest of the downtown operators said the "take" in one of his places which in former days ran as high as $3,000 a day had fallen to about $125.

Feel the Pinch, Too.

Outlying books were feeling the pinch, too. One southwest side operator said his business of about $300 a day had fallen to an average of $22 for the three or four days the foreign races are run.

A curbstone operator complained that his "handle" had fallen from $150 to about $12 a day.

Some of the bookies talked of trying to lure bettors with free coffee and sandwiches, cigarets, or even free beer. They were not too optimistic, however, about the results.

SHORTAGE OF SHIRTS SALIENT SCARE TO CIVILIAN SEEKERS

Men's shirts, particularly white ones, will be the newest war time shortage, manufacturers and retailers of men's furnishings said yesterday.

One salesman in a loop department store said a customer who visited every store along State st. was unable to buy a white shirt of the proper size. A survey of several stores indicated that stocks are very low and usually of broken sizes.

Manufacturers and retailers said there are two principal reasons: First, an increasing demand for army and navy shirts, taking almost 65 per cent of the output under a recent requisition; second, large lease-lend shipments to liberated countries. To produce a dozen flannel shirts for the army, they pointed out, takes the time and machinery that would make a dozen and a half broadcloth shirts.

Hungry Rabbits a Plague in S. Victoria, Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 23.—Southern Victoria is suffering the worst plague of rabbits experienced countrymen can remember. Driven from the drought country in the north by lack of feed, rabbits are described as moving in hordes. Farmers fear that unless the rabbits are trapped or poisoned they will ruin their spring pastures.

TUITION BOOST NECESSARY, SAYS N. U. PRESIDENT

Increase in tuition rates at Northwestern university is made necessary by current low interest rates on investments, Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, president, said yesterday in a letter to Mort Nasatir, chairman of the student governing board, and Joan Wagner, managing editor of the Daily Northwestern, student newspaper.

His letter was in reply to a list of 10 questions submitted by the student governing board after announcement of the proposed tuition increase, which, in some instances, would amount to $64 a year. The letter said the increased income will be used to increase faculty salaries and to make educational improvements of considerable value to the students.

Dr. Snyder denied that there is any contractual obligation on the part of the university to maintain tuition at a fixed rate because the university always has advised students that tuition rates are subject to change without notice.
